The Daily Review has the largest bona fide circulation of any newspaper published in the city of Wilmington.

A fire engine company of Fairhaven, Mass., stopped to elect a fireman in the street close to a burning building, before putting a stream upon the flames.

Washington is a remarkably religious city. Statistics show 180 churches, with 40,351 members. Of this total membership, however, about 21,000 are in the colored churches.

A life of Gen. Gordon has just been published in Dutch, the sale of which is almost unprecedented in Holland. The whole of the first large edition was ordered before it was ready, and a second had to be issued at once. The author, the Rev. C. S. A. van Scheitama, is a clergyman of nearly eighty years of age, whose life has been devoted to philanthropic labors.

The public bears from time to time of a discussion over the question of public worship at Harvard University. In point of fact, there are at present no regular Sunday services in the college chapel. During the winter an occasional discourse was given. Attendance upon some church on Sunday is no longer requisite, but by a recent decision compulsory attendance upon morning prayers in the college chapel is continued.

At Portland, Me., a clergyman who manages a Gospel temperance mission has organized a "Gideon's Band," which is said to introduce Wagnerian effects in the choruses sung during the services, the idea on which the scheme is founded being taken from Judges, vii, 16: "And he (Gideon) divided 300 men into three companies, and he put a trumpet into every man's hand, with empty pitchers and lamps within the pitchers."

Jay Cooke is now a familiar figure along the country roads northeast of Philadelphia, but he is not often found mingling in the push and uncertainty of "the street." An observer writes that he had seen him dressed more in the garb of a countryman than that of a financier. His clothes were plain, and his white slouched hat, with its broad brim, gave him the appearance of a well-to-do farmer. His hair and beard were snow white, and he was driving along with an easy gait, as if perfectly contented with life.

The Clarke prize of $300 for the best American figure painting done in the United States, at the current National Academy Exposition, has been awarded to Francis C. Jones for his "Exchanging Confidences." The first Hallgarten prize of $300 for the best picture painted in the United States by an American citizen under 35, went to Harry Chase for his "New York Harbor." The second prize of $200 was given to J. Francis Murphy for a landscape; the third to Dennis M. Bunker for "A Bohemian."

Canada likes Chinese immigrants scarcely any better than the United States. She does not propose, however, to prohibit altogether their coming, but she has undertaken to restrict their numbers by imposing a tax of $25 on every Chinaman landing at a Canadian port, and providing that no vessel shall bring Chinese passengers at a greater rate than one passenger for every ten tons of the register capacity of the vessel under a penalty of $100 for each Chinaman in excess of the regulation number so landed.

A large meeting of unemployed men has been held in Adelaide, South Australia, and the Government of the colony was asked to take some steps to meet the prevailing distress. The wages paid in Adelaide aggregate $20,000 a week lower than they did last year, 1,000 houses are empty, the expenditure of the Destitute Board has risen from $100,000 to $150,000 in four years, and a large proportion of the steadiest workmen have left the city. If these statements, made at the meeting, are true, why did the South Parliament during the last session vote $250,000 for immigration?

A Good Many Failures. During the year 1883 there were 10,568 failures in business in the United States and Canada. Some of these were big concerns, and some were very small. Failure is sorrowful business to any man, especially if it is his health that fails. A great many times 10,568 people fail in health in the course of a year. Many of them might be saved if they would take Brown's Iron Bitters, the great family medicine and restorer of wasted health.

Fell in the Street. A small drove of cattle were coming down Front street this morning and when they were turning to go up Market street one of the cows slipped and fell upon the hard pavement from which she was unable to rise. The police was notified and a dray was sent, upon which she was loaded and hauled away. It was thought by some that she had dislocated her hip, but others were of the opinion that her inability to rise was owing to fatigue and hunger.

Put in for Fuel. The steam propeller Greenwich, Capt. H. C. Cassidy, from Jacksonville, bound for New York, put in here to-day for fuel. Her commander is a Wilmingtonian, born and bred, and he has been busy all day shaking hands. He will remain here to-day and will set sail for his destination to-morrow morning. The Greenwich has worked during the past winter on the St. John's river, as a freight and passenger boat, and will run during the Summer between New York and Oyster Bay, L. I., returning South next Fall.

