The Daily Review has the largest bona fide circulation of any newspaper published in the city of Wilmington.

Having successfully tried malaria and the eucalyptus tree as a remedy for it, in Southern California, the inhabitants are cutting down the eucalyptus and going back to malaria as a lesser evil.

A solid silver balustrade, which had stood in one of the Mexican churches since the time of Cortez, was torn down not long ago and taken to the mint, producing over sixty thousand silver dollars.

It is stated that railroads under control of the French government earned a gross revenue last year of $3,000,000 per mile and $300 net, the cost being $100,000 per mile. This result was reached on a higher scale of charges than the average on the trunk system of the United States.

According to San Francisco papers ticket speculators have not reaped the harvest anticipated by the production of grand opera in that city. At times they have been compelled to sell their tickets at a great sacrifice, while the license of $100 a month, which they are compelled to pay, has helped to swell their losses.

The Enterprise, Kansas, Anti-Monopolist, has been overhauling its American history, and remarks excitedly:—"The Declaration of Independence was signed by fifty-six farmers and mechanics. The signature of no banker, railroad king, millionaire monopolist, or even lawyer, disgraced that sacred document."

A British drama association has been started in England with a capital of $500,000. It is formed to procure and produce on the stage the highest class of original dramatic works. The shareholders are urged in the prospectus to come into the good thing on the ground that a young author has realized as much as $50,000 by one melodrama alone.

The English university constitencies include the whole mass of graduates who choose to keep their names upon the books; the lawyers and the physicians, the 'squires and the parsons, the bankers, merchants and writers—men of every trade and of every rank in educated England. Oxford has 5,400 such electors and Cambridge about a thousand more.

The health report of St. George's, Hanover square, London, for the year ending in March, 1884, only lately published, gives the death rate at 15.78 per 1,000, which is much below the average for ten years. Of the sub-districts Mayfair has the lowest death rate and also the lowest birth rate, and Belgrave the highest in both instances. The mean duration of life in St. George's parish has increased by nine years since 1875.

The grand jury of Coweta county, Fla., is "mortified to find that the sale of spirituous liquors in our county has been far in excess of the necessary wants of the people for medical purposes," and it further asks the Legislature to amend the law that "each licensed druggist be required to advertise once a month in a newspaper published in the county the names of all persons who purchased liquors during the previous month, and the quantity purchased by each."

The depopulation of France has been receiving much attention from the Paris savants. Mr. Lunier proposes that the Government take legal steps to facilitate marriages, to search out the paternity of infants, to accord prizes or immunity from taxation to parents having more than two children, to guarantee secrecy to any mother who may wish to leave her child at a foundling hospital, and to extend the protection of the State to all children "morally abandoned." Since the year 1800 the French birth rate has fallen from 32.9 to 25.5 per 1,000 inhabitants.

It was recently rumored that Sarah Bernhardt, the patriot, was about to accept German gold; and the Voltaire went so far as to say that a certain Herr Scherenberg had declared that she had promised to appear at the Victoria Theatre in Berlin. Boiling over with indignation, the great actress took up her pen, and wrote to the editor of the Voltaire: "Sir: I deliberately give the lie to Herr Scherenberg, the manager of the Victoria Theatre. I never promised to play in Berlin; and I am astonished to find that a French journalist is capable of putting such an insult into print."

A lawsuit is likely to arise out of the Mackay-Colonna wedding in Paris. The jealousy of Paris dressmakers has been aroused by the fact that the mother of the Princess chose Madame Arnand, an obscure dressmaker living in the Rue Bassano, to make the trousseau, bridal dress and every other adjunct of toilet for the great ceremony. A confusion of names having arisen, the lucky dressmaker has resolved to enter an action against any Paris house of fashion giving itself out as a claimant to the honor of having clothed the wondrous group which knelt at the altar of the Naucio's Chapel on the 14th of last month.

Mr. Amos T. Atwater, Secretary of the National Cattle Association, who has been making a tour of Texas, estimates the loss of cattle there this season at from three to five per cent. The closing of the old trail north will compel the owners to throw much of their surplus stock on the market, which will depress the price of beef. The Texan ranchers are overstocked. Last year at this time over $1,000,000 worth of contracts were held by Texas ranchmen, but this year not a dollar, owing to the closing of the trail. Mr. Atwater thinks the day of free grazing in Texas is about over. In the near future stock raisers will have to pasture their herds on their own lands and cultivate ground enough for fodder to carry their cattle through the winter.

Four Lives Saved.
Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup relieved four of my children of a most alarming attack of Whooping Cough, from which their throats and necks became so swollen as to prevent them from swallowing. Nothing would give them even temporary relief, until this Syrup was tried. One bottle in one night, saved their lives. I verily believe.
GEO. W. EARHART,
Captain of Police, Baltimore, Md.

The receipts of cotton at this port to-day foot up 8 bales.

Send your old suits to Dyer's and have them properly cleaned, dyed and pressed.

The nineteenth annual ball of the Hibernian Benevolent Association will be given at Germania Hall on Monday night, April 6th. It will be a splendid affair, with elegant music, nice refreshments and plenty of opportunity for dancing. See adv. in another column.

Services will be held at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, in English, every afternoon at 4 p. m. from to-day until Good Friday. On Good Friday morning at 11 a. m. German Communion, and at 8 p. m. a class of 11 will be confirmed, the services being conducted in English.

