

THE DAILY REVIEW.

VOL. XI.

WILMINGTON, N. C., FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 2, 1887

NO. 209

Another international dispute may result from an episode that occurred at Pasco del Norte, Mexico, directly across the border. The principals of the trouble are the United States Consul, Judge Brigham, who is stationed there, and the Judge of Letters, Zabia, a resident magistrate. After a friendly official call on Judge Zabia, Consul Brigham was followed by Zabia into the street, and struck a stunning blow over the head and behind his back.

The following telegram, sent by Consul Brigham to the State Department, explains itself:
PASO DEL NORTE, Aug 30, 1887.
To J. M. POITIER, Assistant Secretary of State, Washington, D. C.:
Myself and Colonel Cowart, of the Messalera Agency of New Mexico, have been here several days trying to recover some horses stolen from the agency and brought and held at this place. We had all the proofs necessary to identify the horses, and after many days' waiting Judge Zabia appointed the day to try the case.
At four o'clock Cowart and myself called at the court room, and after remaining there until after five we went to his residence to see why he did not take up the case. Nothing occurred there of an insulting nature, as I can prove. When we left Judge Zabia ran some ten or twelve feet out into the street and struck me from behind over the head. I then ran him into the house and told him he would hear from me again. Thus the matter stands. Judge Zabia insulted a United States agent and myself while in the discharge of our duty. BRIGHAM, Consul.

Henry Villard comes to the front again, this time as the representative of a lot of Berlin capitalists. The New York Herald says:
A six million dollar transaction in Oregon Railway and Navigation securities was announced in Wall street yesterday. The seller named was the Oregon and Transcontinental Company, and the purchasers were Berlin capitalists in a syndicate represented by Henry Villard.

The sale as announced included bonds of the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company, valued in the trade at $3,000,000, and stock valued at $1,000,000. The bonds had been carried for that company by the Oregon and Transcontinental Company, and the stock was from the latter company's treasury. These securities were, it was said, sold outright. The remainder of the $6,000,000—$2,000,000—will be paid, if at all, on the exercise of an option for more stock. The prices at which the securities were taken were not disclosed.

It was believed in Wall street that by means of such a transaction the Oregon and Transcontinental and allied companies would come out of their complications in good shape. Six millions would enable them and the men identified with them to renew and readjust their loans.

One of the most interesting features of the report was the alleged reappearance of Henry Villard in the affairs of the companies in which he had formerly been so prominent. It was even reported that he was about to take command again, that President Smith would retire in his favor from the Transcontinental Company and be made a director of Northern Pacific, and that the Northern Pacific would join the Oregon Short line (Union Pacific) in guaranteeing the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company's securities.

Neither Mr. Smith nor Mr. Villard would confirm or deny the story of the trade.

A Sound Legal Opinion.
E. Bainbridge Munday, Esq., County Atty., Clay county, Tex., says: "Have used Electric Bitters with most happy results. My brother also was very low with Malarial Fever and Jaundice, but was cured by timely use of this medicine. Am satisfied Electric Bitters saved his life."
Mr. D. I. Wilcoxson, of Horse Cave, Ky., adds a like testimony, saying: "He positively believes he would have died, had it not been for Electric Bitters."
The great remedy will ward off, as well as cure all Malarial Diseases, and for all Kidney, Liver and Stomach Disorders stands unequalled. Price 50c. and $1, at W. H. Green & Co.'s.

Don't Experiment!
You cannot afford to waste time in experimenting when your lungs are in danger. Consumption always seems, at first, only a cold. Do not permit any dealer to impose upon you with some cheap imitation of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, but be sure you get the genuine. Because he can make more profit he may tell you he has something just as good, or just the same. Don't be deceived, but insist upon getting Dr. King's New Discovery, which is guaranteed to give relief in all Throat, Lung and Chest affections. Trial bottles free at W. H. Green & Co.'s. Large bottles $1.

Rock Crystal Spectacles and Eyeglasses.
Advice to old and young: In selecting spectacles you should be cautious not to take more magnifying power than has been lost to the eye, as in the same proportion that you pass that point of increase, will cause you further injury to the eye. Using glasses of stronger power than is necessary is the daily cause of premature old age to the sight. You can get the best at Heinsberger's.

Raleigh received 31,627 bales of cotton last year against 29,525 bales the year previous, an increase of 2,102 bales. These are the Visitor's figures. The News and Observer makes the receipts for 1886 29,781 bales and the gain 1,847 bales. Now, which is correct?

