No Play,

A dispatch was received here late this afternoon from Raleigh stating that in consequence of rain no game of base ball was played to-day, and that to-day' game will be played probably on the 29th inst. Unless the weather prevents a game will be played to-morrow, as announced.

Will Not Celebrate.

Wm. Garrison, colored, was arrested at the Carolina Central Railroad this morning for acting in a very disorderly house, where he will have a good opportunity of meditating upon the glor. ies of the Mecklenburg Declaration, un til to-morrow, when he will be brought before the Mayor for examination.

Death of Mr. E. T. Hancock.

tremely critical condition we spoke in our last issue, died yesterday afternoon. The deceased was a native of Maine and came here soon after the war and engaged in business, at first as a clerk for Mr. N. Jacobi. Subsequently he formed a partnership with Mr. W. T. Daggett and engaged in the paints and oil business, in which he continued up to the time of his death. He had been twice married, his last wife having been the daughter of Col. C. L. Grafflin.

Mr. Hancock upon becoming a resident of Wilmington fully identified himself with its interests, and although of a rather retiring disposition, during a long and successful career as a merchant here endeared himseit to a large circle of friends, who admired his moral worth and sterling integrity. He served two terms as an Alderman of the city to himself and to his constituency.

The Sidewalks.

Considerable comment has been created in consequence of the Mayor's instructions to the police regarding the removal of chicken coops, boxes and barrels from the sidewalk, which appeared in our issue of the 14th inst .-Many of the merchants to whom these stake and add largely to the city treasuryin the way of licenses and taxes, and to be denied all privileges of the side-of whom we have heard. He was absent from his home last night watching by the bedside of Mr. Archie Skipper, who is very sick, and when he returned this morning he found that some wandering kleptomaniac had raided his hen roost during the night and stolen all of his chickens, 14 in number .-Among his flock of poultry there were some Cochin Chinas and Plymouth Rocks which he prized very highly and it is tolerably evident that the thieves had much regard for them also.

A Day's Sport.

One of our printers has "hankered" manner and was locked up in the guard after a mess of fish tor several days and yesterday he put a "sub" on his case and off he went to the Sound for a day's fishing. He was accompanied by quite a party of ladies and gentlemen, with the fair sex largely preponderating, and teen for the past year. they returned last night with quite a nice lot of fish, very wet, a good deal Mr. E. T. Hancock, of whose ex-tired, somewhat sore, and sun-burnedoh, don't mention it! They all claim that they had a first rate time, but with the foregoing accompaniments we fail to see where the fun came in. There is no doubt, however, that the ride to and fro, the sport of fishing and the exercise, did them all good, and we shall not blame them if they should bait their hooks and try it again.

Personal.

Mr. C. P. Parker, of Cypress Creek Bladen county, is in the city to-day. Mr. Alex T. London, of this city, but now practicing law in Montgomery, Ala., is here to-day, enroute to Baltimore.

Mr. W. W. Allen, formerly Southern ExpressAgent here, but now Route Agent for the Company, with head quarters at Columbia, is here to to day in which his course was alike honorable in company with Mr. J. H. Ayerill Superintendent of the South Carolina R. R.

Mr. M. A. George, of Baltimore, has arrived in our city where he intends to remain and engage in his profession of piano and organ maker and tuner. He has had many years experience in the business and comes with high recommendations from competent judges, and all he asks is a fair trial to establish instructions apply have large interests at his skill. Orders left at Yates' Bookstore will receive prompt attention.

To-Night's Festival.

The festival for the benefit of the Wilmington Light Infantry, which will begin at the City Hall to-night, prom. ises to be a brilliant affair. The ladies having the matter in charge have worked with a will and with a directness of effort which bespeaks success. The decorations were nearly all completed this morning and evinced much refined taste in their arrangements.

Water was led into the Hall during the day and the fountain on the rostrum will be in full play to-night, making the atmosphere pure and cool. The display of edibles will be such as would tempt an anchorite if there were any such beings in North Carolina, and which would make giad the
