

DR. BIGGERS' RUCKLEBERRY CORDIAL
For the BOWELS

What did me do in days gone by,
When earth seem'd all ablaze?
The mercury climbed just as high
As it does nowadays.

Passes those men who've passed away
A marvellous device.
By means of which the hottest day
Seem'd just as cool as ice?

Nay; then, as now, to Nature's laws
Amenable men were:
They managed to keep cool because
They'd no thermometer!

They coolly gazed upon the sky
When it was all aglow,
But never rushed to see how high
The mercury did go.

'Twas Summer's sun, inured to toil,
They worked without a frown,
And never made their spirits boil
By pouring spirits down.

The reason sinners suffer so—
Though 'tis a burning shame
That 'o'en the saints now have no show—
The thermometer's to blame!

The Grant Family.

Mount McGREGOR, July 25.—Plans are not altogether vague, although far from settled, in regard to the future of the family. They will be left in comparatively good circumstances, so that they could afford to release the mortgage on their house in Sixty-sixth street, and make it their home. But if they live in New York city, which is doubtful, there is now no expectation of their occupying that house. It could never be as it was to them, endearing as would be its associations to the General's account. They were glad to get away from it as he was. The sense of comfort and security departed with the removal of their treasures. In May, to the custody of the Government. It was not the loss of their things that pained them, but the means by which they went. The General always intended to give to the Government these things—the pictures, bronzes and other rare and beautiful gifts that had been presented to him—but he was denied that satisfaction and when he wrote to Washington signifying his purpose, a reply came back that the gift had already been promised by Mr. Vanderbilt, who claimed to own them. The General was too much surprised to contest the claim. He thought he had already assigned to Mr. Vanderbilt enough property to make good that unfortunate loan of $150,000, but he was in no position to resist Mr. Vanderbilt's opinion to the contrary, and so the cherished plan of giving to the Government his treasures were dispensed, and Mr. Vanderbilt became the actual donor. It was a hard struggle for the General and the family to part with them under such circumstances, and when they were gone, the bare walls and vacant places at his house in Sixty-sixth street were constant reminders to all the family of their misfortune.

The house was a gift to the General. At the time of its purchase there was a mortgage upon it of $40,000. As the mortgage could not then be released the amount of it was handed to Mrs. Grant, who deposited it with Grant & Ward, intending to withdraw it when the mortgage became due. It was swallowed up in the crash. The needs of the family increased the trust, which amounts now, with interest, to about $52,000. The price paid for the house was $100,000. Gen. Grant's example led his relatives to invest their possessions with Grant & Ward, and when disaster came it swept away not only all he had and Mrs. Grant's investment, but the possessions of his three sons and the savings of four other families connected by blood with himself or Mrs. Grant. He felt responsible for the support and welfare of all these dependencies resting upon him after the failure, and for all of them he sought to make provision from what the book might yield. His income for more than a year, as had been the case, indeed, in years gone by, was consumed as fast as it came in, in providing for others.

The publishers estimate the General's share of the proceeds of the book at $75,000. The General assigned all his right, title and interest in this money to Mrs. Grant, in whose name the contract stands. No qualification is attached to this gift, and she may use the money as may suit herself. As she knows what the General has done and what he would have continued to do, she will doubtless follow out his plan of benefaction, so that none of the family or relatives will want because of losses sustained in following his example. It is her present intention to retire somewhere to a quiet, modest home. She will try to sell, with the least delay, the house in Sixty-sixth street and the Long Branch cottage. Just where she will permanently live or how must be left to future discussion.

Col. Grant will own the General's library, private records, and other papers, many of which are of great value. As he has developed literary talent, while assisting the General on the book, he has been advised to avail himself of the opportunities afforded by these documentary possessions. Among them are papers from which much of interest can be written bearing on the General's experiences from 1865 to 1868, as well as during his Presidency and since. When Gen. Badeau's "Military Life of Gen. Grant" was published, the General sent handsomely bound copies to the rulers of foreign countries from whom he had received courtesies when abroad. Among the papers left by the General are autograph acknowledgments of the receipt of the book. There are enough other interesting and complimentary letters to make a volume in themselves.

U. S. Grant, Jr., will remain on his New Jersey farm, having reconciled himself to that prospect. Jesse Grant has an opening in his business as engineer in a project for a railway in the valley of the Euphrates. Mrs. Sartoris will naturally return to England, where her children are, and where her husband's family want them to be educated. Her desire, however, is to bring her children here and live with her mother, and she will try to bring that about. In that case the household would consist probably of Mrs. Grant, Mrs. Sartoris and Col. Grant and his family.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep; by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. July 6 deod & wly

Hardened Liver.