Vessels Arrived. The following is the number and tonnage of vessels arriving at this port during the month ended April 30th, 1885:

Foreign—12 barques, 5,636 tons; 6 brigs, 1,559 tons; 1 schooner, 240 tons; making 19 foreign vessels, aggregating 7,437 tons, and a grand total of 41 vessels aggregating 16,501 tons.

Torture at Sea. Captain Layton, of the Br. brig J. Williams, and his mate, have been arrested at North Shields, Eng., charged with the murder of a sailor named Hugo Linniborg. The J. Williams left here on the 10th day of March last bound for Newcastle-on-Tyne, and it was during the passage that the murder, or rather the torturing to death, was committed. It is alleged that at one time Linniborg was compelled to stand on deck, entirely nude, during a hailstorm; at another time he was dragged from his berth and severely kicked, and one of the accused, a few moments before Linniborg's death, dashed a bucket of salt water in his face. The murdered sailor was quite respectably connected, his father being Director of Fisheries in Sweden.

Tour of Inspection. The State Board of Directors of the North Carolina Penitentiary recently held a meeting at Raleigh and decided to invite the State Board of Health to join them in a tour of inspection of the quarters of the convicts now employed upon the various railroads and other works of internal improvement in the State. With that object in view, Mr. A. D. Brown, of this city, of the Board of Directors of the Penitentiary, accompanied by Dr. Thos. F. Wood, President of the State Board of Health, will leave here on the 11th inst., upon a tour of inspection of the quarters of the convicts employed upon the Western North Carolina Railroad. This inspection will be thorough and with a special regard to the sanitary and hygienic condition of the camps occupied by the convicts, and will extend to all other matters relating to their health. The duty upon this road has been specially assigned to Mr. Brown while the inspection on the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railroad and other places in Eastern Carolina where convicts are employed has been assigned to Mr. H. R. Bryant, of Newbern, who is also a member of the Board of Directors.

These inspections will be held every month during the year, but the first only will be attended by members of the Board of Health.

Politeness.

No, my friend, it is not polite to grasp a man's hand, proffered in friendship, and squeeze it until it causes pain. On the contrary, such an act is cruel and absolutely insulting. The moment your cause unnecessary pain, to your fellow man you cease to have any claim upon his friendship, but have established a good excuse for personal violence from him. You have no more right to grasp his hand with such force as to produce pain than you have to stand upon his toes for the same purpose, and both are equally cruel and insulting. We like to see a good, hearty, cordial hand shaking, but that can be done with all the earnestness and sincerity imaginable without the least approach to torture. Grasping the hand with a vice like, torturing grip is simply brutal. Do not indulge in such a reprehensible practice!

Have Arrived.

The new uniforms for the Seaside Base Ball Club arrived here this morning and were on exhibition during the day in the windows of Mr. John Dyer's store on the corner of Front and Princess street. They are very neat as the following description will show:

Blue cloth cap with white leather visor and orange colored star on the crown; white knitted, close fitting jersey shirt, trimmed with orange and blue and with the letter "S," in blue on the breast; white canvas belt with blue border; blue flannel trousers, blue and orange striped stocking, and handsome lawn tennis, low quartered shoes with rubber soles and canvas tops. The uniforms, with the exception of the trousers, were furnished by Messrs. Wright & Dilson, of Boston, Mass.; the trousers were made by Mr. John Dyer of this city.

North Carolina Lumber.

