OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

(Special Cor. Daily Review)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 3, 1887.
The local politicians are again at fever heat over the nomination of a Massachusetts negro to succeed the unbleached American from Albany, unconfirmed, but holding over as Recorder of Deeds for this District. The Senate committee has reported adversely upon this nomination also, and it is thought the Senate will ratify their action. The matter has been complicated by the appointment of the new nominee by the old as his deputy, and it looks as if they intend to "beat" him, to hold the fort. As Matthews' appointment is held to expire to-morrow it may be that he hopes the new appointee, confirmed or unconfirmed, will appoint him as his deputy. The appointment is much discussed and "cussed" here, and has caused much bitterness of feeling among white folks generally without regard to party affiliations. They say that Mr. Cleveland is under no obligations to the negroes. He came into office not only without their assistance but they voted solidly against him. He owes them nothing and his official recognition of "the race is gratuitous and offensive as well as unjust to those who did elect him.

There is another side to this question, however, which it is well to look at. The negroes have been taught, ever since they have been freedmen, that if the Democratic party should ever get control of the government they would be reenslaved. You know by whom they were thus taught, and for what purpose. That they were deceived makes no difference. They believed it, or the masses of them did, and hence, when Mr. Cleveland was elected the scare was almost universal. A delegation of the race was appointed to wait upon him at Albany and ask him what he intended to do with them. He told them that the Democratic Party had neither the power or the wish to reestablish slavery, and that they should fare no worse under his administration than that of his Republican predecessors. This is the pledge he seems to be carrying out. A negro to succeed a negro.

President Hayes brought Fred Douglas down here from Rochester, N. Y., and made him U. S. Marshal. But, notwithstanding his miserable cant about the "poor negro," he did not want him too close to himself, and so devolved the personal service upon another officer, a white man, and Fred, was not allowed to come "between the wind and his nobility." Garfield transferred him to another office, Recorder of Deeds, and there Mr. Cleveland found him. Now, Mr. Daniel R. Goodloe made a suggestion at the time of Douglas' appointment that, if acted upon, would have cured the evil, and have saved all this trouble. His proposition was that Douglas should secure all the endorsement he could at his home in Rochester, and that the President should give him an office in Rochester.

When the Democrats of the District called upon the President in regard to the local offices, he asked them if they didn't know some good Democratic negro here that he could appoint to succeed Douglas, and they very frankly told him that they could not see the necessity for any such appointment. He told them that he could find one in New York, and he did so.

There is something of the ring of "Old Hickory" in the firmness manifested by Mr. Cleveland in following his convictions of right. One can almost hear the old hero's: "By the eternal."

The nomination of a successor to Hazen, the Third Assistant Postmaster General, created a deal of sensation in the bureau of that functionary. Everything then has remained in statu quo there, and this move is suggestive of a change that is not agreeable to those who had become quiet of nerve and content.

The expiration of Congress at 12 tomorrow sets the city alight as usual. The Capitol is crowded with lookers on, and claim agents and others interested in unpassed bills. All important matters will doubtless be put through in time for the adjournment, and an extra session be avoided; but of this you will be informed before this reaches you.

The city is thronged with visitors from various parts of the country. New England being largely represented. The Delaware Legislature is here, and attended by the Senators from that State called upon the President to day.

Quite a carnival of crime prevails here—incendiarism, burglaries, and petty thieving prevail to an annoying extent. A few mornings ago, your correspondent was made uncomfortable by finding a panel cut out of the rear door to his premises and the door unlocked. But little was missed, happily. The rascals must have been scared off, before they got in their work. The weather is real cold again, with prospects of snow.

CHADBOURN, N. C.

Something about the New Town on the W. C. & A. R. R.—Its people and its Business—The Chadbourn and Conway R. R.—Its Advance into South Carolina.

The Editor of this paper yesterday fulfilled a promise made a year ago, that some day he would visit the new and thriving little town of Chadbourn and take a trip over the line of the Wilmington, Chadbourn and Conway R. R., and see for himself some of the wonderful progress made in that section within the past few years. On our arrival we found our good friend, Mr. James H. Chadbourn, Jr., awaiting us at the depot and with a welcome so cordial that it was in itself a happy augury of a day of pleasure.

