Mr. Gould in a philosophical reflection says: "After all, what does any man get in this world except something to eat and something to wear and somewhere to live?"

Congressman Willis, of Kentucky, says President Cleveland "has grown very rapidly in the regard of Congress during the last session, his veto of the Dependent Pension bill going far towards that end."

The legislators of Illinois, on becoming aware that all their passes over the State railroads would be cancelled on All Fools' Day, rushed a bill through the Legislature reducing legal fares from three cents a mile to two cents.

The great ocean race has been finished. Both yachts are now on the other side. The Cronon-won. Actual time 14 days, 19 hours and 3 minutes for the Cronon and 16 days, 1 hour and 43 minutes for the Dauntless. The weather was very rough.

Senator Cullom says that Mrs. Cullom's enthusiasm for the Inter State commerce bill was simply intense until she learned by the merest accident that when it became a law she would not be able to ride on passes any more. After that she turned a regular somersault and became one of the leaders of the opposition.

Prince Napoleon (Plon Plon) who is now living in Switzerland, has begun a work on Napoleon I. His object is to refute M. Taine's published views on the same subject, and the Prince has telegraphed to Paris for two noted Bonapartists to help him in compiling and arranging the documents he has regarding his uncle's life.

Dr. Evans, the American dentist in Paris, made a set of teeth for an English lady, the ivorys being carefully chosen from the mouths of twenty Breton girls, who submitted to the extraction for the pecuniary compensation. Shortly after the set was delivered the lady travelled to Mentone, and was aroused from her bed by the recent earthquake. She is now back in Paris with sunken-in lips, having forgotten her teeth in the escape from the shaking Italian hotel. A fresh lot of peasant girls with sound teeth are now wanted.

A member of the city council of Richmond, Va. has made a novel proposition to derive revenue from liquor drinkers. He has introduced an ordinance forbidding any man to buy a drink who has not taken out a "drinker's license" which shall cost $1 a year, and be non-transferable. The revenue derived from this source he proposes to give to the school fund.

Prof. Anderson United States minister to Denmark, has written to a friend in Wisconsin indignantly denying the reports current concerning his niggardly style of life. He says that his apartments consist of a first floor and part of the second, and that his housekeeper is the widow of a professor who taught King George of Greece. He further asserts that he dines out. He realizes the difficulty of informing the 60,000,000 people in America of these facts. Those of the people who learn them, however, will be much relieved.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

(Special Cor. Daily Review)

WASHINGTON D. C., March 24, '87. "Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn," says the poet, and he might have added man's inhumanity to woman causes many a bitter tear.

I was visiting with a New York friend, the "Tomb" in that city several years ago, and a gloomy place it is. Not that I have noticed any great degree of cheerfulness about prisons anywhere; but that, I think, is the most doubtful that I know of, and it was a source of much comfort to feel that I was there only as a visitor. The eagerness with which the wretches in the cells opening into the galleries regarded the ticket in my hand that secured my return to the outer world, showed how much they envied my possession.

At the closed door of one of the cells, with her face at the little square hole in the door, stood a female in the deepest mourning. She was sobbing as if her heart would break. The criminal inside had been tried and convicted of a brutal murder and was to be hung in a day or two. The inmate "friend," saw was not his wife, had doled these weeds of woe in anticipation. A respite was granted in time to save the scoundrel's neck and a few days later the city was startled with the news that he had escaped from the prison. An attendant going into his cell found a woman there with his clothes on and he had passed out disguised in her. Aided, doubtless, by friends on the outside, he eluded the vigilance of the officers, and escaped to Cuba. The woman was tried for her share in the escape but got off with some trifling punishment and a short time after rejoined him in Cuba.

You would naturally suppose that gratitude, if no softer feeling, would have ensured her kindly treatment at his hands, but soon his brutal nature began to assert itself, and ere a twelvemonth had passed she had to escape from the brute, whose life she had saved at so much personal risk, to prevent him from killing her.

A few days ago I was called upon to attend the funeral of one of our young friends—a lovely girl—lovely both in person and character—who had died in the first bloom of womanhood. She came of a long-lived ancestry, in whom there was no taint of consumption, and yet she died of that dread disease.

Two years ago everything gave promise to her of a long and happy life. The bloom of health was upon her cheek, and her joyous heart gave a sparkle to her beautiful eyes that awoke a response in all who met her. All loved her and were happier for knowing her.

A young merchant became a suitor. He was well connected, good looking, and prosperous; his suit was favored by the parents and he won the daughter's heart.