Five years ago I broke down with kidney and liver complaint and rheumatism. Since then I have been unable to be about at all. My liver became puff'd like wood, my limbs were puff'd up and filled with water. All the best physicians agreed that nothing could cure me. I resolved to try Hop Bitters; I have used seven bottles; the hardness has all gone from my liver, the swelling from my limbs, and it has worked a miracle in my case; otherwise I would have been now in my grave. J. W. MOREY. Buffalo, Oct. 1, 1881.

Poverty and Suffering.

"I was dragged down with debt, poverty and suffering for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I commenced using Hop Bitters, and in one month we were all well, and none of us had seen a sick day since, and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost. I know it."

The Substance of a long and Grateful Letter.

No less than seven physicians were employed at different times, to whom Mr. Beach, of Stone Ridge, N. Y., paid hundreds of dollars. "I was induced to use Dr. David Kennedy's 'Favorite Remedy,' which has made me a well man. Thanks to D. K. and his medicine."

The violin is beginning to supersede the piano as a fashionable instrument for ladies in Paris.

Harper's Young People.
AN ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY.

The serial and short stories in Harper's Young People have all the dramatic interest that juvenile fiction can possess, while they are wholly free from that morbidness or vulgarly sensational. The humorous stories and pictures are full of innocent fun, and the presence of natural history and science, travel, and the facts of life, are by writers whose names give the best assurance of accuracy and value. Illustrated papers on athletic sports, games, and pastimes give full information on these subjects. There is nothing cheap about it but its price.

Quarantine Notice.

QUARANTINE FOR THE PORT OF WILMINGTON will be enforced from May 1st, to November 1st, as follows:

Pilots will bring all vessels from Ports south of Cape Fear, from all Mediterranean Ports, and all vessels which have had any kind of sickness on board during the passage, or which have sickness on arrival, to the Quarantine anchorage; and will cause a signal to be set in the main rigging on the port side, as soon as possible after crossing the Bar.

Special notice will be issued to the pilots, by the Quarantine Physician, to bring vessels from other ports to the Quarantine Station whenever it shall appear to the Quarantine Board that they are infected, or suspected of being so.

No vessel must leave the Quarantine anchorage, or allow any person, steamer or tug boat, lighter, or boat of any kind to go alongside, unless by written authority from the Quarantine Physician; and every vessel must be anchored as far to the eastward of the channel as is consistent with safety.

Regulations governing vessels while in Quarantine may be had on application at the office of the Quarantine Physician at Smithville. Applications for permits to visit a port in Quarantine must be made to Dr. Thomas F. Wood or Dr. Geo. G. Thomas, and permits so obtained will be endorsed by the Quarantine Physician, if in his opinion, it is proper and safe to allow communication with such vessels. A penalty of $20 for each and every offence will be enforced against any pilot violating any of the Quarantine Regulations of the Port.

long leaf pine region. For sale on easy terms in lots and subdivisions. Four acres for $25. Larger tracts $5 per acre, in monthly payments of $10. This land adjoins the "Southern Pine" tract, a recently established health resort (or sanitarium), and is specially adapted for Fruit Culture, as well as all the cereals. A number of New England people have bought lots in the town of "Southern Pine," and it is the desire of the owners of this land to induce small farmers, mechanics and others from the New England and Middle States, as well as elsewhere to locate here. No State in the Union offers greater inducements to settlers than North Carolina. Nowhere can a better farming country or as fine a climate be found. This is the opinion of Northern men who have settled in North Carolina. This is a bona fide offer, and is limited.

Quarantine Notice.

QUARANTINE FOR THE PORT OF WILMINGTON will be enforced from May 1st, to November 1st, as follows:

Pilots will bring all vessels from Ports south of Cape Fear, from all Mediterranean Ports, and all vessels which have had any kind of sickness on board during the passage, or which have sickness on arrival, to the Quarantine anchorage; and will cause a signal to be set in the main rigging on the port side, as soon as possible after crossing the Bar.

Special notice will be issued to the pilots, by the Quarantine Physician, to bring vessels from other ports to the Quarantine Station whenever it shall appear to the Quarantine Board that they are infected, or suspected of being so.

No vessel must leave the Quarantine anchorage, or allow any person, steamer or tug boat, lighter, or boat of any kind to go alongside, unless by written authority from the Quarantine Physician; and every vessel must be anchored as far to the eastward of the channel as
