THE DAILY REVIEW.

VOL. IX.

WILMINGTON, N. C., FRIDAY, JULY 31, 1885.

NO. 178

The Democrats in Virginia have done well but they must do still better at the polls. They have nominated Gen. Fitzhugh Lee for Governor, Hon John E. Messey for Lieutenant-Governor and Rufus A. Ayers for Attorney-General. Hon John S. Barbour was unanimously reelected Chairman of the State Executive Committee. The following is a synopsis of the platform adopted:

The platform pledges opposition to any increase of taxation; opposes all further agitation of the debt question, and reiterates acceptance as final settlement of "Riddleberger Bill," renews the pledge of continued support to the public school system; recommends a change in the revenue laws, which will require speedy settlement by collecting officers; recommends supervision by the Legislature of the operations of the railroads of the State, so as to prevent unjust or discriminating charges; advocates liberal support to the insane asylums, and continued aid to needy and disabled Confederate soldiers; recommends the passage of such laws as will permit each county or district to hold a special election upon the question of the sale of spirituous liquors; favors an amendment of the existing oyster law; favors changes in the election laws, so as to relieve the people of the burden of too frequent elections; favors an equal distribution of the public patronage among all sections; opposes the employment of convict labor in competition with free labor; also favors laws compelling government contract service to be performed by free labor; favors the eight hour law; advocates the complete and unconditional abolition of the internal revenue system; reaffirms the declarations of the National Democratic party in its last Convention, on the subject of the tariff, and especially maintaining that a necessary reduction in taxation can and must be made, without depriving American labor of the ability to compete successfully with foreign labor; endorses the civil service reform, while at the same time it opposes the appointment to or retention in office of offensive partisans; commends the administration of President Cleveland, and especially the President's action in removing offensive Republican officers in Virginia; spurs the charges brought against the Democratic party, in the document purporting to be the platform of the Republican party of the State; and sets forth what the Democratic party has done for Virginia, and concludes with a severe arraignment of the Republican party.

Among the many relics left by Commander Torrington was a much prized fragment of coal bearing the distinct impression of a fern leaf. It bears a label stating that it was discovered among Arctic snows by a celebrated explorer.

It was said at the White House recently, unofficially, however, that if Mr. Jones, consul to Prague, was not recognized by that country, and was compelled to return, Mr. Magnus Gross, for a number of years an editorial writer of the New York Stants Zetava, would receive the appointment.

More Stealing.
Late last night a thief entered the yard of Mr. J. H. Hanby, on the corner of Eighth and Dock streets, and stole two chickens and some underclothing. Mr. Hanby had purchased the poultry for his Sunday dinner, but the season is too warm for chickens to keep. The thief was seen and an alarm was given, but he managed to escape with his plunder.

Judge Bennett.
The Washington correspondent of the Charlotte Observer, writing Monday, says: "Judge Bennett arrived here Friday night, it is in better health than has been for years, and is undoubtedly one of the handsomest and most distinguished looking men who come here. He made an early start for the departments next morning. Judge Bennett is prepared for an aggressive campaign, and does not propose leaving Washington until all his work as mapped out is complete. The important offices in his district yet to be filled are the assayership of the mint at Charlotte, and the postoffices at Wilmington and Concord. Seven removals have recently been made, completing the list of fourth-class offices in that district. The Judge has had three postal agents appointed, and made entire changes in the postoffices of a number of counties. He will make a clean sweep of all the remaining office holders in the Sixth District. As that district includes two of the largest cities in the State, and some of the most progressive towns, his task is one that would tax any man's wisdom and energies, but Judge Bennett is fully equal to his responsibilities."

By Rail to Clinton.
The people of Clinton are wide-awake, progressive and go-aheadative. They have taken their commercial interests into their own keeping and are determined upon having direct communication with the outside world. A year or so ago they built and equipped a telegraph line and now they have energetically attacked the railroad question. We think that in a few years they will have two good outlets by railway, one, that via Point Caswell, of which we spoke a few days ago, and the other via Warsaw. This last project, we understand, is in a very fair way of being realized. It is in the hands of energetic business men and it is said that work will be begun on the first of October. The road was formerly intended to go to Faison and to this end the charter was granted but an amendment was secured from the last Legislature, allowing connection with any point on the Wilmington & Weldon R. R. Warsaw was the point selected and the road will follow pretty much the line of the old plank road from Clinton to Warsaw. This road, it is intended now, will be built and equipped and run by private enterprise.

Kelly's Cove Items.
Mr. R. M. Wescott, of Kelly's Cove, Bladen county, sends us some interesting items from his section. He says that the seasons in his section have been excellent and the crop promises are generally very good. It has perhaps been a little too wet for cotton but corn is really exceeding the most sanguine expectations. But, in the midst of this bright outlook, there is a serious drawback in the presence of the dreaded hog cholera, which has recently been developed in that neighborhood. On last Tuesday Mr. Wescott left home in the morning, for the day, and when he returned in the afternoon he found dead in the pen a 175 pound hog which was well and healthy when he left home. The health of the people, however, is good, and there is less sickness in the neighborhood than is generally the case at this season of the year.

Mr. Wescott attended the picnic at Mr. D. J. Corbett's on the 28th, in honor of that gentleman's birthday, and he says "you can just bet that we had a good time. You ought to have been there." And we would have been could we have got there.

It will be to your interest to call and see our goods and prices before you spend a dollar. Never before could you make a dollar go as far in clothing as at the present time. We have yet a large stock of Summer Clothing, which must go. We do not intend carrying over one dollar's worth this Fall, so have put prices where we know they cannot help but go. You know our reputation; when we say goods are cheap you know they are. SHERR, the Old Reliable Clothier, 114 Market st. Sign of the Golden Arm.

War News.
A dispatch was received here today stating that the Wilmington Light Infantry would leave Asheville to-night on their return home. They will arrive here to-morrow night and will be met at the Front street depot by the members of the corps, in uniform, who remained at home, and by them will be escorted to their armory. Sergeant W. N. Harris will have charge of the escort.

A Sad Event.
Capt. Carver, who left here a few days since in command of the brig Charlotte, bound for Barbadoes, died yesterday on board the vessel at Smithville, of malarial fever. He was a resident of Seaport, Me., and his wife and two children were on board the vessel at the time of his death. His remains will be interred at Smithville. Capt. Carver was about 35 years of age, in the prime and vigor of life, and when he left here on Saturday last appeared to be in robust health. The sympathy of our people will be extended to the sorrowing widow and fatherless children in their sad bereavement among entire strangers.

We noticed quite a fine display of dog collars at JACOB'S Hardware Depot.

Chicken Thieves.
A colored man by the name of McKenzie, who lives on Seventh street, between Church and Castle, reports this morning that his premises were raided last night and about 30 chickens were stolen. Mrs. D. Gilbert, who lives on the corner of Seventh and Castle streets, had her chicken coop also broken into last night and several chickens stolen.

Now is the season for painting your houses. Go to JACOB'S Hardware Depot and buy your paints, if you want to save money.

Sprung Aleak.
The German barque Verien, Jahucke, which cleared for London on July 18th, sprung aleak while lying at anchor in the stream at Smithville, and it was found necessary to run her ashore. Lighters have been sent down to assist in removing her cargo. It is not yet known whether the barque will be obliged to return to the city for repairs or not.
