THE NATIONAL BANKS. The year 1885, says the New York Mail and Express. marks the expiration of the charters of 721 national banks having an aggregate capital of more than $189,000,000. Fears were frequent ly expressed a year ago that few of these charters would be renewed, owing In part to the depression in business, but chiefly to the difficulty of obtaining government bonds to deposit as a guarantee for circulation. It is therefore gratifying to observe that almost without exception the charters of solvent national banks are renewed at their expiration, and it is understood that the renewals of the year already represent an aggregate of $170,000,000 capital. Many new charters have been issued and there is ample reason to believe that the number of national banks will increase rather than diminish. This condition of things indicates not only that there is a prospect of a revival of business prosperity, but also that there is faith among the bankers that a satisfactory substitute for government bonds as security for bank notes wil be devised. Among the schemes al ready presented is that of Hon. Abram S. Hewitt, who proposed in a speech in Congress that the first claim upon the assets of banks be given to the holders of their notes, and that every stock holder be made personally liable for 100 per cent. in addition to his capital stock. As Senator Allison, of the Senate Finance Committee, substantially have been copied and applied in all endorsed his plan in an article in the North American Review, it is probable and to a considererable extent in New that it will be regarded with favor by York and Brooklyn. members of both parties. Another suggestion is that the national banks of Government use its good offices in persuading Spain to release Cuba for a fixed purchase price, to be paid by the Cubans themselves. But in order to our guaranteeing the interest upon bonds to be issued by the new Cuban Government. The security for our Government would be in the rich property of the island, wh ch is so wealthy in natural resources. It might be that Congress would be reluciant to take up this scheme. Our past experience in guaranteeing interest upon bon ls for speculative enterprises has never been happy."

The interests of the poorer classes were intelligently discussed before a recent meeting held in London. What Lord Shaftesbury had to say to the the Condition of the Poor only gave object for the past forty years has been the improvement of town life, and to provide the laboring classes, even the most miserable persons, with decent houses at moderate charges. He has proved, beyond a doubt, the readiness of these people to improve their condition, and that the poor are not so fond of misery and squalor as is generally supposed. Places once the holbeds of fever and disease are now covered by the society's houses. The strikingly low mortality throughout these, only 121 per 1,000, together with the fact that this philanthropic enterprise can be made to give a return of 4 per cent. upon the capital invested. will explain in a way why the society's principles