THE TOWN OF CHADBOURN.

It is just five years ago since ground was first broken at Chadbourn for the erection at that point of the works of the Chadbourn Mill and Railway Company. For some time past the necessities of the milling business of Messrs. James H. Chadbourn & Co., in this city, required more facilities than were to be had here. There were orders coming in which required timber which should be especially selected for those orders and hence it was thought best to find a large tract of well-timbered land not far from the city and to erect thereon the necessary mills. After a careful inspection the spot where now stands the prosperous town of Chadbourn was selected and 12,000 acres of heavily timbered land in the vicinity was purchased. Chadbourn is 53 miles from Wilmington and has today, in the beginning of its sixth year, some five hundred inhabitants. It is a regularly incorporated town and the people there seem happy, prosperous and contented. There are three mercantile houses there, all doing a good business, those of the Chadbourn Mill and Railway Company, and Messrs. J. A. Brown and High & Thigpen. There is also a news paper published, the Chadbourn Times, of which Mr. H. S. McEachern is the editor.

We do not know the capacity of the mill. It is of Stern's latest improved mills and has the newest and best-tested appliances for securing speed, accuracy and economy in its operations. It is under the supervision of Mr. James H. Chadbourn, Jr., the resident member of the firm. There is no waste whatever about this mill. Even the sawdust is utilized. The scraps, or refuse, we believe it is called, is all disposed of, most of it being sent to this city where it is purchased by the water works company, by the compresses and by the ice factory, who all use it for fuel.

There are a large number of hands employed by the mill and railway company, who seem to us to be as happy and contented a set of laborers as we have found anywhere. The regular, permanent employees have all their own houses, which they own themselves, the company having furnished them with the land at a low price and assisted them in the construction of their buildings. Attached to each of these is a roomy garden spot, large enough, in that rich soil, to grow vegetables in plenty for home consumption. The men take much pride in the cultivation of these little patches as well as in adding to and improving their houses.

THE W. C. & A. R. R.

The Wilmington, Chadbourn & Conway R. R., had its origin in a short line which was constructed originally for the express purpose of hauling logs to the mill. This was gradually extended farther and farther into the forest until finally it began to carry freight and passengers. Then it occurred to the enterprising projectors that the road might be extended to Conway, and the work was then pushed vigorously until now the line extends into South Carolina, twenty miles from Chadbourn, and within 17 miles of Conway. In a few weeks work will be resumed and pushed on towards Conway, which point it is hoped and expected will be reached this summer. We took a ride on a special train and in "the President's car" over the entire line, as far as completed. We found it to be a smooth, easy riding road, laid with 60 pound rails and with a solid, perfectly level roadbed, notwithstanding the fact that some of it was built only last summer. This was done under the supervision of Mr. W. H. Chadbourn, Jr., the Chief Engineer, and he has been complimented highly by railroad men on the success of this, his first piece of construction. The South Carolina R. R. Commission recently passed over this road and awarded to it a certificate, giving it a high place in point of construction among the railroads in the State.

The first station on the line of the road is Yolande, 3 1/2 miles from Chadbourn, where is located Mr. J. C. Henry, formerly with Judge Russell, on his Brunswick county plantation, who has recently located there and who has now in operation a beautiful little farm. Next is Clarendon, 8 1/2 miles, where Mr. F. C. Williams has a store and turpentine distillery and Mr. J. D. Session a saw mill. Mr. Tabor is the next point, 15 miles South of Chadbourn, and it is a place of considerable importance. The prefix to its name is not derived from the presence of any small mountain or big hills in its vicinity, but from a church, Mr. Tabor Church, near at hand. Here are located Messrs. Pridgen & Boswell, turpentine distillers; Messrs. C. H. Inman & Co., store; Messrs. Jackson & Tower, store and distillery; Mr. S. H. Boswell, store and distillery, and Mr. S. W. Harrelson, saw mill.

The present terminus of the road, 20 miles distant from Chadbourn, is a bright, new place, called Loris; one year ago it was an unbroken wilderness and to-day it is a point of much importance in that section. There are located here Messrs. Grainger & Co., store; Mr. J. D. Best, hotel; Mr. B. R. King, store; Mr. W. H. Privett, dealer in guano; and Mr. J. T. Prince, saw mill. Crowds gather at this point every day to greet the arrival and departure of the train and among them on each occasion are many who never saw the iron horse before.

