The Daily Review has the largest circulation of any newspaper published in the city of Wilmington.

Montreal appears to be a favorite locality for smallpox. The disease broke out in the city in 1872 and prevailed for nine years, during which time 5,000 people died from it.

The Bankers' and Merchants' Telegraph company, of New York, has brought suit against the Western Union for $2,000,000 damages on account of the recent seizure of its wires.

Minister S. S. Cox was formally and officially received by the Sultan on August 26. Each tried to out do the other in passing compliments. As Mr.
Cox was leaving the Sultan gave him a beautiful present to be sent to Mr. A.
S. Hewitt, of New York.

Several trial trips were made on the Tenth Avenue cable road in New York on Saturday. The result was very satisfactory to all concerned, the cars running along smoothly at a speed of six miles per hour. The road was thrown open to the travelling public on Monday.

A Michigan girl outdid her companions in a craze for autographic albums by having about a hundred letters from the same number of men bound in a volume for her parlor table. As the missives represented her extensive and usually sentimental correspondence since she had arrived at the age of chirography, the collection proved very interesting to callers.

Archer, the famous jockey, has declined a "retainer" from the Prince of Wales, to the scandal of the royal Britons, who regard the intimation of a royal wish as the most imperative of commands. In point of fact, the Prince could not pay Archer anything like the figures that the crack jockey receives from other employers, while the stable will be small and not contain many animals of the highest class, if any at all.

State Treasurer Maxwell, of New York, recently went to Washington to consult with Secretary Manning as to what the Administration wanted to do in New York this year. Mr. Manning said that the Administration didn't propose to tell the Democrats of New York what to do. "We want you," he declared, "to nominate a good ticket and we'll stand by it. That's all. You go back to New York. We don't want any repetition of the Folger business."

Cholera statistics for this year and for last year in Europe show what great strides the plague has been taking since the end of the cold season. The number of deaths in Italy and France last year was about 20,000. The number of deaths officially reported, thus far this year from Spain alone was 72,347 up to last week. It is well known that these figures do not tell the whole story.— Moreover, there are to be added the deaths this year in Southern France.
At this date last year the plague had found only 4,000 victims in Europe.

A number of prominent financiers have called at the treasury department in Washington to discuss in detail the efforts being made to ascertain what silver circulation the country will carry.
The objects of these efforts is to show that not only are the Government wants overcrowded with silver, but the public demand more than supplied.
The theory of the treasury offices is that, while more than $125,000,000 of silver coin and certificates are now in circulation, the country cannot carry as much as $100,000,000, except in time of great business activity.

A great deal of interest is being manifested in the forthcoming international race between the Genesta and Puritan and everything relating to it is read with avidity. The following is from yesterday's Herald:

About two p. m. yesterday afternoon the yachts Puritan and Priscilla got under way for a sail down the bay. The British cutter Genesta, which had left her anchorage about eleven o'clock in the morning, was at that time coming up the bay with her sheets wide off to the southwest breeze and her spinnaker boom rigged out to port. She had her sprit tassel set and was reeling it off up the channel in fine style, but her crew did not seem to notice the Priscilla, their attention being taken up, doubtless, with the yacht Puritan, her competitor in the next week's races.
Captain Samuel Gibson, of the Priscilla, laid his craft on the weather quarter of the Genesta and was taking one aboard of the cutter seemed to notice it. They were not long, however, before the yacht was "climbed" by the Genesta for a run up the channel and

THE DAILY REVIEW.

VOL. IX. WILMINGTON, N. C. THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 3, 1885. NO. 206 when they did "tumble," said a yachtsman who was on board of the Puritan "the fun began." This was off the Romer beacon and, in a twinkling, down came the Genesta's topsail and she sheered off to leeward, then luffed, then swore ship and finally laid her foremast aback and hove to.

It was thought on board of the Priscilla that they were beating the Genesta before she treated them so contemptuously, but, of course, the time was so short that it was difficult to form a correct estimate of their relative speed.
But it was the Priscilla's best point of sailing—a quartering breeze and smooth water.

On board of the Genesta it was learned that it is contrary to British yachts-men's custom to indulge in these informal skirmishes with crack yachts just before a race. Whatever might be the result of such "brushes" they tended to demoralize the crews, and the Genesta's people want none of them.

