THE DAILY REVIEW.

VOL. XI. WILMINGTON, N. C., MONDAY, JANUARY 24, 1887. NO 20

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

(Special Cor. Daily Review.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 21, 1887.

The stoical manner in which Clu-verius met his fate, his denial of guilt, or rather his failure to confess the crime for which he died, seems to have confirmed the belief of those who were inclined to think him innocent, and raises a doubt in many who thought him so connected with the crime by a chain of circumstances as to fix the murder upon him.

It seems incredible that a man in his full senses will thus go into the presence of the Eternal Judge, and yet, it has been done, and doubtless was in his case.

One of the most notable instances on record, perhaps, was the case of the Englishman Broughton, who was hanged in Wilmington some years ago, for killing a Portuguese shopkeeper there by the name of Frank de Silva. I think he was known to his customers as "Frank."

Some of your readers will recall the case, Frank was found murdered in the "flat" above his shop, where he usually slept. The wound showed that he had been killed with a blunt instrument, and a cut in the flat above his head suggested that the pole of an axe or hatchet had been used. One with stains upon it was found in Broughton's possession, as was, also, some of the things known to belong to the murdered man. Broughton was tried and convicted and executed, and I don't think a living soul ever doubted his guilt.
But he denied it to the very last, and under conditions that would seem impossible. On the gallows, with the rope about his neck, he reiterated his innocence and said: "That you may know that I am not animated by any hope of reprieve in this denial I will assert it by clapping my hands after I am swung off." And he as nearly as possible did it!

It is much to be regretted that this celebrated case was not reported in full.
It was managed on both sides with great ability and deserves, as it would have found a place among the "Leading Cases."

It may be added, that he left a confession admitting crimes for which he deserved death, while denying that for which he died. But, as I have said, no one doubted his guilt.

It puzzles the ordinary mind to note the seeming indifference with which men sometimes "shuff" off this mortal coil. The French Revolution was full of noted instances, and none was more dramatic than that of the Duc de Launay. He was a finished representative of the French noblesse of the higher order, of great elegance of manners, and of striking talents, but utterly prodigal and imprincipled. He visited England and imbibed that An-glophile with some of his countrymen.
On his return to France he settled down in a village near Paris and set up as a philosopher. Subsequently he became an avowed Republican, was placed at the head of an army, fought and conquered, was suspected, was seized by the convention and completed the course of a revolutionary general by dying on the scaffold.

He finished his career in the dramatic style of his country. There was no complaint of the "law's delay" in those days. The criminal pronounced his name and the tribunal ordered his execution. The scaffold followed the example of the tribunal, and the condemned were generally put to death in the next five minutes. In this case, however, there was a delay of a whole hour. On returning to his dungeon, he ordered oysters and wine. While indulging over this final meal, the executioner entered to tell him that "the law could wait no longer." "I beg a thousand pardons, my friend," said the duke, "but do me the honor to allow me to finish my oysters." The request was granted. "But I had forgot," he observed, "You will have something to do to-day, and a glass of wine will refresh you; permit me to fill one." The offer was graciously accepted. "Again I had forgot," he added, "there is our mutual friend, the turnkey." The turnkey was called in; three glasses were filled; the three were drunk off a la sant; and in a few minutes the head of this gay fellow was rolling on the scaffold.

A case rivaling this in all but its dramatic elegance occurred in Duplin county, N. C., some years ago. A negro man was tried, convicted and hung for killing his master. On the gallows he was told by the Sheriff that time would be allowed him for any remarks he desired to make, and he commenced a rambling speech. In the midst of it he said: "Mr. Hussey, I wish you'd send for them." The amiable Sheriff dispatched one of his deputies, who soon returned with the cakes. The condemned man divided them among the Sheriff and deputies and ate the rest himself with the same nonchalant that had been exhibited by Launay, called for a glass of water and a few minutes later was executed.

But it is not always so. Pope says very truly:
"Who combats bravely is not always brave."
"He dreads a death bed like the meanest slave."

It is told of Marshal Ney, that the morning of his execution found him totally unnerfed. A friend noticing it said: "Can it be possible that Marshal Ney, who has faced death upon a hundred battle fields without fear, trembles now at its approach?" The hero replied: "It is true that Marshal Ney has faced death a hundred times without fear, but death never faced Marshal Ney before."

Here was a distinction with a difference.

Cluverius died like a philosopher, but it is hard to believe had he been guiltless, that he would not have added to his forgiveness of all a positive and unequivocal denial before he died.

Excitement in Texas.

Great excitement has been caused in the vicinity of Paris, Tex., by the remarkable recovery of Mr. J. E. Corley, who was so helpless he could not turn in bed, or raise his head; every body said he was dying of Consumption. A trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery was sent him. Finding relief, he bought a large bottle and a box of Dr.
King's New Life Pills; by the time he had taken two boxes of Pills and two bottles of the Discovery, he was well and had gained in flesh thirty-six pounds.

Trial Bottle of this Great Discovery for Consumption free at W. H. Green & Co's.

Renews Her Youth.

Mrs. Phoebe Chesley, Peterson, Clay Co., Iowa, tells the following remarkable story, the truth of which is vouchered for by the residents of the town: "I am 73 years old, have been troubled with kidney complaint and lameness for many years; could not dress myself without help. Now I am free from all pain and soreness, and am able to do all my own housework. I owe my thanks to Electric Bitters for having renewed my youth, and removed completely all disease and pain." Try a bottle, only 50c. For sale by W. H.
Green & Co.

