An interesting report has just been issued by an English Committee of Convocation on the subject of the de crease of clerical incomes from land. The fall has been worse in the Eastern counties; those in the West have been least affected by the agricultural depression. Glebe lands appear to have depreciated in value from 25 to 50 per ceat. Eight cases are mentioned by the committee, the figures of which are startling. Incomes of £500 and £350 incomes still further reduce them. Two Indians in a village near Quebec were recently discussing the form of the earth. One affirmed that it was round because men had travelled in a straight line and come back to the same place. To this it was replied that men were apt to travel in circles, as they often do when lost. Then it was argued that white men said so, and they knew more than the Indians; but it was answered white men often lied, as the Indians very well knew. A practical philosopher solved the whole diffi culty by driving a stake into the ground and placing an apple on it at night. In the morning the apple was still there, to his great satisfaction; whereas, he said, if the earth had revolved in the night the apple would have fallen off

Literary.

We have just received the North Carolina Medical Journal for June and it is an interesting number, inasmuch as it is mainly devoted to the transactions of the North Carolina Medical Society, whose regular annual meeting was recently held at Durham, N. C., with the proceedings of of the Board of Medical Examiners and the report of the State Board of Health. These make the Journal, this month, a work of unusual interest and instruction' to the profession and also to the people. The present number contains 73 pages of reading matter, every line of which is valuable.

The Planets in July. July is not unfruitful in planetary events. Jupiter and Venus, the most brilliant members of the sun's family, are both visible in the west, Jupiter traveling westward and Venus easts ward. They are approaching each other so rapidly that thought at the beginning of the month Jupiter sat two hours later than Venus, at its close there are but 15 minutes difference in the time of their setting. Mercury, though invisible, follows swittly on the track of his more distinguished fellow-planets passing Venus and nearly overtaking Jupiter. Regulus comes in for his share of attention, both Mercury and Venus passing near his domain. Saturn treats us almost to an occulation, making an appulse to Etta Germinobasides following her usual round, occulted Aldebaran on the 8th, and hides Uranus from sight on the 16th, for the pleasure of observers further

Change of Gauge.

Hon. R. R. Bridgers, who may be considered as good authority in such matters as any man North or South, says that the question of a uniform gauge of railroad tracks throughout the entire country is only one of time, and, in his opinion, but a very short time. The standard gauge of tour feet eight and a half inches has already been adopted by some of the most prominent lines leading South, and others are making preparations for the change, to go into effect as soon as practical. Coast Line extends as tar South as this city and will probably be extended throughout its entire length, and to all tributary roads, before many months shall have elapsed.

The Railroad Gazette says that the change of the Mobile and Ohio this week "will leave only two of the important lines running southward from the Ohio river of five feet gauge, and both of them are already making ar rangements for the change to the standard gauge." The Louisville and Nashville will, it is said, make the change within the next few months, and the Cincinnati Southern system will follow suit as soon as an arrangement can be made with the trustees. The Gazette adds: The "five-foot gauge will then be practically limited to the seaboard Southern States, and will doubtless soon disappear. On the Atlantic Coast Line the standard gauge now extends as far South as Wilmington, and two roads in that line from Wilmington to Charleston will undoubtedly be soon of the same gauge while the Savannah, Florida & Western is understood to be ready to make the change at the same time with its connecting lines to the northward. The Richmond & Danville and its controlled lines are already preparing to abandon the old guage although no definite time has been stated. By the end of Directors of this Bank, payable on the 10th of next year it is altogether probable that the Norfolk & Western and the East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia will be the only important lines still retaining the five foot guage, and their alteration to the standard will then become actually a matter of necessity, the time depending chiefly upon the financial condition of the companies."

Toe Richmond State says: "The Richmond & Danville will hardly change its gauge this year, though the company is making preparatons in that direction When the union depot at Richmond is finished, which it is believed will be before Spring, the Danville system will in all probability be ready to run its cars across the Richmond & Petersburg bridge without changing trucks."

Indications.

For the South Atlantic States generally fair weather, except in the inter ior, occasional local rains, cooler west-

> A representative of the New Era interviewed Maj. John C. Winder a few days ago at the Cleveland Springs on the railroad situation and gained some information in which our readers are interested. Maj. Winder is General Manager of the Seaboard system of roads which terminates at this point, and he is in a position to know much of the projects which may in the early future affect this section of the State. While speaking freely on the new road from Georgetown via. Shelby and Rutherfordton to the Northwest, he dwelt mostly on the Cranberry route. The the Carolina Central at Shelby he rerailroad, stock which they regard valuable and the value of which they hope to see enhanced.