The Savannah News goes for Foraker in his attack on the Democrats of the South, wherein he charges that the ballot is not free for the colored vote.
It says that the part of the speech which refers to Chatham county will be read with surprise and amazement by those who know anything about Chatham county politics. Instead of 12,000, there are only 6,000 qualified voters—4,000 whites and 2,000 colored —and the negroes vote first and crowd the whites from the polls. It is true there are four boxes at different points at that place, which is the Courthouse.
The facilities for voting are ample.
There are no polling places outside the city because there is no demand for them and no satisfactory location for them. At one time there were two or three such places, but the Republicans abolished them during the time they had the management of affairs. They never have been restored because nobody asked to have them restored.

The receipts of cotton at this port to-

The almanac promised fair weather for to-day, and fair it has been.

We noticed quite a fine display of dog collars at JACOB'S Hardware Depot.

That threatened revival in business is still on the way and has not yet reached us.

The Standard Dramatic Company are booked to appear in Fayetteville next week.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon the ther-

A match game of base ball was played yesterday afternoon at the Seaside Grounds, between the Amateurs and Somerset, juvenile clubs, resulting in 16 runs for the former and 15 for the latter.

Two white men who had engaged in a little animated discussion about some matter unknown to us were before the Mayor this morning. One was fined $20 and costs and the other was discharged.

Yesterday's Excursion.
Our friends of the Cornet Concert Club have been unfortunate of late. The two excursions they have given recently have fallen on decidedly unpleasant days and yesterday the cool wind detained many from excurting with them on the Passport who would otherwise have gone. There is warm weather in store yet, however, and they should try it on once more.

Cure for Sleeplessness.
A simple cure of sleeplessness has been advised by a Parisian physician for an American traveling through Europe who suffered from wakeful nights. The remedy was cessation of mental exertion in the evening and the formation of a habit of retiring at the same time each night. No letter writing, no reading of excitable books, was allowed, and the mind was placed in as passive a state as possible. The American, who had been a victim of sleeplessness for years, returned home cured.
The man who must work at night, however, will still have to go on getting his sleep as best he can.

The Planets in September.

Mercury is morning star after the 2d, for the last time this year. On the 2d he passed between the earth and on the 15th rises nearly an hour and a half before the sun. On the 27th he is in conjunction with Jupiter, and on the 30th he is at his greatest distance north.

Saturn is morning star, and wins the second place for being at present the most beautiful of all the visible stars, as Jupiter is hidden in the sun's rays, and Venus hugs the sun too closely to be seen long after his disappearance.
This wonder of the system takes no active part in the events of the month.

Venus is evening star, and reigns supreme in the western sky, being the only visible planet after the sun goes down. She sets, during the month, about an hour after the sun, but is now so bright that she is visible almost as soon as the sun disappears, her increase in size and brightness being plainly perceptible.

Uranus is evening star until the 26th, and then morning star. On the 26th, at 2 o'clock in the morning, Uranus is in conjunction with the sun, passing beyond him and reappearing on his western side.

Neptune is morning star, and pursues his far-away course without encountering any other planet or large star, seeming just now to wander in a region that is all his. He is approaching his nearest point to the earth, and if he could change places with Mars would create a great excitement among the terrestrial star-gazers.

Mars is morning star. He is now at the commencement of his period of visibility, and his course may be easily traced by those who are sufficiently interested to rise for the purpose in the small hours of the morning. On the 1st he was seen in the constellation Gemini; on the 12th he is in line with Castor and Pollux; on the 24th he may be found in Praesepe, a cluster of small stars in Cancer.

Jupiter is evening star until the 8th, and then changes his role to that of morning star. On the 8th, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, this brilliant planet is in conjunction with the sun, disappearing beyond him, and being for a time totally lost to terrestrial view. He will, however, soon take his place among the visible morning stars, and afford new material for telescopic research.

The September moon fulls on the 24th. On the 3d, the day of the last quarter, the moon is in conjunction with Saturn, and on the 5th with Mars.
On the 7th she is in close conjunction with Mercury, and on the 8th, when about an hour old, the new moon is in conjunction with the sun. On the 9th the moon is in very close conjunction with Uranus, on the 11th with Venus, and on the 27th with Neptune. On the 24th the moon is partially eclipsed, which is visible in this latitude. It commences at 1:15 a. m. and ends at 4:22 a. m. About four-fifths of her diameter is in the earth's shadow.