Greenwald, piano, and S. A. Schloss, cornet, an excellent trio from whom good music may be reasonably expected.

A Cold Wave.

The following cold wave warning was received at the Signal Office here at about noon to-day:

Hoid cold wave signal. The temperature will fall from fifteen to twenty-five degrees during next twenty-four hours.

Indications.

For North Carolina, slightly colder, Westerly winds, becoming Northerly, fair weather, preceded by rain in the Eastern portion.

More Complaints.

Complaints from subscribers of failure to receive the DAILY REVIEW by due course of mail have become alarmingly frequent of late. All we will say at this time in response is that it will surely go straight hereafter or else the authorities in Washington City will know why.

Superior Court.

New Hanover Superior Court, Judge H. C. Connor, presiding, convened at the Court House in this city this morning, but on account of the death of Mr.
Stacey VanAmringe, Jr., an attorney of the Court, and a son of the Superior Court Clerk, it adjourned until 10 o'clock to-morrow morning.

The Gale.

The gale, which began to blow last night, reached its maximum velocity here at 10:15 o'clock this morning, when it blew at the rate of 34 miles per hour, from the Northwest. At noon to-day the barometer was rising and the thermometer was falling, indicating fair and colder weather. During the 24 hours ended at 7 o'clock this morning the thermometer fell 25 degrees at New Orleans, 25 degrees at Atlanta and 22 degrees at Montgomery.

Fire at the Poor House.

At about 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, a fire was discovered on the South end of the County Poor House.
Between the weather boarding and ceiling. There happened, fortunately, to be quite a number of persons present who had gone to visit Superintendent Savage on account of his serious sickness, and these, with the assistance of a number of colored men in the vicinity, quickly tore off a portion of the weatherboarding, by which the flames were reached and soon extinguished.
It is not known precisely under what circumstances the fire originated. The fortunate presence of a number of gentlemen undoubtedly prevented a serious conflagration. The damage is slight and is fully covered by insurance.

The neckwear department at MUN-SON'S is unexcelled anywhere in the city.

Louise Arnot.

This distinguished actress, supported by a strong company, will commence a week's engagement at the Opera House to-night. Wherever the company has appeared they have given delight and entire satisfaction. The Petersburg Index-Appel thus speaks of their performance:

Two and a half hours of roaring, screaming laughter that brought tears to the eyes and made sides shake. That was the condition of things at the Academy of Music last night, where Miss Louise Arnot and her company presented "Fun on the Bristol." It is certain that no passengers on that famous floating palace ever had had so much fun as had the people at the Academy, for the Widow O'Brien was not of the party. While all the members of the company did well, Miss Arnot was the life and soul of the performance, and it can be truthfully said that the part of the dashing widow has never been acted more perfectly than it was by this lady last evening. To say that the immense audience was pleased, would be drawing it mild; everybody was delighted and vowed it was the best performance seen in Petersburg for many a year.

An Important Act.

The subject of the drainage of Green's Mill pond, so as to remove as far as possible the dangers of malarial poisons, together with a better roadway to the National Cemetery has been a matter of serious consideration among those having in charge the sanitary condition of this city. With this object in view a bill has been drawn, asking Congress to appropriate $20,000, of which amount $16,000 shall be for a macadamized road, three fourths of a mile long, or from the Cemetery to near Eighth street, and $4,000 to be appropriated for the proper drainage and filling in of the pond and its vicinity.
The road is proposed to be 30 feet wide in the clear and two feet thick; the County Commissioners to guarantee to the government 60 feet of land, or 15 feet on each side of the roadway, and to keep the road in repair after it is completed. This bill Mayor Hall submitted to Secretary of War Endicott, and to the Quarter Master General, with whom he had long conversations, and whose hearty cooperation he secured.
With their endorsements Mayor Hall then went before the Military Committee of the House of Representatives, by whom he was most favorably received.
He had a long interview with the Chairman of this Committee, who was impressed with the importance of the measure, and Mayor Hall returns with the faith that his efforts will meet with careful consideration and finally with approval by Congress.

son.

City Court.

James Davis, a 12 year-old, colored boy, was brought before Mayor Hall this morning, charged with throwing rocks at an engine yesterday. The evidence showed that while one of the engines was at the woodyard, at the old Union Depot, yesterday, the defendant was present and was picking up wood, Engineer Bissett ordered the boy to put down the wood, which the latter did, but he picked up a piece of brick and threw it into the cab, striking the fireman on the shoulder, and another man on the leg, and came near striking the steam gauge. The defendant was required to pay a fine of $10 or go below for 20 days. He went below.

LAND PLASTER.

300 TONS NOVA SCOTIA LAND PLAS-TER, 94.36 per cent. of Sulphate of Lime.

The want of Plaster has been one of the greatest drawbacks to successful farming in this State, and it is an important service to this great industry and to the State.
It is quite indispensable in any judicious system of agriculture, and it serves several important ends, besides the direct one of furnishing lime and sulphur. It gathers nitrogen and prevents its dissipation and loss; it is a specific for clover and other leguminous plants, and it indirectly renders the potash of the soil available and so a means in the restoration of worn lands.
We have sold Plaster to many during the last year, all from whom we have heard, express their satisfaction at its results.
The application of Plaster to animal manure, will increase the value of that manure beyond calculation.
Composting with plaster will improve the value of your compost 33 1/3 per cent.
Sowing from 20 to 400 pounds of plaster to the acre, over your small grain after it is in the ground, will give you an increased crop of from 50 to 100 per cent.
It is indispensable in early trucking for such as strawberry beds, asparagus beds &c.
