Mr. Bayard receives more abuse from Republican papers than any other member of the Cabinet, but he is used to it. It doesn't trouble him as it might some of his inexperienced associates. He knows that not one citizen in ten pays any attention in ordinary times to wanton abuse of public men; and certainly not one in a hundred believes that any act of Mr. Bayard as Secretary of State deserves condemnation. The Republican papers keep up their abuse of the man simply from force of habit. They can't stop.

William Schoeder, a butter merchant ing at odd times upon a perpetual motion machine in a carefully guarded outhouse in his backyard for the past thirty years. He will allow no one to go in or to examine the machine. He claims that it will be ready to revolutionize mechanics in a few days and will be in complete operation. It will occupy a space five feet in width by twenty in length, and he claims that it will run until its component parts are worn out. He has never shown any trace of insanity, and has always been regarded as a shrewd business man.

As the conduct of the administration is the lavorite topic of several thousand American editors this month, says the New York Herald, it would seem that already have been said many times. The San Francisco Post, however, deduces from the new governmetn's doings most of its coutemporaries. It says serves, that Mr. Cleveland's brief incumbency has taught the lesson-which was much needed in some quarters-that this nation is safe, no matter what party holds the reins of power. The people are the government, and parties are but their political tools, to be used, mended or cast aside as occasion may require."

If he had been on Wall street he would have been richer than Jay Gould. Blaine has now on deposit in various banks at least $750,000, and in twenty-fourhours he could raise $2,000,000 in cash. He is much richer than people suppose him to be."

Her Suffering Ended.

We regret to learn that Miss Catherine Casteen, daughter of Mr. John Casteen, who was so badly burned by the explosion of a lamp on Thursday night, died this forenoon. Her suffer ings were intense and death was to her a sweet relief. At first it was thought that her injuries, although severe, were not of an alarmingly serious nature, but the fact was soon developed that her condition was indeed critical, and the probabilities of her recovery became less until this morning when death came to release her of the intense agony which she had suffered.

The Kerosene Can.

At about half past 11 o'clock this forenoon, Miss Katie, daughter of Mr. W. T. Johnson, who resides on Princess street, between Third and Fourth, undertook to build a fire in the stove in the kitchen, and to make it burn better poured some kerosene oil from a can upon the blaze. This, of course, caused the oil to ignite and explode the can, by which she was quite severely burned on her hands and arms She AUCTIONEER & COMMISSION MERCHANT screamed and the other members of the The motion was discussed at length by Dr. Hughes, Mr. W. G. Lamb. Rev. flames were quickly extinguished, but of the sale, and quick returns made of all not until she had received a painful warning which we trust she will remember in the future when she attempts to build a fire.