I might pause here and talk to your readers of the beautiful vista that opens to the view at this point in a young girl's life, of the thornless roses that spring up on every side, but it is the old, old story, and the experience of most of them will fill out the picture.

"O Love, young Love, bound in thy rose band, 'Let sage or cynic prattle as he will, 'These hours and only these redeem life's years of ill."

Here I would like to drop the curtain, but, having begun, I must finish the story tho' very briefly.

After a few months of unalloyed happiness, the young lady found that her lover's ardor was cooling and, finally the engagement was broken off.

Another woman came into the case and he married her.

Poor girl, she strove with all a proud woman's might to hide from the world the disappointment and chagrin that she could not feel. She could not seek sympathy, the once sweet hope was no longer others' ears, and thus, the lacerated heart was left to feed upon itself.

"Love is of man's life a thing apart, 'Tis woman's whole existence. An illness followed by a cough opened the way to the malady of which she died a few days ago.

Shall I show you the contrast? The paper, containing the announcement of her death contained also the following notice: "Mr. _____ gave a very pleasant theatre party to a number of his friends on Friday evening last." "A theatre party" while at the very hour his victim lay dying a few blocks away!

There is a sequel which shows that the scoundrel is not to go through life "unwhipped of justice." Not the justice administered by the courts, which is often uncertain and inadequate, but that of Nemesis, who never lets the wrong doer escape.

The woman he married has gone off with another man, it is said, for the second or third time and he remains a married bachelor. Such is life!—as we saw, we reap—if the wind, then we reap the whirlwind. There is truth in the trite adage: "To be virtuous is to be happy."

Excitement in Texas

Great excitement has been caused in the vicinity of Paris, Tex., by the remarkable recovery of Mr. J. E. Corley, who was so helpless he could not turn in bed, or raise his head; every body said he was dying of Consumption. A trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery was sent him. Finding relief, he bought a large bottle and a box of Dr. King's New Life Pills; by the time he had taken two boxes of Pills and two bottles of the Discovery, he was well and had gained in flesh thirty-six pounds.

Trial Bottle of this Great Discovery for Consumption free at W. H. Green & Co's.

The Verdict Unanimous. W. D. Smit, Druggist, Bippus Ind., testifies: "I can recommend Electric Bitters as the very best remedy. Every bottle has given relief in every case. One man took six bottles, and was cured of Rheumatism of 10 years' standing. Abraham Hare, druggist, Bellville, Ohio, affirms: "The best selling medicine I have ever handled in my 20 years' experience, is Electric Bitters." Thousands of others have added their testimony, so that the verdict is unanimous that Electric Bitters do cure all diseases of the Liver, Kidneys or Blood. Only half a dollar a bottle at W. H. Green & Co's. Drug Store.

Who is to be the Mayor? and shall we ever have another Mayor? are the most prominent questions on the street to day.

March is getting on its dignity in its latter days, and seems determined to go out like a roaring lion. There was ice this morning in exposed localities.

There is nothing now booked for the Opera House until May, when the Cora Van Tassel troupe will appear here again for a short engagement.

Religious Meeting

The series of meetings now in progress at Fifth Street M. E. Church have been attended with marked success. Rev. Dr. Rosser, who is assisting the pastor, Rev. D. H. Tuttle, is a preacher of eloquence fervor and power. The interest continues unabated, and throngs of penitents assemble at the altar every night, for the prayers of the congregation. Many additions have already been made to the membership of the Church.

Important Decision. Mr. R. E. Foster, a drummer, was arrested yesterday and taken before Justice Millis upon the charge of a violation of the drummer's license law. The Justice bound the defendant over to the next term of the Criminal Court, but he was brought before Judge Meares in Chambers, on a writ of habeas corpus, this morning, who held that the law is unconstitutional and the defendant was discharged. His counsel in the case was ex-Judge D. L. Russell. The sheriff, at the instance of the Solicitor, has written to the Secretary of State recommending that a writ of certiorari issue from the Supreme Court, to test the constitutionality of the law.

How to Get Rid of Side Ache. Who has not suffered from side ache? We all had it when we ran races at school—we have it when we overwork our selves at any age. It comes on, as everybody knows, suddenly. By using one of ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS it goes away nearly as quickly. F. ROESSER, of No. 556 West 58th Street, New York, says:

"It is with pleasure I write these lines in testimony to the power of ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS. I have been somewhat annoyed with serious pains in my sides, for which several medicine have been prescribed, but to no avail, and through the advice of a friend I tried two ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS and the relief they have given me is both satisfactory and astonishing. To any one annoyed with pains these plasters are a certain remedy."