Lookout for Tramps
Yesterday morning about 6 o'clock as a servant of Dr. Kea, who lives on the corner of Front and Market streets, opened the door leading to the street, he saw a man sitting on the steps. He asked her for some old clothing, and stated that he was almost naked and very tired. The servant left him and went to another part of the house, leaving the door unfastened. About 6:30 o'clock the Doctor's sister started to market, when she found the man sitting on the steps. He stated that he was tired and would sit there and rest. At 7 o'clock Dr. Kea awoke and when he examined his pants he found $2 in change gone. He also lost a pair of gold sleeve buttons and a razor.

The Freshet.
The high water in the Cape Fear is now running off rapidly, and unless there is a reinforcement from the interior will soon be all gone. It has made a short stay, but it has worked a great deal of mischief. The loss to the farmers along the line of river will be very heavy. Still, we hope that the reports have been exaggerated and that it will not be as great as has been feared and stated. The Fayetteville Observer has this to say of it:

By Sunday night the freshet had reached here, and had risen above the banks into the fields. All the lowland corn and cotton has been overflowed, and the work of the year destroyed. The loss can hardly be estimated; thousands upon thousands of bushels of corn are ruined, and all the cotton planted in low places is inundated. Besides this the loss on the uplands will be very serious, as the cotton will be severely injured. Thus, in one short day the bright hopes of many of our farmers were blighted, and the calculations and estimates made upon the crop are cut short more than one half. It is a sad state of things to many, and to all a cause of depression. Surely there is no telling what a day may bring forth.

Grandest Outfitting Establishments in the South.

The Fall and Winter display of men's, boy's and children's clothing will be positively the largest and finest in Wilmington.

This Morning's Fire

The alarm of fire was sounded at 8:15 o'clock this morning, just at the hour when many of our people were at the breakfast table. The alarm was turned in first from box 35, but this was soon found to be an error and box 16, corner Mulberry and Seventh streets, was then given. The flames were found to be in a small house on Dickinson street, between Rankin and Miller, in a one-story frame dwelling owned and occupied by Edward Stills, colored. The fire department were promptly on hand, Wilmington Hook & Ladder Company arriving first, but the first stream of water on the fire was thrown by the Adrian. The Atlantic and the Cape Fear were also promptly on hand and did efficient service.

The flames spread from Stills' house to the adjoining property on the South, a two-story frame dwelling, owned and occupied by Henry Whitehead, colored, and a one-story frame building in the rear owned by the same party. Adjoining this was a one-story dwelling with a stable on the lot, belonging to John Gibson, colored. All of this property was destroyed. The flames spread so rapidly that but very little of Stills' furniture could be saved. The others saved much of their effects, but in a more or less damaged condition. The dwelling of Joseph Hall, on the corner of Dickinson and Rankin streets, was threatened and would have shared the fate of its neighbors, but for the heroic efforts of the firemen. As it is, it is badly damaged.

No one seems to know how the fire originated. The losses are light in the aggregate but they bear heavily on the individual sufferers. Stills' dwelling and furniture is a total loss, and, sad to say, he had no insurance on either. Joe Hall's loss on furniture and damage to dwelling amounts to about $100, and he had no insurance. Henry Whitehead's dwelling was insured for $300, the one-story building in his rear for $150 and his furniture for $350, all in the London Assurance Corporation, represented here by Messrs. Northrop, Hodges & Taylor. John S. Gibson's dwelling was insured for $200 and his furniture for $50, both in the Fire Association of Philadelphia, represented by Messrs. Atkinson & Manning. The total loss foots up about $2,500, with an aggregate insurance of $1,550.

Falling Off.
Capt. Robeson, of the steamer Hurt, states that the water in the upper Cape Fear is falling about five feet a day, and that the crops that were submerged are now clear of water. Among the sufferers are Messrs. John A. McDowell, D. N. Sutton, L. M. Cromartie and R. E. Lee. The products that were damaged are corn, cotton and sugar cane. There are others whose losses will be heavy but we could not learn their names.

Don't Laugh at Nervous People.
Their sufferings are very real, although you, with your vigorous physique and strong nerves, can scarcely believe it. Rather suggest the use of Hoetter's Stomach Bitters which, in removing every trace of dyspepsia, and regulating the liver and bowels, strikes at and exterminates the most prolific cause of chronic nervous trouble. That nervous-shattering disease, fever and ague, is among the formidable ailments, to the removal of which this genial remedy is specially adapted. Nervous prostration, resulting from prolonged mental or physical effort, is also a state of the system where the intervention of this tonic is very desirable, more particularly as its use is to quiet and relax the tension of over-wrought nerves. The Bitters are invaluable in rheumatism, neuralgia and kidney troubles. Employ no substitute for it.
