A Southern Girl.

Her dimpled chee's are pale; she's a lily of the vale. Not a rose. In a muslin or a lawn She is fairer than the dawn To her beaux.

Her boots are slim and neat-She is warm about her feet, It is said, She amoutates her r's. But her eyes are like the stars Overhead.

On a balcony at night With a fleecy cloud of white Round her hair-Her grace, ah, who could paint? She would fascinate a saint, I declare.

fis a matter of regret, She's a bit of a coquette. Whom I sing. On her erual path she goes With a half a dezen beaux To ber string.

But let all that pass by, As her maiden moments fiv. Dew emperiled. When the marries on my life, She will make the dearest wife In the world.

THE BREATH of a chronic catarrh patient is often so offensive that he eannot go into society and he becomes an object of disgust. After a time ulceration sets in, the spongy bones are attacked and frequently, entirely destroyed. A constant source of discomtort is the dripping of the purulent secretions into the throat, semetimes pro ducing inveterate brenchitis, which in its turn has been the exciting cause of pulmonary disease. The brilliant results which have attended its use for years past properly designate Ely's Cream Baim as by far the best, it not the only real cure for hay fever, rose cold and catarrb.

Great was their amazement to discover the carcass of a huge lion. They called to the man having it in charge and asked: "How is this? We received word that els, Hammocks, Totlet .oa, s, or whatever the body of the manager was coming, and instead of that we find the careass of this great lion," He answered :--"Well, that's just it. Him's the lellew what ate up the manager. The mana ger's inside."
