The number of non working holidays in France, including Sundays, amounts to 100 whole days in each year. In Greece they have 100 days; in Russia, 96; in Belgium, 65; in England, 60; in Scotland, 59. In the United States it varies in different States. But few, if any, of the latter have more than seven or eight holidays in addition to Sundays.

Operator's Tournament.
On Monday night the operators of the Atlantic Coast Line of railroad from Richmond to this city had a telegraph tournament. Mr. Moore, the operator at Whitaker's Station, on the Wilmington & Weldon Railroad, won the first prize, a gold medal. Mr. Tucker, the operator at Goldsboro, won the second prize, another medal; third prize, another medal, was won by Mr. C. C. Duval, of Richmond. The best time was made by Operator Tucker, who sent 150 words in 4 minutes 39 1/2 seconds. Operator Moore was more accurate, therefore he was awarded the first prize. His time was 150 words in 4 minutes and 41 seconds. Mr. Samuel Crowder, one of the operators in the Western Union office in Petersburg, was time keeper.

Rosh Hashannah.
The year 5646 commences to-night and the Hebrews throughout the world will meet with prayer and penitence for the past. To-morrow (Thursday) morn, noon and eve, and Friday morning will be marked with New Year's impressive ceremonies. Every morning for some days before and for 8 days after early propitiatory prayers are recited among the Germans, while among the Portuguese such prayers are read every evening for a month before and a week after, while at service the day before New Year's an atonement is read before daylight besides. The first ten days of the year are called the ten days of penance, the first of which is the day of atonement. The ceremonies of the new year, or Rosh Hashannah, to use the Hebrew term, includes the sounding of the shofar in the synagogues, to remind the congregation of the approach of the great fast day, and bid them make their peace with their neighbors before they seek to make their peace with Heaven on the great holy day of the year. White is a distinguishing color in the synagogues for these holy days, and the ladies are supposed to wear white in their dress, especially on atonement day. The prayers are remarkable in their liberality of tone; there is prayer for mankind's regeneration and the establishment of the Messianic age of universal peace and brotherhood.

Indications.
For the South Atlantic States generally fair weather. Southwesterly winds, being high on the Carolina coast, high temperature, followed by lower temperature in the interior.

Last Night.
The Lawn Party and Concert given by the Cornet Concert Club and the Chantwell Light Guards, in the City Hall Park, last evening, was fairly well attended, notwithstanding the unpropitious outlook of the weather. The grounds were handsomely decorated and beautifully illuminated, the refreshments tempting and the music entrancing and everybody found it enjoyable.

Beauregard and Wright.
Recently our neighbor of the Star published some very interesting tables relative to prominent officers who graduated at West Point and a correspondent of the News and Observer, resident at Smithville, himself a graduate of that institution, who saw the articles in our Raleigh cotemporary, writes to that paper some additional interesting points. He thinks that Capt. William H. Wright, of the Engineer Department, was the superior of Gen. Beauregard. Capt. Wright died before our recollection but we have always heard him spoken of as an exceptionally brilliant man and are who would doubtless have achieved a very high position had he lived. We have often heard him and the late Gen. W. H. C. Whiting spoken of as two of the most brilliant engineer officers the service has ever had. Capt. Wright was a native of Wilmington, the son of Mr. Chas. B. Wright and a nephew of the late Dr. Thos. H. Wright, W. A. Wright and Joshua G. Wright: The correspondent alluded to says:
I knew them both (Beauregard and Wright) well at West Point and their relative standing there. William Wright stood decidedly at the head of his class. He was at the head, I am sure, in every course of study but the French language—Beauregard's native tongue. Wright was a particularly bright boy, and had his bodily strength been equal to that of his mind he would have been one of our strong and able men, one to have outshone Beauregard as a soldier as well as a scholar.
There were forty-five (45) graduates in this class of 1838—(1) W. H. Wright, North Carolina; (2) P. G. T. Beauregard, Louisiana; (3) James H. Trapier, South Carolina; (4) Stephen H. Campbell, Vermont; (5) Jeremiah M. Scarrett, Illinois. These were the five (5) distinguished cadets who were allowed to be printed in the annual army register. Wright died at Wilmington, N. C., December 29, 1845, aged 31. He was at the time in charge of an important engineering work in Boston harbor—came here to visit his family, (he married a daughter of John R. London, Esq., late of Wilmington) was taken with malarial fever, and failed to recover.
Irvin McDowell, of Bull Run fame, (of Ohio) was No. 23 in his class, and our Lieutenant General William J. Hardie, of Georgia, was 26 in the same class.
Edward Johnson, of Kentucky, No. 32, was our General captured at the "Wilderness."
But I was only writing you this note to vindicate the ability and standing of Wilmington's honored son.
The standing at the military academy is dependent upon many circumstances besides ability and talent, such as preparation before entering there. W. H. C. Whiting had graduated at Georgetown college before going to West Point, and generally the distinguished five and many others have been well trained in a scientific course before going to West Point; whereas Stonewall Jackson had very little educational advantages, and I might say, the great body of cadet candidates have very limited opportunities for an education before they enter the military academy. When such come in contact with those of better opportunities it (at first) tells in their standing, and though a low standing may be overcome in another or more advanced class, yet the graduating standing is made up of the combined standing of each class and the conduct roll for the four years. While ability will tell, yet it is not all that tells in after life.

