THE DAILY REVIEW.

VOL. IX. WILMINGTON, N. C. FRIDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1885. NO 248

from our friends on any and all subjects; general interest but the name of the writer must always be withheld to the Editor. Communications must be written on one side of the paper. Personalities must be avoided. And it is especially and particularly understood that the Editor does not always endorse the views of correspondents unless so stated in the editorial columns.

The Daily Review has the largest bona fide circulation of any newspaper published in the city of Wilmington.

"To Jarrett," meaning "to abduct," has made its appearance in English journals.

A great deal of land around Winchester, England, may be leased for 25 cents an acre.

Forest culture in Dakota has led to the appearance of birds that were never before seen there.

The Indian uprising in the United States," was the Edinburgh Courant's heading over the account of Caceres' outbreak.

The Countess De Roheffoucauld and the Countess de Bethune appear on the real estate assessment rolls in New Orleans for over $100,000.

There are between 300,000 and 400,000 cyclists in England, and the ancient city of Coventry is the chief seat of the cycle-making industry.

The Sultan is as devoted to Wagner as the King of Bavaria. Much of his time is passed at the piano, and two of his sons are accomplished musicians.

A letter written in Galveston and addressed to a firm at Palestine, Texas, recently went all the way to the great Palestine in Asia, and finally was returned from Jerusalem.

It is rumored that Sir Edward Thornton, formerly British minister at Washington, but now representing his Government at the Court of the Sultan of Turkey, will be raised to the peerage.

The condition of the landowners in East Lothian, Scotland, is most unenviable, and the prevailing depression is making itself felt all over Scotland. One nobleman with a rent roll of $350,000 per annum has received just $30,000 net.

Since 1852 $373,000,000 has been laid out in rebuilding and embellishing Paris. The new Town Hall cost about $60,000,000, and $40,000,000 has been spent on the four parks—the Bois de Boulogne, Bois de Vincennes, Parc Monceaux and Montsouris.

Ten physicians, who have had an opportunity for personal observation, report diversely as to the deadliness of leprosy. Four feel certain that it is absolutely incurable, three are in doubt, and three believe that chaulmoogra oil may prove a specific, as they have seen remarkable results from its use.

No class in England has in the past thirty years seen such an improvement in its condition as the army. The modern barracks have admirable sanitary arrangements, baths, libraries, fires courts, and gymnasiums; in fact, are so comfortable that many of the men do not go outside for days together.

When the late Lord Shaftesbury was Lord Ashley, by which title he was long prominent, there were some 400 peers, and probably 200 had grown-up sons; and yet out of this large body of men, his is about the only name standing out as that of a nobleman who gave his time, energy, money and the prestige of his position to the cause of benevolence.

Mr. Parnell's estate in Wicklow, already rich in valuable stones, almost exclusively used now in Dublin building, has developed a new source of wealth in mushrooms in great profusion and of extraordinary size. One specimen sent to the Dublin market weighed four pounds, and measured more than a foot within the cup.

Theatrical circles in Paris are lamenting the retirement of that charming actress, Mlle. Croizette, who is about to sacrifice herself at the hymeneal altar. By her marriage the dramatic world loses a brilliant actress and the bridegroom gains a beautiful wife. She is 32 years of age, and possesses a charming figure, brown eyes, and teeth the envy of every Parisienne.

If the corners of the mouth are habitually drawn down in a frown and the brows wrinkled in perplexity, those features will gradually assume an aspect of repellent seriousness. On the other hand, the man who smiles a great deal will acquire a pleasant expression. A Yankee has invented an apparatus to be worn at night, which he fancies will not only lend an agreeable expression to a face that has not yet become set, but will obliterate and rearrange the unpleasant lines that time and circumstances have established.

The planet Venus sets now about an hour after the sun. Mars rises soon after midnight, in the constellation Cancer. Jupiter rises only about two hours before the sun. So that Saturn, which is nearly stationary in the western part of Gemini, and rises about half past 9, is practically the only large planet which is visible in the evening.

Death of Capt. Howell.

