

THE DAILY REVIEW.

VOL. XI. WILMINGTON, N. C., THURSDAY, APRIL 21 1887 NO. 95

The organization of anarchists in Chicago has been dissolved. They were scared out.

All is quiet at Raleigh now. The terrible emetics at the Penitentiary has been suppressed and the people breathe freer. It has been a ridiculous farce.

The joint meeting will be of much importance and it is earnestly hoped that there may be a full representation of both bodies present.

Bladen County Items.

From a friend and subscriber at Magruder, Bladen county, we gather several important items, chief among which is the good news that the farmers of that place, notwithstanding the bad luck of previous years, are devoting their energies to endeavor to secure success in the present crop year. Many of them are planting larger crops of corn and cotton than in previous years, with more than a fair prospect of success. Among the prominent farmers who are making every possible effort to secure good crops this year we may mention Messrs. J. N. Corbett, G. Henry, W. Corbett, E. Beatty, F. Sessions, C. Johnson, H. L. Leonard, S. B. Anders and F. J. Anders. Appearances indicate that these gentlemen will make splendid crops and raise an abundance of fruit, with the exception of peaches, which were nearly all killed by the recent cold weather. The gentlemen named have engaged largely in fruit raising for the past few years, and with marked success. During the past Winter they set out large numbers of ever bearing mulberry trees, from the fruit of which they expect fine pasturage for swine.

Several destructive forest fires have raged in the vicinity of Magruder, and it was only through the greatest exertions of the citizens that several dwellings escaped destruction.

A severe hail storm visited the town on the 15th inst., which completely ruined everything in its path. The cloud was about a mile wide, and in many places the hail fell to the depth of six and eight inches and on the piazza of Mr. George Henry's dwelling it was a foot deep. Some of the hail remained unmelted on the ground until the 18th inst., and the oldest inhabitants never saw the like in that locality before. Trees were completely stripped of their foliage and shrubbery of their blossoms by the hail.

The Machinery Act.

The revenue and machinery act passed the last Legislature contains some important changes of the law heretofore in force in regard to raising revenue in the State, and it is believed that the new law will work some radical changes in the matter of assessments, which are to be made in June of this year. We have already noted some of the changes in the rate of taxation, and for the information of the public we give the law governing the assessors in their duties.

Section 6 of the act provides that the assessors and list takers of the several townships shall, on making their returns to the board of county commissioners, take the following oath:
"We, the list takers and assessors of _____ township, of _____ county, make oath that the foregoing list contains to the best of our knowledge and belief all the real and personal property required by law to be assessed in said township, and that we have assessed every tract or parcel of land or other real and personal property at its true value in money, and have endeavored to do equal justice to the public and to the tax payers concerned."

Another change in the act, and one which will increase the taxable personal property of this city to a considerable amount, is the law relative to taxation of bank stock. Under the new law it is required that the stockholders in every bank located within the State shall be assessed and taxed on the value of the shares of stock therein in the county, town, precinct, village or city where such bank is located. It is made the duty of the bank to return its stock, instead of allowing the individual stockholder to make such returns. Under the law non resident stockholders were not required to list this class of property here for taxation.

On the second Monday in July the Commissioners are required to meet and revise the lists, when they will hear any objections to the valuation of property by the assessors.

See JACOBI'S large and fine assortment of fishing tackle. He can surely please any fisherman with his assortment.

The REVIEW JOB OFFICE is the place to get good work at moderate prices.

Arbitration Committee.

At the meeting of the new Board of Managers of the Produce Exchange, held on the 19th inst., the following gentlemen were constituted the Arbitration Committee by election: Messrs. D. G. Worth, G. W. Williams, John D. Woody, Roger Moore, Charles S. Love.

The Festival.

Notwithstanding the unfavorable weather there was quite a large gathering at the festival given by the Ladies' Aid Society of Brooklyn Baptist Church at Brooklyn Hall last night, and the receipts were quite satisfactory. It will be repeated to night and as the weather seems inclined to be on its good behavior, there will undoubtedly be a large gathering and a profitable result.

The Oxford Fire.