THE CONSTRUCTION FORCE.

The company now have at work on this road 60 hands, under the efficient road masters, thus making ten miles to the section. These gangs seem to be thoroughly good workers and to be exceptionally well-equipped for railroad construction. No liquor is allowed to be sold in Chadbourn and none is sold (we believe) anywhere on the line of the road and hence the section masters are able to keep their forces well in hand.

In the near future the equipment of this road is to be greatly increased. A handsome new coach is to be put on and new freight cars are now being built by the company at Chadbourn. They have every facility there for this work as the material is always at hand. There are now two fine and powerful locomotives on the road.

THE OFFICERS.

The officers of this road are as follows:

President—W. H. Chadbourn.

Superintendent—Jas. H. Chadbourn, Jr.

Chief Engineer—W. H. Chadbourn, Jr.

Auditor—Jos. B. Chadbourn.

Master Machinist—Price Yopp.

THE COUNTRY.

And now, a few words as to the country on the line of this road. We had expected to pass through a low pine country, with but few points in its favor for agriculture. We found it just the contrary. It is a rich soil nearly every foot of the way from Chadbourn to Loris. There seems to be a rich top soil with a thick substratum of clay all along the line of the road. Some old farmers tell us that it is as fine an agricultural country as can be found anywhere in this State. Mr. Chadbourn has a farm near the town on which last year he raised a bale of cotton to the acre and one farmer near him got last fall 400 bushels of potatoes from one acre. These are facts, well attested, and some of these days we expect to see on the line of that road some of the finest farms in the country.

DIED.

CURRIE—At 11 o'clock, March 5th, JOHN K. CURRIE, aged 12 years, son of the late Stephen A. and Flora E. Currie. Funeral at 4:30 o'clock, to-morrow afternoon, from the residence, corner Seventh and Market streets.

LAND PLASTER.

300 TONS NOVA SCOTIA LAND PLASTER, 94.36 per cent. of Sulphate of Lime.

The want of Plaster has been one of the greatest drawbacks to successful farming in this State, and it is an important service to this great industry and to the State.

It is quite indispensable in any judicious system of agriculture, and it serves several important ends, besides the direct one of furnishing lime and sulphur; it gathers nitrogen and prevents its dissipation and loss; it is a specific for clover and other leguminous plants and it indirectly renders the potash of the soil available and so aids in the restoration of worn lands.

We have sold Plaster to many during the last year, all from whom we have heard, express their satisfaction a its results.

The application of Plaster to animal manure, will increase the value of that manure beyond calculation.

Composting with plaster will improve the value of your compost 5 to 10 per cent.

Sowing from 20 to 40 pounds of plaster in the acre, over your small grain after it is in the ground, will give you an increased crop of from 50 to 100 per cent.

It is indispensable in early trucking for such as strawberries, lucas, watermelons, &c.

Ex-Minister Langston and others are getting up a petition to have a colored man appointed secretary of agriculture in case the President signs the new agricultural bill. Peter H. Clark, of Cincinnati, is mentioned as the favored colored candidate. The petitioners argue that the recognition of a colored Democrat in the Cabinet would be a grand political move and secure the colored vote to the Democratic party in the next campaign.

The figures in regard to the development of the mineral resources of Alabama, as well as the increased valuations of property in that State, show in a striking manner its wonderful material progress. In 1874 the coal output of the Alabama mines was 49,889 tons; in 1886 2,800,000 tons; in 1880 60,000 tons of coke were produced; in 1886 300,000 tons; in 1880 77,190 tons of iron; in 1886 283,859. In 1880 the assessed value of the property in the State was $139,077,328; in 1886 it was $192,000,000.

For the past two years I have been using BRANDRETH'S PILLS for self and family. We find them a sovereign remedy for indigestion and constipation, taking one or two every night for ten days. They are also admirable blood purifiers, perfectly harmless but exceedingly effective as a cathartic. I first used them myself, particularly for biliousness and dyspepsia. They relieved me in two weeks. I cheerfully recommend them.
