With the new volume, beginning in December, HARPER'S MAGAZINE will conclude its thirty fifth year. The oldest periodical of its type, it is yet. in each new volume, a new mag azine, not simply because it presen's, fre-h subjects and new pi tures, but also, and chiefly, because it steadily advances in the method i'se'f of magaz'ne making. In a word, the Magazine becomes more the faithful mirror of current life and movement. Leading features in the attractive programme for 1885 are: new serial novels by Constance Fenimore Woolson and W D Howells; a new novel entitled "At the Red Glove;" descriptive illustrated papers F D Millett, R Swain Gifford, E A Abbey, H Gibson, and others; Goldsmith's "She Stoeps to 'onquer." illustrated by Abbey; important papers on Art, Science, etc.

A STORY OF FAITH.

A rustle of robes as the anthem

Soared gently away on the air-The Sabbath morn's service was over. And briskly I stepp d down the stair; When, clos in a haif-illum'd corner, down, Asleep crouched a tender, wee maiden, With bair like a shadowy crown.

Quite puzz ed was I by the vision, But gently to wake her I spoke,

With one little gasp straight awoke angel?

She answered with voice like a bell: I tum tos I've dot a sick mamma, well!"

We tummed when you ringed the big And ev'ry time I'se heard you prayin'

For lots o' sick folks to dit well."

Together we knelt on the stairway As humbly I asked the Great Power To give back her health to her mother, And banish bereavement's dark hour. I finished the simple petition,

And paused for a moment-and then A sweet little voice at my elbow Lisped softly a gentle "Amen!"

Hand in hand we turned our steps him to keep the card. homeward;

The little maid's tongue knew no rest; She prattled and mimicked and caroled-

The shadow was gone from her breast; And lo! when we reached the fair dwel-

They listened, amazed at my story, And wept o'er their darling's strange quest,

While the arms of the pale, loving mother Drew the brave little head to her

Traveling "Incog."

A retired humorist one day ventured into a cotton mill and while in an unguarded moment he was perpetrating some of his old and shopworn jokes upon an innocent operative, he was drawn into some of the ponderous gear ing and dreadfully crushed. They combed him out of the machinery after a spell and spread the effects on the floor. "Who is it?" "Who is it?" was the anxious inquiry as the crowd gathered around. Nobody knew. Then the humorist slowly opened his eyes and moved his lips. A sympathizing bystander bent down his ear. "There is good reason why nobody recognizes me," the humbrist whispered paintuily. Randolph's Death

The last days of John Randolph, of Roanoke, are full of pathos Hathought he was dying for years before he did so and when he was asked how he was he would reply: "Dying! dying! dying!" He was tyrannical and dictatorial until the last, and he tought with his doctor on his death-bed over the pronunciation of certain words. His death occurred Where the tall pulpit's stair way came in a Philadelphia hotel. A few minutes before he died the doctor wanted to leave him, but Randolph objected, and his slave took the key, locked the door and put the key in his pocket.
