THE DAILY REVIEW.

VOL. XI. WILMINGTON, N. C., SATURDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1887 NO 234

CONSTIPATION

It is called the "Father of Diseases," because there is no medium through which disease so often attacks the system and the retention of fecal matter causes the stagnation of the blood. It is caused by a torpid Liver, not enough bile being secreted from the liver to produce Nature's own cathartic, and is generally accompanied with such results as

Loss of Appetite,
Sick Headache,
Bad Breath, etc.

The treatment of Constipation does not consist merely in unloading the bowels, the medicine must not only act as a purgative, but be a tonic as well, and not produce after its use greater costiveness. To secure a regular habit of body without changing the diet or disordering the system

"My attention, after suffering with Constipation for two or three years, was called to Dr. J.C. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and I purchased a box, and as soon as I had taken a few doses, I felt a great relief. I continued to take it, and in a few days I was completely cured. Since then I have never had Constipation, and I can truly say that Dr. J.C. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People is the best medicine I ever used. I keep it in my house and would not be without it, but have used it so far, it having cured me."—GEO. W. SIMMONS, Asst. Clerk Superior Court, Bibb Co., Ga.

The money market will probably be very "tight" for those who have placed their bets on the Thistle.—Petersburg Index-Appeal.

On the contrary it has been lose with them all.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company sold 650,000 excursion tickets between New York and Philadelphia during the three days' celebration there of the adoption of the Constitution.

Johann Most says that if the Chicago Anarchists deserve hanging, then all the Anarchists in the country deserve to be strung up. Most is rather high-strung already, but it is by the neck and not by the mouth that he will get it some of these days.

On days when Alfred de Cordova, the New York broker, doesn't want to leave his comfortable home near North Branch, N. J., carrier pigeons, sent out by his clerks, bring him hourly quotations. The distance is forty-three miles, but the birds never get lost.

It has been stated by the Birmingham (Ala.) Age that of the fifteen Democratic daily newspapers in Alabama eleven favor a high protective tariff. But it is a fact that of eight Democratic members of the 50th Congress from Alabama not one favors a high protective tariff.

A very important question for the people of this city, Newbern, Morehead, and all this section, and to Fayetteville itself is, where shall the C. F. & Y. V. R. R. seek its outlet to deep water. We believe there are a good many reasons why it should be brought here. It cannot be more than sixty miles from here to Fayetteville, over a rather level country, and the cost of the construction of a road between Fayetteville and Goldsboro would be less than it would to Wilmington by half at least.—Goldsboro Argus.

And why half? If it is 60 miles from Fayetteville to Goldsboro it is only 30 from Fayetteville to Wilmington. But there is a slight difference in the termini. At Wilmington the road is at the Atlantic Ocean, at Goldsboro it is—well, about 30 miles farther from blue water than when it started out to find it.

October begins in a most virtuous and orderly manner, as there was not a sinner to need the Mayor's attention this morning, and the policemen were almost without employment.

We again make our acknowledgments, this time to our good neighbor of the Messenger, for the clever and kindly manner in which he alludes to the RRRW in this morning's issue of his paper.

Maj. McClammy in Washington.

Maj. C. W. McClammy, Representative-elect to Congress from the old Third district, who has been in Washington City for a few days, returned last night. Maj. McClammy said to a newspaper representative while there some very plain and pleasant things about the President. "I am here," he said "in the interest of my constituents, and am going through the Departments with my 'little hatchet' trying to cut off some Republican limbs from trees of office, and have grafted in their places some good, sound Democratic fruit."

Maj. McClammy in enthusiastic regarding President Cleveland. He says he is the greatest President since Jackson, and will undoubtedly be his own successor. "He possesses," said Maj. McClammy, "all the characteristics of old Hickory; firm, fearless, honest, capable and faithful; he has plenty of nerve, and spinal column like the Washington Monument; his administration is patriotic and clean, and those few democrats who oppose him will have to eat crow. The people are for him for the simple reason they know he is for them and their interests; there is very little feeling against him in my State, but the people all love him and Mrs. Cleveland. I tell you, sir, they can't beat that team in '88!"

PRÉSIDENT.

Capt. Harper and the Passport.

Capt. Jno. W. Harper has taken charge of the tug Alex. Jones, and she has gone down the river to go to work. His family have removed to Southport, where they will pass the Winter. The Passport is to be left as she is and occasionally during the Winter she may be brought out for a run to Carolina Beach when necessity may require or on some pleasant holiday. A trip down the river last night on her would have been enjoyable. Capt. Harper has commanded the Passport for the past ten years. She is a gallant craft and she has had as gallant a commander as has ever trodden a deck on the Cape Fear.

Mrs. D. P. Bowers.

The fame of this lady is so well established and so widely known that but little remains to be said. She is an accomplished artist and an elegant lady and our people will have a treat at the Opera House next Tuesday night, when she will appear as Elizabeth, in the well known tragedy of that name and of which the New York Graphic said: Mrs. D. P. Bowers was seen last evening at the Fourteenth Street Theatre in her well-known and powerfully dramatic impersonation of Queen Elizabeth. A role which she has been long identified with, with one which is admirably adapted to give full play to her talent as an actress.