Here is an item of special interest to the people of Wilmington at this time. It evidences the fact that Wilmington is the natural outlet for the vast wealth, mineral and vegetable, of Western North Carolina. The Charlotte Observer says:

A shipment of 225 car loads of lumber from Western North Carolina is now passing through this city for the seaport of Wilmington, whence it will be conveyed in vessels to Europe. The fact that speculators in Europe find it profitable to pay the transportation charges of this lumber over such a great distance by land and sea is sufficient proof as to the value of the lumber itself. The lumber is shipped from Alexander's, in Buncombe county, and comes to Charlotte in Western North Carolina cars, and here it is transferred to the cars of the Carolina Central road and carried on to Wilmington, where it is transferred on board of ship. The shipment is an immense one, as a little thought will show. The work of transporting the lumber from Alexander's to Wilmington was begun Thursday of last week, and the shipments have averaged about eight car loads per day. Yesterday there were ten car loads. Each car is loaded to its fullest capacity, and carries 30,000 pounds of lumber.

This lumber which is going to Europe is said to be the finest in the world, and great care is taken in its shipment. To prevent the lumber from being injured by rain it is carried in box cars, as much care being taken with it as if it was so much dry goods. Every plank in this shipment is of poplar, and stacked with great regularity in the cars, each car being filled from floor to roof, leaving a small aisle in the centre of the car for the loading and unloading force to work in. Each plank is carefully inspected by the railroad hands, and a correct account is kept of all that are split or otherwise damaged.

The transfer of the lumber at Charlotte is a tedious piece of work, and an Observer reporter was yesterday afforded a good opportunity to inspect some of the Europe-bound wealth of North Carolina forests. Several lumber dealers were grouped around the cars admiring what they pronounced some of the most beautiful lumber they had ever seen. The squarely cut poplar planks were well seasoned, dry and light, and were perfect, being sound and without knots. The planks varied in length from 16 to 18 feet, and were from 1 1/2 to 3 inches thick. They were in various widths and through the aid of a foot rule it was found that the narrowest plank was 24 inches wide, and the broadest 40 inches wide. Of the whole amount of lumber in the ten car loads, about one-fourth of it was of the 16 foot long and 40 inch wide measurement. To saw out planks of these dimensions must have required tremendous saw stock, and the trees from which they come must indeed be giants of the forest. The beauty of the lumber consists not only in its size, but in its clearness and perfection. The European buyers are authority for the statement that no country in the world can produce lumber superior to the shipment that is now being made to them. This is the most forcible illustration of the value of the timber lands of our State that has yet been known, and this introduction into the European markets of North Carolina lumber is something for our people to rejoice over.

We observe quite a fine display of new Revolvers for very reasonable prices, at Jacob's Hardware Depot. †

Change of Hour.

The hour of holding the Sunday School exercises of the First Baptist Church have been changed and, commencing next Sunday, will be held at half past 9 o'clock, a. m., instead of at half past 3 o'clock, p. m., as heretofore.

Death of Mr. Charles B. Fennell.

It is with profound sorrow that we are called upon to chronicle the death of Mr. Charles B. Fennell, which occurred at the house of his father, Mr. Owen Fennell, on Dock street, between Sixth and Seventh, at a few minutes before 8 o'clock this morning. The deceased was in the 29th year of his age and had been an invalid for several months. During the Winter his health became so affected that he went to Jacksonville, Fla., with the hope that the change of climate and atmosphere might prove beneficial, but soon after his arrival there he was taken alarmingly worse and his father and mother hastened thither to be with him and to render him all the assistance which parental affection could give or parental solicitude could suggest. The son soon recovered sufficiently to be able to return home with his parents. Since then he had been able to be out a few times, although he had not at any time been materially better. For the last few weeks his condition for the worse had been such as to leave little hopes of his recovery and for the last few days his death had been almost hourly expected.

Mr. Fennell had been for more than six years in the employ of Mr. D. L. Gore, on South Water street, with whom he occupied an important and responsible position which he had filled with the strictest integrity and fidelity. By nature he was of a retiring, modest disposition, but he was always courteous and affable with those with whom he had either business relations or social intercourse. He had the profound esteem of all who knew him, and his bereaved father, mother and brother have the heartfelt sympathy of all our citizens.

The Boy Clipper Plow has earned a reputation of being the best ever used and are pronounced perfect by the best farmers. Sold wholesale and retail at the factory agency, JACOB'S Hardware Depot. †