A correspondent at Oxford tells us that Aaron Sockett and Norrell Hopkins, both colored, have been arrested, charged with causing the recent disastrous fire at that place. The evidence is said to be sufficiently strong to convict them. They were before the Mayor on Monday but the case was continued until yesterday, the State not being ready. Detectives have been on the alert ever since the fire and it is thought that others will be brought to justice in a few days.

Wilmington Pearl Hominy Mills.

We paid a brief visit to this establishment this forenoon and through the courtesy of the proprietors, Messrs. Boney & Harper, gained much information regarding the magnitude of the enterprise and the improved processes by which corn is made into meal or hominy. The building occupies the site of Mr. G. J. Boney's mill, which was destroyed by the great fire. It is of brick, 66 feet front, inclusive of engine room, on Nutt street, by 60 feet deep and four stories high, and is built in the most substantial and thorough manner throughout. The architect was Mr. James F. Post and the arrangement of the machinery was all devised by Mr. Boney, the senior member of the firm. Engine and boiler rooms are in rooms adjoining the main buildings, from which they are separated by a strong brick wall. The engine is 75 horse power and was built at the Atlas Engine Works, Indianapolis, Ind., and it is an excellent piece of mechanical skill.

The process of making the corn into meal or hominy begins when it arrives in front of the building, where it is dumped into a hopper on the sidewalk. Thence it is taken by a screw conveyor under the sidewalk and first floor to an elevator, by which it is conveyed to the roof and thence it is dumped into reservoirs on the fourth floor. It then passes to the scales on the third floor, where it is weighed. Thence it drops into a reservoir on the second floor, where it is fed to another set of elevators, which carry it to the corn screen on the fourth floor. Thence it passes through a magnet separator which rids it of all nails or pieces of iron. Thence it passes through a suction fan on the third floor. Thence by another set of elevators it is again conveyed to the fourth floor and dumped into the hoppers and ground into meal or hominy. After grinding it is taken by elevators to the purifiers and bolters on the third and fourth floors, and thence it is dumped into the meal or hominy reservoirs, whence it is conveyed to the first floor where it is put in sacks and is ready for shipment.

The hominy is first made into what is known as "big hominy" when it is thoroughly purified and is then ground into "grits," which after again going through the purifying process is ready for market.

The mill has four sets of stones besides those used for hominy. It gives constant employment to eight men, and has a capacity of 60 barrels of grits and 600 bushels of meal per day.

Cured of a Diseased Spine.

T. J. Gilson, a leading druggist of Olean, N. Y., was cured of a diseased spine that had troubled him for some years by using eight Alcock's Porous Plasters. He says:
"I take pleasure in recommending them to all afflicted for they not only cured me, but I have known them to cure many of my customers of rheumatism, neuralgia, kidney difficulties, pulmonary troubles and local pains arising from bruises, colds or congestions."

Pianos and organs can be bought cheaper at Heinberger's than at any other house in the State.

The Memorial Orator.

Mr. Henry A. London, of Chatham county, has accepted the invitation tendered him by the Ladies' Memorial Association, of this city, to deliver the address here on Memorial Day, May 10th. Mr. London was the orator at Raleigh last year and his theme, an eloquent one, was a memorial to General Bryan Grimes. Mr. London is well qualified to speak of the Lost Cause and its heroes. He was on Gen. Grimes' staff during the war and surrendered at Appomattox, with the remnant of Lee's veterans. He carried the last order on the field of battle, immediately preceding the surrender. Gen. Grimes commanded in the last charge that was made by the Army of Northern Virginia, at Appomattox, on the 9th of April, 1865.

Our Expected Guests.

A special meeting of the Board of Managers of the Produce Exchange was held their rooms at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon, at which Mayor Fowler and Col. F. W. Kerchner, President of the Chamber of Commerce, were present by invitation. Mr. H. C. McQueen, President of the Produce Exchange, called the meeting to order and stated that its object was to take action towards the reception of the officers of the French ship of war, now at Smithville.

On motion of Mr. B. F. Hall, a committee of five, consisting of Mayor Fowler, Col. F. W. Kerchner, President of the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. H. C. McQueen, President of the Produce Exchange, and Messrs. D. G. Worth and C. H. Robinson, were appointed with full power to raise the necessary funds for the proper entertainment of their expected guests.