Elizabeth is pictured to us in history as an ambitious and unscrupulous sovereign, changeable in mood, suspicious of her ministers, and unrelenting and unyielding in her hate. All these characteristics are powerfully portrayed by Mrs. Bowers. She makes of her Elizabeth not a woman, but a king, and in the force of her anger and passion she is terrific. She is an exponent of the old school of acting, in which deliberateness of utterance and pomposity of rhetoric were deemed an essential quality. Yet in Mrs. Bowers' case this tendency does not appear to give such a strained and unnatural character to her interpretation as might be supposed.

Red Riding Hood's Rescue.

This attractive operetta was presented to a large and delighted audience at the Opera House last night by 75 children, assisted by a number of adult amateurs and directed by Miss E. A. Pond of Boston. The soloists in the different characters were as follows: Red Riding Hood, Lola Martin; Queen of the Fairies, Fanny Pritchard; Buttercup, Emma West; White Wings, Fanny Doyle; Violet, Lila Everett; Rose, Cora Peschau; Robin, Swift Boatwright; Brother, Rob Fowler; Ray, Arthur Myers; Harry, Pierre HARRIS.

The parts were all well taken and rendered in exquisite taste. We violate our custom regarding the efforts of home talent, which has been to draw no comparison of the relative merits of those engaged. In the present instance, while all did remarkably well and reflected much credit upon themselves as well as upon their directors, we must say that Lola Martin, as Red Riding Hood, was superb and that Fanny Doyle, as White Wings, was nearly as good.

The choruses were good and the entertainment was delightful. The work of the amateurs was well done and highly appreciated, as was also the skill of Prof. I. L. Greenwald, who presided at the piano between the acts. We are glad to learn that quite a handsome amount was realized from the entertainment, which will be turned over to the Ladies' Benevolent Society to be devoted by them to charitable purposes.

Rock Crystal Spectacles and Eyeglasses.

Advice to old and young: In selecting spectacles you should be cautious not to take more magnifying power than has been lost to the eye, as in the same proportion that you pass that point of increase, will cause you further injury to the eye. Using glasses of stronger power than is necessary is the daily cause of premature old age to the sight. You can get the best at Heinsberger's.

THE W. O. & E. C. R. R.

The Subscription Voted by the City to be Issued at Once.

Judge Daniel L. Russell, President of the Wilmington, Onslow & East Carolina Railroad Company, was in conference yesterday with the Finance Committee of the Board of Aldermen with reference to the issue of $100,000 of city bonds in aid of the railroad.

It was agreed, after discussion, to have the bonds lithographed at once in denominations of $500 and $1,000—eighty thousand of the former and sixty thousand of the latter; the bonds to run thirty years, bearing interest at the rate of 6 per cent annum. The city to be entitled to any premiums received.

Judge Russell told the committee that the company desired to have the bonds executed and placed in the hands of some trust company who could also hold the shares of stock to be issued for the bonds. Bonds to be delivered to the railroad company and stock to the city as the road is built, mile by mile, at the rate of $2,500 per mile; and when the bonds are delivered through the trust company all over-due coupons to be cut off and cancelled.

Mayor Fowler, chairman of the committee, suggested that it would be necessary to appoint three trustees at the next meeting of the Board.

Judge Russell said that that would necessitate the delivery of the bonds direct to the railroad company; but this they did not wish. The company did not want the bonds delivered to them until the work was done, although under the act they could demand them without this restriction. The Judge said further, in relation to the election on subscription, that a question had been raised as to the validity of the election. It was to the company's interest to have this matter settled, as they did not want any taint on the bonds; but on the other hand they did not want delay; they wanted to avoid that if possible. The Board of Aldermen had decided that the election was valid.

City Attorney Cutlar, who was present at the conference, was asked his views. He said it was a matter upon which opinions differed.—A great deal might be said on each side. He was inclined to believe that it would have been better to have held the election under the old registration.

It was suggested by Alderman Fishplate, of the Finance Committee, and admitted by Mr. Cutlar, that the same difference of opinion might have arisen as to the validity of the election if it had been held under the old registration.

Judge Russell said that under the General Election law, the city authorities had the power to order a new registration whenever they saw fit, citing sections 2625 and 3793 of the Code.

Alexander Jones.

This is not the name of a minister, lawyer, editor, doctor, politician or noted criminal, but it belongs to one of the finest, staunchest, most powerful and best equipped steam tugs ever seen on the waters of the Cape Fear. We have spoken of her in previous issues and we paid her a brief visit this morning as she laid a short time at her wharf at the foot of Market street. She is indeed a magnificent craft and she has superb sea-going qualities. Her engine is of 160 horse-power, and the entire length of the tug is 106 feet by 22 feet beam, with a draft of 9½ feet when loaded. She is 125 tons burthen and she can make 14 knots an hour easily. Since her arrival here she has been fitted with two masts and supplied with the necessary sails for the same. In all her appointments she is as solid and substantial as oak and iron can make her. She is commanded by Capt. J. W. Harper, who left with her for Southport at 10 o'clock this forenoon and she will now run regularly as a tug boat.

