LOVE'S SLEEP.

Deep within my lady's eyes Sleeping Love in ambush lies; Ne'er before have been invented Means to make him so contented. Dost thou dare the lad awake At thy peril? He will take Vengeance for his broken sleep, And thy heart torever keep. He hath found a fitting nest. Let the world awhile have rest. Have a care and turn away. Lest he seize thee for his prev; If thou rouse him, thou wilt rue it. And a single glance will do it: He who meets those wondrous eyes, By Love's shaft that moment dies. - Chambers' Journal.

Prof. E. C. Marshall says the French have more suspension bridges than any nation on the globe. Their engineers are putting up suspension bridges everywhere, and at least one of the structures approximates to the size of the Brooklyn bridge. So numerous are such bridges in France that it is impossible to secure an accurate list of them on this side of the water.
