

DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKEY

FOR MEDICINAL USE
NO FUSEL OIL

SYMPTOMS OF CONSUMPTION.

FIRST STAGE.—Cough in the morning followed shortly after by slight expectoration, which the patient thinks only comes from his throat. Short breathing, with tightness in the chest—pulse becomes quicker in the evening or after a full meal—chilliness in the evening with slight fever.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is the ONLY absolute cure for the first stages of consumption known to medical science. I know from experience it is a pure and most valuable medicine. I am also using it in the case of my son who is threatened with consumption. I am a Presbyterian clergyman and a doctor of divinity, but I am not afraid to recommend Duffy's Malt Whiskey as the purest and most efficient tonic that I know of, and my experience is a large one.

While the Socialistic movement has lately been attracting little attention in England it has become more and more an important factor in Paris. The Socialist newspapers, managed by men of remarkable ability, are constantly increasing in influence, and the more advanced Socialists are not confining their acts to words alone. Combinations are forming against the landlord, the common enemy of the poor. When a poor tenant is in danger of being sold out a collection of burly Socialists appear upon the scene and carry off all those articles of furniture which the law allows the landlord to dispose of, and the tenant holds the fort with his bed, of which the law will not let him be deprived. The plan is said to work excellently, so well that landlords have been glad to pay their tenants to leave.

A remarkable story of adventure has just been tried in the French law Courts. The name of Nicholas d'Assis is still kept upon the roll of the regiment to which he belonged long ago, and as it is pronounced at each roll-call a soldier steps from the ranks and answers, "Died on the field of honor." This struck Emerancienne Bondeau as poetical, and she concluded to make the incident profitable as well. When Miss Bondeau concluded to become an adventuress she chose to be a descendant of the heroic d'Assis, had cards printed as Henriette de la Tour d'Auvergne, and passed as the illegitimate daughter of the Prince of that house. The present Prince of that name did not take the trouble to expose her, and so she posed successfully as a Princess. She found parvenus in plenty who were glad to court a Princess of any sort, and lived luxuriously at their expense. One of her best sources of revenue was in the liberality with which her wealthy friends subscribed to spurious charities which she patronized and for which she received donations and spent them. During the trial the melancholy fact was unearthed that Emerancienne had no more aristocratic relations than a brother who keeps a wine shop and a sister who holds the fort in a con serge lodge. The adventures are about 40 years old, and is not lovely, but is thin, delicate and clever. Some sympathy is due to her, for she used to be a nun, and, while waiting on a patient in a hospital, she was assaulted by a relative of the patient, who was condemned to ten years' imprisonment. She was very ill, and had to leave her convent and return to ordinary life. It was then that she concluded to shine as an adventuress. She has not yet been sentenced.

William B. Woods, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court who died recently, was a native of Newark, Ohio, where he was born on August 3, 1824. He studied at the Western Reserve College, but was graduated from Yale in 1845, and two years later was admitted to the Ohio Bar and formed a partnership with G. D. King. He was twice elected mayor of Newark, in 1856 and 1857, and in the latter year was sent to the Ohio House of Representatives as a Democrat, and chosen Speaker of that body. He served two terms in the House, and then in September, 1861, accepted a commission as lieutenant colonel of the seventy-sixth regiment of Ohio infantry. While serving in this capacity he participated in the battles of Fort Donelson, Shiloh, Chickasaw Bayou and Arkansas Post, in the latter of which he was wounded. He also took part in the siege of Vicksburg and of Jackson, Miss., and after being promoted to the rank of colonel marched with Sherman from Chattanooga to Atlanta. After the surrender of Gen. Johnston, near Raleigh, N. C., he accompanied Sherman's army to Washington, having in the meantime been promoted to the rank of brigadier general. After the war he removed to Alabama, and resided in that State until October, 1876, when he fixed his home in Atlanta, Ga. In February, 1867, he was elected a chancellor of the middle chancery division of Alabama, and in 1869 he was appointed by Gen. Grant, then President, United States Circuit Judge for the Fifth Circuit, comprising the States of Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas. On December 15, 1880, President Hayes appointed him an Associate Justice of the Supreme Court to fill the vacancy made by the retirement of Justice Strong.

had to skin only on the end of my nose was a pink color. Next day was kind of white, and I could place my hands on the nose, but could not straighten it, but not walk, I was weak, but my nose was nearly well. Then I commenced the use of the CUTICURA. I went in three days I was worse than ever. I was one mass of pimples from the top of my head to the sole of my feet; I say that were painful would not do justice to the case. In from two to four days they burst and left a small sore, which dropped off and left the skin pure and the skin white, and in about a week I was cured in about six weeks, and in that date (I am from January, 1879 to January, 1887) I have not been back in any way, or have had the least signs of the disease reappearing on me. I have an excellent appetite, have the very best of health. My limbs are straight, supple and strong. I have been exposed to all sorts of weather without the least signs of the disease yet. The only difference I find in myself is that my skin is as soft as silk, and it is so that I can get dressed as in other persons.

No doubt any persons will not believe this almost improbable story, many will think it grossly exaggerated.
