THE OHIO CAMPAIGN.

A Vigorous Canvass-Outlook for Democratic Success.

(Herald Sper'al) TOLEDO, Sept. 15 1885 .- The Prohibi-

Republican leaders. Your correspon- 75 years old. dent has been informed by the editor of a Prohibition paper that the vote will reach 100,000, and he would be satisfied with nothing less than 80,000. I do not think it will reach the figures he named, but if it reaches half that it means defeat for the republican party.

In speaking with General James Comly, who is well posted on Ohio politics, he informed me that the Republican press was counting too soon on a victory which could only be ob- in existence. 'Tis used and praised by tained after a terrible struggle, and everybody. never in his memory had political leaders been at such a loss in summing up the result. It was simply impossible to predict it.

Peter Brady, Treasurer of the State and a candidate for reelection, says:-"The prospects are brighter now for the election of the entire Democratic State ticket than they were at the same time two years ago." He gives for his reasons "the large prohibition vote, which draws its strength from the Republicans, and the disaffection of the colored vote from Foraker."

Frank Hurd, satisfied that he will win his contest for a seat in Congress. has taken a hand in shaping local movements, and for the nonce is on top. He is confident that the State will go Democratic, and that Ohio will not have a divided yote in the Senate after this year.

Republican legislative ticket in this district, which greatly endangers its success. While he opposes the nominees, he keeps their names at the head of the editorial columns of his paper. and after the visit of John Sherman to this city it is whispered his opposition will cease. The Legislature is very evenly divided, and the loss of two representatives seriously endangers Sherman's chances of succeeding himself in so be can warm Sherman's seat in the Senate. So it can be easily seen the fight is very complex.

Ex-Senator Thurman is most prom-inently named for the Senate if the Democrats secure the Legislature, but it is thought he will decline the oflice. He has not yet recovered from the insult given him by the Ohio delegation at Chicago under the lead of Hoadly.

Should Senator Thurman decline, there will be several applicants for the seat, but none so powerful or well equipped for a fight as John R Mc-Lean. He is the leading representa tive of the younger and more advanced men of his party. He has wealth, brains and an influential paper to back frail" him, and will have no rival armed with anything like his power.

With so many interests at stake this campaign promises to be the most eventful in Ohio's history, and what Ohio has not experienced in the political line in the last quarter of a century is hardly worth experiencing.