From Paralysis

Sophia Singletary, colored, who lived in the Northern portion of the city near Messrs. Chadbourne's mill, was stricken speechless with paralysis last Saturday night. She lingered until about 4 o'clock this morning when she died. She was about 70 years of age.

A Bad Place.

The gutter at the Southwest intersection of Fourth and Walnut streets is in a bad condition, and should be looked after. The rain of yesterday morning ran down on the South sidewalk of Walnut street for a considerable distance, as there was no gutter on the edge of the street by which it could be carried away.

Baptist Convention.

The Southern Baptist Convention will meet in Augusta, Ga., on the 6th of May next, and we learn that ample preparations for the accommodation and entertainment of this large and most important assembly of the Baptist church in the South are actively in progress. Rev. Dr. Pritchard and probably others of this city will attend.

We observe quite a fine display of new Revolvers for very reasonable prices, at Jacob's Hardware Depot.

TWO OUTRAGEOUS ATTEMPTS AT ARSON.

A Vigilance Committee Needed—A Disastrous Fire Fortunately Prevented—The Incendiary Seen and Shoots at one of his Intended Victims and Then Escapes.

At about 4 o'clock this morning Capt. James I. Metts, who lives on Red Cross street, between Second and Third, was awoke by his brother, Mr. Fred. Metts, and informed that the house was on fire. Capt. Metts immediately ran out and discovered that the lattice work on the rear part of his house was in flames and that they were working rapidly towards the eaves of the building. He told his brother to throw on a bucket of water and he would attach his hose to the hydrant. A bucket or two of water extinguished the flames and a stream through the hose soon put out all the sparks, and the danger was over, so far as his house was concerned. While putting out the fire on his own house Capt. Metts discovered that the lattice work on Col. B. R. Moore's house, which stands in an adjoining lot, was also on fire, but that it went out in a moment or two without assistance from any one; probably because it had been carelessly lighted. Capt. Metts, when the fire had been put out, started to notify Col. Moore, when his brother told him that as the fires were undoubtedly the work of an incendiary, he had better take his pistol, as a man who was mean enough to set a house on fire would be mean enough to shoot, but the Captain went without his weapon. Upon going into the street Capt. Metts saw a tall colored man standing upon the corner of Red Cross and Third sts., but in the darkness the features of the latter could not well be defined. Capt. Metts asked the colored man to come to him, but the latter refused, whereupon the former said that he would see who it was and started across the street, when the colored man ran. Chase was given with shouts of stop him! stop this! etc., when the fugitive turned and fired a pistol shot and then in the darkness made his escape. It was very cold and Capt. Metts had on but little clothing, or the scamp would not have escaped so easily. Notice of the affair was conveyed to the City Hall and a policeman was sent to the neighborhood, but there was no further cause for alarm.

We very much regret that Captain Metts did not heed his brother's advice and take his pistol with him, and we are aware that he also regrets it now, when it is too late. There is an immense amount of lawlessness in the city. Chicken thieves, burglars or incendiaries furnish matter for comment and alarm almost daily, and the time has come when the people must feel safer in the enjoyment of their homes and property. We do not believe that the number who perpetrate these crimes is large, but they are bold and determined, and their freedom from the legitimate consequences of such outrages has added to their courage and seemed to awaken an ambition to see how lawless they can become. Either an extra police force or a vigilance committee is imperatively demanded.

Death of Capt. Brunke.

Capt. H. A. Brunke, the artist, died this morning at his residence, No. 108 Fourth street, between Dock and Orange. He was about 47 years of age, and has been an invalid for many months. His obsequies will be held at 4 o'clock to-morrow afternoon at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, the services being in English and German.

Confederate Relief Bazaar.

A Bazaar for the relief of needy Confederate soldiers and their families will be held in Baltimore next week, commencing on Tuesday and continuing throughout the week. The North Carolina table will be in charge of Mrs. T. J. Boykin, chairman, and Mrs. E. P. Ball, Mrs. James W. Carmer, Mrs. J. S. Whedbee, Mrs. N. D. Norman, Mrs. Bartlett Johnson, Mrs. A. C. Dixon and Mrs. J. M. Kesler. Contributions in aid of this noble cause, either in money or material, can be sent to any one of the committee or to the chairman, whose address is 194 Lafayette Avenue. All packages will be transmitted by the Express company free of charge.

The Boy Clipper Plow has earned a reputation of being the best ever used and are pronounced perfect by the best farmers. Sold wholesale and retail at the factory agency, JACOBI'S Hardware Depot.

A Fatal Blow.

At about 7 o'clock last Saturday night a party of young colored men were assembled at the corner of Seventh and Ann streets, and two of the crowd, named respectively John Carver and Walter Johnson, became involved in a wordy quarrel. After passing much rough language Carver said to Johnson, "If you want anything out of me, come on." Johnson retorted in similar language and then advancing struck Carver with his fist. They then separated and Johnson turned around and entered into conversation with one of the party, and while thus engaged Carver, who had found a brick, ed and struck Johnson with the missile on the back of the neck, causing the latter to fall and expire without a groan. Carver ran, but was pursued, caught and turned over to the police by whom he was confined in the guard house. A post mortem examination of the deceased showed that the blow from the brick had driven in the second vertebra, breaking the spinal marrow, which caused an effusion of blood that produced death instantaneously. Both young men were about 18 years of age. A jury of inquest was summoned, but as they did not meet until 4 o'clock this afternoon we failed to obtain their verdict in the matter.