September is richly freighted with active and stirring events among the members of the solar family, in which the sun himself deigns to participate.
Two great planets, Jupiter and Uran-us, disappear from view as they reach conjunction with the sun. Mercury flits between the earth and the sun, and then oscillates to his extreme western limit or elongation, when early risers may behold him for a short time before his fitful light is quenched in the sunbeams. The sun reaches the autumnal equinox and shines benignly over the world, while equal day and night reign from pole to pole. A favored few will behold a total eclipse of his radiant face, and gaze with admiring eyes upon the peerless spectacle as the silvery corona springs into view and rosy flames dart forth from the border of the eclipsed sun, while the stars reappear in the darkened sky, and the face of nature is shrouded in funereal gloom. The moon is not behind the superior members of the family. She treats us to a partial eclipse and the occultation of a bright star. More than this, our fair satellite crowns the first autumnal month with the harvest moon. For several successive evenings there is but little difference in the time of her rising, so that the lesser orb appears in the eastern sky soon after the larger orb disappears in the western, thus seeming to prolong the day, flooding the earth with silvery light and making it beautiful as a dream of the land where there is no night. There may be other planets combining higher elements of natural beauty than this little world, when the sunset clouds linger in the west, and the harvest moon, rising majestically in the east, looks serenely down upon a fair land, ripe for the harvest. If such fairy abodes exist in the great universe of space, we have no desire to visit them, unless we can be equipped for the voyage with higher powers of appreciation than those with which we are now endowed.

The Two Orphans.

No better evidence of the real merit of the performances given by the Standard Dramatic Company can be found than in the fact that the Opera House is crowded every night to attend them.
Last night was no exception to the rule.
The Two Orphans was well rendered and in better style, we think, than will often be found the case at much higher priced shows. Fanchon will be presented to-night and, no doubt, to another crowded house.

A Slight Fire.

There was a slight fire this morning, at 10:30 o'clock, at the distillery of Messrs Morton & Hall, near the Carolina Central depot. It caught on the roof but fortunately was discovered in time and suppressed by the workmen on the yard. A small hole was burned and the damage was light. An alarm was sent to the City Hall and given out from there to the steamers but it did not become general. The fire is thought to have caught either from a spark from the chimney of the glue house or from a passing engine.

Personal.

We were pleased to receive a call this morning from Mr. W. R. Bryan, of Duplin county, who is in the city on a short business trip.

Maj. H. H. Foster, of the DAILY RE-VIEW, left the city this morning for a short space of rest and recreation. He will visit friends near Goldsboro.

Mr. E. G. Styron, who returned here last night from a short visit to Fayetteville, says that the old town is on a big boom now. The branch house at that place of Messrs Brown & Roddick, of this city, is, he says, the finest in its line in Fayetteville.

We heard, with much regret, several days since, of the fact that Capt. Henry Savage had been stricken with partial paralysis, but purposely did not mention it. We are glad to learn now that there has been some improvement in his condition.

Forty Miles in Four Days.

There is much and continued complaint as to the mail service between Rocky Point and Point Caswell. It is a daily mail on the schedule but in no other way so far as intercourse with this city is concerned. Point Caswell is only about 20 miles from Wilmington and yet it takes a merchant at the former place four days to dispatch a letter to this city and receive an answer. And this, too, when Point Caswell is only 17 miles from Rocky Point. Mail matter which leaves here to-morrow morning for either Long Creek or Point Caswell does not reach its destination until Saturday because it must lie at Rocky Point twenty-four hours.
The mail carrier leaves Rocky Point an hour or so before the train from Wilmington arrives there and therein is the delay. The merchants of Wilmington and the people all along the line of the route protest against it, but without avail. The present system is unnecessary, and senseless, and unjust.
The road from Rocky Point to Point Caswell, via Long Creek, is one of the best in this section of the country, and as there are nearly nine hours between the two trains with which the mail driver ought to connect, it will be seen that there is ample time in which to perform the service.

The attention of the Second Assistant P. M. General is called to these facts, and we sincerely trust that some relief will be afforded at an early day.

Indications.

For the South Atlantic States, generally fair weather, except on the immediate coast, occasional local rains, Northeasterly winds, becoming variable, and a slight rise in temperature.

There will be two eclipses this month, a total eclipse of the sun, on the 8th, invisible in America, and a partial eclipse of the moon, on the 24th, visible here.

"My love, what magic spell is thrown Upon your face? His charm I own.
Whence came thy pure and peerly teeth?
Thy rosy lips? Thy perfumed breath?"
She said, in accents sweet and clear, "It's only SOZODONT, my dear."

The Atmosphere of Love

Is a pure, sweet breath. This desideratum is one of the results of using SO-ZODONT, which not only invigorates and preserves the teeth, but renders the mouth as fragrant as a rose.

"SPALDING'S GLUE," handy about their 'R' mends everything.