Capt. Joe Howell, for many years a conductor on the Wilmington & Weldon Railroad, died at his residence in Northampton county, on Saturday, the 17th inst., in the 66th year of his age. Capt. Howell was well known in this city and will be remembered by many who lived on the line of the road ten or twelve years ago. He was a conductor for about fifteen years, and has a son, Capt. J. L. Howell, who is now a conductor on the Wilmington, Columbia & Augusta Railroad.

City Court.

Attng Mayor Bear had quite a full docket at this morning's court.

A. A. Grice, colored, charged with disorderly conduct in fighting in the Hollow, was required to pay a fine of two dollars and a half or go below for three days.

Henry Batson and Wesley Saunders, both colored, were found sleeping in a freight car near the old Union depot, and were taken in. Both were discharged with a warning.

One man, whose name we suppress by request, charged with disorderly conduct, was required to pay a fine of five dollars or go below four days.

A Fact.

It is well known to all that when a person of uncertain propensities has appropriated property that does not belong to him and the police are after him and pushing him closely he shouts vigorously—"stop thief!" This decoy cry is too old to avail in these modern times. So, when a progressive merchant is outstripping all competitors, and a Cheap John establishment, whose only road to success is humbug, is anxious to overtake him and to distract real merit and to withdraw attention from his own shortcomings, the shoddy dealer always shouts humbug! at the top of his voice. This little game will answer in some parts of the world but has long since played out in this section of our great republic.

Wood vs. Lime.

In consequence of the frequent falling of plastering in the shoe store of Messrs Geo. H. French & Sons, occasioned by the heavy stock of goods stored upon the second floor, it has been decided to remove it entirely from overhead and replace it with a ceiling of boards, and workmen are now engaged in making the desired change.

Personal.

Mr. L. DeH. Jones, formerly of this city, but more recently of Florida, has returned to Wilmington with the intention of again making this his residence.

Capt. W. M. Parker, who has been on a visit to the North for several months, has recovered his health, and is expected to arrive here to-morrow night.

Mr. E. J. Powers has returned to the city from Ocean Beach, N. J., where, with his family, he has spent the Summer. He is at his old quarters in the Parcell House.

Mr. James G. Burr, Jr., son of Dr. A. B. Burr, of the U. S. Engineer service, and who is on Gen. Newton's staff, is in the city on a visit to his grandfather, Col. James G. Burr.

Musical.

Prof. J. H. Denck, of Columbia, S. C., as will be seen by advertisement in another column, will give a piano recital at Miss Annie Hart's school room next Monday night. Prof. Denck is an accomplished pianist and a thorough musician who will give our music loving people an excellent treat. The Charleston News and Courier, in speaking of his recent appearance at an entertainment given by the Young Men's Christian Association in that city, says:

One of the leading features of the concert last night was the performance on the piano by Prof. J. H. Denck, of Columbia, whose reputation for musical ability is well established in Charleston. In addition to a skillful mastery of his instrument Prof. Denck's renditions are characterized by an expressive touch and rare taste. Among the most favorably received of the many numbers filled by Prof. Denck were Thalberg's "Souvenir d'Amerique," Gottschalk's "God save the Queen," and the "Valse Brillante," by Raff.

After Many Years.

One of those singular episodes which sometimes occur in human lives by which near and dear kindred, long separated and supposed to have crossed the dark river, are brought together again, is about to come to light in this city. The circumstances are substantially as follows:

Dr. E. W. Ward, of Onslow county, has a sister who removed with her mother to Memphis, Tenn., 33 years ago, in the year 1852. Intercourse between the families was interrupted by the war, and many years passed without hearing anything from the absent sister further than a rumor that she had died of yellow fever when that terrible scourge devastated the city of Memphis soon after the close of the war. This rumor seemed to become a fact from the silence which followed and which has been maintained until the early part of the present year, when the postmaster at Jacksonville, Onslow county, received a letter from the sister, in Memphis, who was yet alive, making enquiries regarding her brother Dr. Ward. Correspondence was immediately resumed between brother and sister, the result of which was that she signified her intention of paying a visit to North Carolina, and last night Mr. C. C. Corbin, who is a son-in-law of Dr. Ward, having received a telegram informing him of the time when she would reach Wilmington, met her at the train, and she is now his guest at Corbin's Dining Parlors on Market street. Dr. Ward has been notified of the arrival of his sister, who has been many years married and is now Mrs. E. J. Pendleton, and he is now on his way and will probably arrive here on to-night's train. Mrs. Pendleton has two daughters and both well married—one to the County Clerk of Memphis and the other to a prosperous merchant in the same city.

