GERMS. Their Universal Prevalence, Danger

ous Character and How they Live and Are Killed.

The Germans consume large amounts of uncooked pork, and often get living animals called trichinge into their blood, which cause the most terrible death. Americans draw in the germs of disease and death with every breath. 'Malaria, miasma, sewer gas and the thousand poisons in the air. in food and in water are at war with health and life all the while. The blood that circulates in human veins is composed of numbers of small corpuscies that resemble animals and when anything poisonous gets into the blood it becomes just like stagnant water, full of living animals that feed upon each other and upon the blood uself. And yet not one person in fifty is free from blood poisoning in some form. Every moment of the life, whether awake or asleep a million poisonous animals, invisible to the naked eye, are feeding upon the very elements that make and sustain life.

These are facts-they are soleinn truths and they demand the most serious attention. These germs must be killed; they must be annihilated. But how? Prof. Austin Flint of Bellevue Hospital College, New York, says: "The ju dicious use of alcoholic stimulants is one of the striking characteristics of progress in the practice of medicine during the last half century." while Dr. J. P. Gilbert of Lyons, N. Y. says: "From my experience in the treatment of chronic diseases of a wasting and debilitating nature I have frequently found it necessary to advise the use of stimulants, and in my opinion Duffy's Pure Malt Whi key for purity and other desirable qualities cannot be surpassed for such pur poses. Its action seems to be that of pure stimulant, with none of the inebriating effects which are too often found in so-called medicinal whiskeys."

When we consider the terrible amount of poison that is in the flood, and the misery and death it is causing, and when we realize that its germs can all be driven out by a stimulant (not intoxicant) like Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, we have cause for thankfulness that modern science is doing so much for mankind in removing disease, destroying its cause and bringing health and happiness instead of misery and death. Most of the leading people of the land are mealizing the value of this Whiskey, and many whose prejudices have heretofore kept them entirely from the use of spirits are seeing its pure and valuable qualities in warding off diseases, and use it regularly in their homes.

A good story comes from a boys' boarding-school in "Jersey."