Personal.
Capt. B. L. Perry, who has been in Carteret county for a week past, returned to the city last night.

Mrs. E. Warren will leave to-morrow morning for New York and will visit Saratoga and other points of interest before she returns.

Mr. Joo. D. Bellamy, Jr. and Mrs. Bellamy, returned to the city last night, after a month's absence, spent in visiting places of interest at the North. They visited Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, Saratoga, Lake George, Niagara and other places of interest in New York State and also crossed over into Canada.

Mr. N. Jacobi, Representative of the Supreme Council of the American Legion of Honor, which has been in session at Boston, returned last night, accompanied by Mrs. Jacobi, who has been with him. He is loud in praise of the hospitality, kindness, and courtesy of the people of the Hub and says that it was one of the most enjoyable visits he has ever made.

New York vs. North Carolina.
The cabbage is a plant which is grown in North Carolina and imported from New York and New England. It doesn't grow on trees but seems to thrive better on shipboard at this season of the year than anywhere else. Those raised in this section are better than those which are imported but yet they are not so costly as the others and don't come from the North and therefore a great many people prefer the imported article. It is something like hay in this respect. You can very often get four crops of hay on North Carolina meadows but yet it is not labeled East River or North River and is therefore n. c. in the eyes of some people. Besides, many think that hay, like whiskey, is improved by a sea voyage. Northern hay, Northern cabbage and Northern apples are now being freely imported into North Carolina while the grass in our meadows grows wild and tangled and neglected, the cabbages are sprouting in our fields and luscious apples hang unpicked on the trees and are fed to stock as fast as they fall.

The Othello, New Emerald, Zeb Vance and New Excelsior Penn., are the leading cook stoves, both in quality and price. They can be seen at JACOB'S Hdw. Depot.

Rev. Charles Jones Soon.
The News and Observer has the following relative to Rev. Charles Jones Soon, the young Chinaman who was converted to Christianity in this city, through the efforts of Rev. T. Page Ricard, and who is soon to sail as missionary to his native land:
Sunday Raleigh people had the pleasure for the first time of hearing sermons and a lecture by a native of China. The preacher and the lecturer was Rev. Charles J. Soon, and the impression he made was in all respects pleasant and gratifying. In the morning he preached at the Person street Methodist church in the afternoon at 4 o'clock he lectured at Edenton street Methodist church, his subject being that ever interesting one, "China." He speaks remarkably good English when the fact is considered that he has been in this country but a few years. He preaches with considerable power and impressiveness and many of his auditors expressed great surprise both at his ability and command of the language. Mr. Soon's history is very interesting. When a boy of 12 years he ran away from China and came to Boston. There he got a boy's place on the U. S. revenue cutter Colfax, and on that vessel sailed for Wilmington. During his stay in Boston, before he joined the crew of the cutter, he attended Sunday school and became a sort of protege of a kind Christian lady there. When he was at Wilmington he attended a series of meetings at Fifth street Methodist church and was there, under the ministrations of Rev. T. P. Ricard, converted. By Rev. Mr. Ricard he was taken to Durham. The M. E. Sunday school at the latter place made him its special protegee and sent him to Trinity college as its pupil. He remained at Trinity a year or two and made wonderful progress. Later Mr. Julian S. Carr secured him a scholarship at Vanderbilt university, Nashville, Tenn. He attended there three years, and took the theological course. He has become a minister of the Gospel and Sept. 25th will join the North Carolina Methodist conference, at Charlotte. Soon afterwards he will sail for China, his native land, as a missionary. He has never, in all these years, heard a word from his family there, nor does he know whether his father and mother are alive. He hopes they are, as he desires to give them the tidings of the Gospel. He will always be pleasantly remembered here and the Methodists of Raleigh wish him success in all his work. The audiences which heard him lecture in the afternoon and preach at night were the largest ever seen at the church. He received many attentions while here.
