The Daily Review.

JOSH. T. JAMES. Editor & Prop WILMINGTON: N. C WEDNESDAY, MAY H. 1887

Intered at the Postoffee at Wilmington, N. C. as second-class matter.

The New York Herald sounds a keyore or alarm. In speaking of the fact that the United Labor party has called a State Convention and that one of the planks in the platform of principles ans nounced, on which action is to be taken, demands that the general government ha lassume control of all of the rail road and telegraph lines in the country.

8782 We feel constrained to say an earnest udgment it would be a grave blunder advecate anything of the"kind. It would imperil our institutions and ojure the working classes more than any one else. You see, gentlemen, we re perfectly frank. Among friends who desire to accomplish a common good frankness is a virtue.

t a monopoly. The only question is before she calls the ideal husband. ow the evil, which is patent to everyoody, can be remedied. By declaring the railroad and railroad and telegraph ow on the wal. system over to the government, you do not hat the bull's-eye. In wiping out one social corruption you create another which is even greater, and that is bad policy.

Le: u+ illustrate. The Federal Gov ernment already has immense patrous age. More than one hundred thousand flices are within its gift. Every one of these is a centre of political influence working for the administration which happens to be in power. Every Executive has an army of one hundred thou sand men who receive their pay from the freasury, but whose incomes will with those of Inflamed Kidneys, Weak stop when the term of the Executive expires. Of course you see that if a party through its President uses this recalculable influence corruptly it becomes intrenched, and can be routed oly by a tremendous and universal aprising of the people, such as occurred in 1884 At that time the Republicans who had been in power for twenty-five sears, used this patronage for party Methodist E. Church, South: subsistence and in payment of party debts, and the Democrats were compelled to appeal to the country with this enormous and corrupt odds against them. Now, then, if you could devise some means by which this patronage could e decreased, you would do a great service to the Republic. But you don't see that instead of decreasing it, and therefore limiting a corrupting political influence, you demand, oddly enough. that it shall be danger usly increased And you do this in the honest hope of reform. What do you suppose would happen if the government should take charge of all the railroads and telegraphs? Why, the number of offices at its fevers, or injuries to the natural drums. Al- disposal would be doubled, trebled, quintupled. That is as plain as a pikestaff. At least half a million men would be centres of political influence, supporting the administration, not because it was just and patriotic, but they drew their salaries from it and should lose their salaries if it should be deteated. A President with an army of hall a million men all fighting for him. and fighting for their own tenure of office at the same time, would be a sorry spectacle and would usher in an area of ominous augury. Good bye to the fundamental principles of the Republic when that Located between Chambers and Rossevelt sta change is inaugurated. Human nature with such an amount of patronage resistance No. gentlemen, steer clear of that danger. The more dependent the government is on the people the better. A government which can control the votes of the people is already a de potism. The less government you have the safer you are If you want the Republic to live you must make the people prominent, not the Executive. When your President becomes your master, instead of your servant, you are in grave peril.