See the Othello Range at Jacob's Hdw. Depot. It is unequalled as a baker; it is finely finished; has a reversible grate for either coal or wood. Can be changed in a second by the most inexperienced. Just the stove for Winter use.

Married in Statesville.

We clip the following from this week's issue of the Statesville Landmark:

Mr. Edwin Borden and Mrs. Octavia Wallace, both of Wilmington, were married this morning at the residence of Dr. L. Harrill, on Davie avenue. Rev. Dr. Wood, pastor of the Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony, and soon thereafter Mr. and Mrs. Borden left, via Charlotte, for Wilmington. Mr. Borden is train dispatcher at that point for the Atlantic Coast Line. His bride, second daughter of the late Jos. W. Stockton, Esq., was born and reared here and has been spending the summer with her sister, Mrs. Dr. Harrill. She is one of the loveliest of characters and has all her life held a high place in the affections of the people of Statesville. She is a true and noble woman and if Mr. Borden is worthy of her (and we have no doubt he is) then he is all that a gentleman should be.

IN MEMORIAM.

Departed this life, Sept. 25th, 1887, Mrs. LILLIAN COLVIN, only daughter of Jas. P. and Mary E. Moore, and wife of Jas. H. Colvin, in the 30th year of her age.

Native is unchangeable, God eternal. The grain germinates in the soil for a season, and then the forest and valleys are verdant and serene; the roses bloom and the lily is in bloom; amidst the flowers and the billows roll where once was the breath of life, has made him a living soul. He lays aside the most exquisite mechanism of animated nature for immortality, but while here his destiny is that of the withering autumn and the ripe fruit rolling to its fall. We need not the sentence Horatian to assure us that death does indeed knock with gentleness and grace at the humble cottage and the palace of kings. Every day we especially, whose duty it is to arrest or delay his coming, behold his footsteps tread his summons. One falls full of years and achievements, another at the very dawn of life. Another yet like the full blown queen of the garden, ruthlessly uprooted and scattered by the sudden blast. Here passes the pen of the immortal scribe; there expresses the statesman amidst the applause of listening throngs; and he is ready to whom the summons brings no terror. Thrice happy to whom the pallid messenger is an angel in disguise calling to the blissful rewards of a well spent Christian life. Mrs. Colvin was not one whose death we have no consolation. Inconsolable we should be, for our loss is irreparable, but that her life was such as to inspire in us the strongest hope and faith that our loss is her gain of heaven's own blissful beatitude. Descended from a family honored in this section since the revolution, "Lilly Moore" as they who knew her well endearingly loved to call her, was in all the virtues and graces that make that character an incomparable woman. Her sweet and angelic "sister" in all things, "Lilly" was, as Tenneyson says of the favorite heroine of his Idylls; personally handsome and mentally superior, her greatest charm was that gentle sweetness, that endearing amiability and gracious humility of mind and manner which would have inspired any knightly man of ancient or modern days "to have died, the death in any knightly fashion for her sake." She was loved and deserved to be. She was a general favorite and younger ladies in particular regarded her as a model, the exemplar in which to array themselves for lives of affection and usefulness. Well educated at Peace Institute, she took much pleasure in literary discussions and rehearsals. She was a natural and most gracious leader in social gatherings. Ah, can thy friends ever forget thee? Thy winning ways, thy merry laughter, thy friendliness. Poor Lilly, here, here from the hearts of thy friends flow sincerest tears to a pure memory, revered by all whose increasing acquaintance was an increase of affection and admiration. Useful, domestic, housewife, versed in the arts which makes home pleasant and comfortable, "still in her left hand carrying gentle peace, and in her right the nobler charities, she filled a pure life with the blessings of good deeds. She died where she was born, under the eyes of her parents, husband and brothers. Less than one year ago—on the 22nd of last December—was the day of her marriage. That bright scene of joy and hilarity, that assemblage of youth and beauty, that lovely bride wearing the white flowers which so well became her and was so emblematic of her life, we can never forget. To-day in that very hall of the festive scene were the sad faces of mourning and the sombre adornments of the funeral pall. What grief is ours at the contrast! A radiant flower has fallen before an untimely frost. But we rest in assured hope. Then had gone to the marriage supper of the Lamb. From thy sweet face breathe airs of heaven; with our God we leave thee. Farewell, gentle friend. To the stainless throng of the blessed, thou white-souled lily, upon the wings of our prayers we wait thee.

To joys serene that shall not cease,
Pure spaces clothed with loving beams,
Pure lilies of eternal peace
Whose odors haunt our dreams.

But the perfume of thy fragrant life will linger in the gardens where thou hast blossomed.
