THE DAILY REVIEW.

VOL. IX. WILMINGTON, N. C. SATURDAY, DECEMBER 12, 1885. NO 289

Within the past month a number of evictions have taken place on the Armagh estate of Lord Charlemont, grandson of the famous nobleman known as the Patriot Earl, who opposed the Union. In one case no rent had been paid for sixteen and in another none for ten years. The present peer is seldom resident.

English law makes a difference between ordinary lectures and those delivered at universities. It has been recently decided, on appeal, at Glasgow, that a university student may take notes of lectures and publish them, if he pleases, without the consent of the professors. The lectures are considered public property.

Attention is invited to the new advertisement of Mr. J. F. A. Reaves, proprietor of the Racket Store, corner Dock and Second streets, as it appears in this issue. There are lots of pretty things there for big folks and little folks too.

A Natural Curiosity.
We saw a wonderful curiosity this morning at the Gem Saloon, on North Front street, in the shape of a puppy which had no forelegs. There were two well formed hind legs but not a vestige of anything of the kind in front. There were three pups in the litter black and tan. One died at birth, one is still alive and one (that showed us this morning) lived four days and then died. Mr. West will preserve it in alcohol.

Shrier as Santa Claus.
"You may just say to the people of your acquaintance" said SHRIER, the Old Reliable Clothier, "that I am going to play Santa Claus this season and will distribute from my headquarters the following appropriate things for presents: An overcoat of fine beaver, or a dress suit, a business suit, a boy's suit, or a child's suit, silk handkerchiefs, driving gloves, dress gloves, furnishing goods, &c. &c." Just invite Santa Claus to call at our store, 114 Market street, and see the things I have selected for Santa Claus.

A Rough Passage.
The steamship Benefactor, Capt. Tribon, which arrived here to-day from New York, had a fearfully rough passage. She left New York on Sunday last, and experienced a very heavy gale on Sunday night and Monday, which died out on Monday night. During this gale one of the crew was washed overboard, but fortunately, with the next roll of the vessel he was washed on board again and rescued from a watery grave. Tuesday commenced with calm, fair weather, but it soon began to breeze up, with the wind from E. S. E., which soon increased to very squally weather with thick, rolling clouds overhead. Passed Cape Hatteras at half past 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and at 6 o'clock on that night here to on the port tack, the ship laboring heavily and shipping heavy seas. The day closed with heavy squalls and a dirty cross sea running which caused the vessel to labor very much. On Wednesday there was a severe gale all day accompanied by torrents of rain. The sea ran mountains high and the ship labored very heavily, shipping an abundance of water. On Wednesday night the main stays were carried away and the ship was in imminent peril of being dismasted. Thursday morning the weather began to moderate and the jib and mainsail were set and the vessel headed for the land, she having been blown by the gale nearly to the Easterly edge of the Gulf Stream and to the Northward of Hatteras, so that she passed that Cape three times in making the passage. The weather continued to moderate through the entire day, and for the remainder of the passage they had good weather. It was rumored here that she had 16 passengers on board, but she had only two.

The December Skies.
The heavens will be alive with interesting events among our celestial neighbors, the planets, during this month. The moon occults Jupiter and Uranus on the same morning, and hides from view the star Aldebaran on another occasion. A telescopic view of the occultation of Jupiter presents a scene of wondrous beauty. The prince of planets, surrounded by his beaming satellites, seems to plunge headlong into the moon's domain, and to be suddenly blotted from the sky. It is only for a short time. He soon reappears as majestic and stately as ever, pursuing his course among the stars, and soon, with his companions, to disappear in the coming daylight. The opposition of Saturn is a noteworthy event on the monthly record. There are also the quadratures of Mars, Jupiter and Uranus, the greatest eastern elongation of Venus, and the interior conjunction of Mercury. Mars holds a conference with Regulus, and Jupiter draws near to Eta Virginis.

The sun crowns the month with two great events. On the 21st he reaches the winter solstice, when he turns his smiling face northward, and gives promise of the brighter days and more gentle breezes that will surely follow his approaching steps. On the 30th the sun is in perigee, or at his nearest point to the earth, being 3,000,000 miles nearer than when most distant, thus tampering the severity of winter in our northern climes.

Religious Items.

Rev. Dr. Pritchard will preach the sixth of his series of sermons expressly for women at the First Baptist Church to-morrow night. His subject will be, "Jochebed, the Mother of Moses." It will be a short sermon, the singing will be of popular hymns on cards and the seats will be free. The ordinance of baptism will be administered after the sermon.

Personal.
Rev. J. L. Stewart, of Clinton, Sampson county, was in the city to-day. We were sorry to see that he was suffering still from a lameness which has afflicted him for some time. He is improving slowly in health and thinks that he is in a fair way for a permanent recovery.

Dr. R. W. Ward, of Onslow county, was in the city to-day and favored us with a very pleasant visit. He is a strong friend of the proposed Onslow R. R., and cannot understand why it is that the corporation do not move in the matter. He thinks the road will surely be built.
