The Lawn Party.

Owing to a combination of causes there was not a large attendance at the of the Wilmington Light Infantry by the ladies of the city at the City Hal Park last night. The threatening as pect of the weather probably kept many from attending and the succession of intensely hot days probably had such a depressing effect upon many that they could hardly be induced to make the exertion necessary for the occasion. I is to be regretted, as the object was entirely worthy and the ladies had made great exertions for the pleasure of their patrons.

It has been also desirable that the docks and quays should be made to accommodate a larger number of vessels for loading at one time, and three quays have been constructed, with dockage on both sides of each, so that six steamers may now take in cargoes at the same time. To accomplish this it became necessary to get an increased depth of water, and this has been a formidable task It was thought, at the outset. that dredging would accomplish everything necessary, but when work had fairly began it was found that the bottom of the dock, for several feet in depth, was a net work of logs, the accumulation of these many years that the vicinity has been used for saw mili purposes. Wherever the logs were found, a diver was sent down to fix for their removal, involving an immense amount of labor and expense. The work has been done, however, and a depth of between 17 feet and 18 feet at low water has been obtained. These increased advantages, with the improvements to navigation in the Cape Fear, will give to Wilmington nearly as good facilities for the shipment of cotton as those possessed by Nortolk. Our merchants are making every exertion to have this the principal cotton shipping point on the South Atlantic Coast and with a fair prospect of suc cess. Let the railroads now join with the merchants and make arrangements by which cotton can be brought here as cheaply as it can be conveyed, to

Gen. Lane and Gettysburg.

War. ed for publication, but much of it is of so interesting a nature to our people that we take the liberty of reproducing some portions of it here. Gen. Lane

* * * How often have I and my family longed to be back in dear old Wilmington, where we have so many warm and sympathizing friends, and &c., below cost. where we enjoyed ourselves as we have never done in any other place that we me to leave such friends to try my fortune in Missourl among strangers, but I thought at the time it was best for my wife and children. I returned to Richmood, Va., from Missouri to take charge of a manufacturing company, but our handsome mill was soon laid in ashes by the burning of the Richmond & Petersburg Railroad bridge, and here I have been ever since as Professor of Civil Engineering and Drawing. On the 24th of last month, our fine and impostechnic Institute and Agricultural and Mechanical College, at Auburn, Ala., was destroyed by fire, and we will be compelled to make temporary arrange ments for teaching. All of my engineering instruments and drawing models and plates &c. were destroyed. and I am now busily engaged writing numberless letters to see it I cannot re-

It has always seemed credit of that glorious but deadly charge T AWN MOWERS, &c. at Gettysburg to Pickett's Division My brigade never moved forward more handsomely, nor did it ever fight more heroically than on that occasion, and this, you know, is saying a great deal, when we remember how desperately it fought on many other opeasions and that it was publicly complimented by President Davis and General R. E.

As stated in the Montgomery Dis patch a tew days ago, if I could wield a pen as well as we lought for our rights, I would not hesitate to use it place in the third day's fight at Gettys burg, so nobly won for her-by-the brigades of Lane, Scales and Pettigrew; and also to help others to let the world know now splendidly she bore hersetf on other memorable occasions. I shall never cease to love the dear old State, and it always angers me to see anybody or any State trying to rob her of any of her laurels.