Each for many years had supposed the other dead, and their meeting will be almost as if both had risen from their graves to look once more, before the final scene shall come, upon each other and to live again for a few fleeting days in fond reminiscences of childhood's halcyon days. What tender memories must be recalled after so many years of separation, and what unutterable gratitude to God they both must feel to think that He has spared them these many years to look again upon each other's loved faces. It must seem to them more like a sweet and delightful dream than a blessed reality.

More Room.

Mr. B. H. J. Ahrens is having an addition made to his ice house which, when completed, will add considerable space to his room. The addition adjoins his present ice house, with which communication will be made by means of a door which will be cut in the East wall of the main building. The new part will be 25 feet long on Dock street, 46 feet deep and of the same height (40 feet) as the main building. The front part of the first floor of the addition will be devoted to the retail ice department, while the remainder of the building will be used for storage purposes.

Wedding at Smithville.

On Thursday, the 13th inst., as we gather from an esteemed correspondent who was present, there was a brilliant wedding at the Baptist Church at Smithville, at which Rev. Mr. Gentry officiated and Mr. F. J. Anders, of Bladen county, and Mrs. Mary C. Carr, of Smithville, were the contracting parties. There was a large gathering to witness the impressive ceremony, and after it was concluded about fifty of those in attendance repaired to the residence of the bride where a bountiful feast of the good things of this earth had been prepared for them, and to which all did ample justice. Early the next morning the newly married pair started in a carriage for the home of the groom in Bladen, accompanied by Messrs John Henry and R. M. Westcott, who had been present at the wedding as the special friends of Mr. Anders. The party stopped the first night on their homeward journey at the house of Mr. Westcott, and starting, with quite a number of friends, the next morning, arrived at their destination at about 1 o'clock in the afternoon, to find an elegant dinner in waiting for them. And here we leave them—after dinner—in the enjoyment of a domestic bliss which we hope may attend them through the remainder of life's pilgrimage.

Beware Where You Trade.

The question that should interest you the most is where the best clothing for men, boys or children can be had for the least money, without any nonsense or humbugging. Just think for a moment, how could these scheming concerns exist if such was not the case; if their prices were not above SIKKER'S, who is satisfied with the smallest living profit? We sell as fine clothing as can be bought ready made of the largest clothing houses in this country, but we also have low and medium qualities, for every one is not able to buy the finest. It is a well known fact that every garment in our house, whether the cheapest or the best, is strong, durable and well made. We will not sell poor, worthless goods at any price. Remember, also, you are not taxed for any snide 10 cent gifts. We are not tricky, but we do guarantee to give you more and better value for your money than you get elsewhere. This is the secret that lies at the foundation of the success of SIKKER, the Old Reliable Clothier, 114 Market st., sign of the Golden Arm.

Painters and those in need of white lead, colors, oil, etc., can get the best and save by buying at JACOB'S HDW. DEPOT.

"Dollars and Sense."

Two necessary adjuncts in the commercial world. The more you possess of the latter the more advantageously you can dispose of the former.

To clothing buyers this is particularly applicable, because of the trash that is constantly being placed before their eyes, while the cry of bargains! bargains! is trumpeted over them. Would you call a counterfeit half dollar a bargain because you can buy it for 35 cents? You would laugh at the man that made you such an offer, and yet similar bargains are daily placed before the clothing buyer. A great many people never look further than the material of which a garment is made when they purchase, and some clothiers are not over anxious that they should. And yet the telling points in clothing are the workmanship and finish.

FISHLAKE is ready for inspection.

The stock of goods he shows might be called "custom made" with the single exception that they are not made for any particular person. The variety is extensive and includes everything appertaining to Boys and Children's and Men's Clothing, from good to the finest. The stock is right, the prices are right and you who take advantage of the goods FISHLAKE offers are very, very right.

The Othello is, without doubt, the best cook stove in this market. Call at JACOB'S HDW. DEPOT, and see it before buying.
