JOSH. T. JAMES, Editor & Prop'r. WILMINGTON, N. C. TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1887.

Entered at the Postoffice at Wilmington, N.C., as second-class matter. One afternoon last week, says London Truth, a Mr. Seymour and some members of his family joined a Great Northern fast train at Hitchin, and in the further corner of the compartment which they entered was a man apparently asleep; but hardly was the train in motion, when they discovered that he was dead.

Governor Rusk, of Wisconsin, has become aroused by the newspaper exposure of the vile dens of infamy that are so numerous in the pine forests of that State, and is determined to have them wiped out of existence. He has detailed a special agent to go through the district said to be infected with these plague spots and make a report to him.

Typhoid fever is epidemic in Cincinnati and a correspondent says: "The strange spectacle of children carrying bottles of boiled drinking water to school with them is an every-day sight. The fever prevails, not only in the tenement districts, but in the wealthier quarters as well. An account says: 'For the past month there has been little or no rain in the Ohio Valley, and the Ohio River, from whence the city supply is drawn, has a depth in the channel of only three feet ten inches, making it possible in places to wade across to the Kentucky shore. The water is as clear as crystal, but is so slow in its movement for want of volume as to retain in solution the sewage that pours into it from the many small towns above here. Walnut Hill, an adjacent suburb, with a population of 35,000, sends its entire sewage into the eddy immediately alongside the city pumping works, from whence it is pumped up into the Eden Park reservoirs, and from thence distributed through the city mains, carrying with it the seeds of disease. Under advice and instructions from the health officers the citizens are boiling the water and milk before use.'"

Gatling, the inventor of the well-known gun which bears his name, has invented another instrument of destruction which he calls the "police gun," which is now on exhibition in New York city. The new piece is thus described: It is a brass gun, weighing seventy-eight pounds, and is mounted on a tripod, the whole arrangement weighing only 149 pounds. It is capable of firing 1,000 shots a minute. The general working principle of the gun is the same as the old piece. The improvement is in the method of feeding. In the police gun a magazine, holding sixty-two cartridges and looking like the hopper of a corn sheller, is set up on end at a right angle on the top of the brass barrel. The turning of the handle by the cannoner drops the cartridges into six revolving barrels within the cannon. As the barrels revolve a lock with a spiral spring catches each cartridge and a small needle in the lock strikes the percussion cap, exploding it. The next instant the extractor catches the empty shell, and following a spiral groove it is dislodged from the gun. When one magazine is empty another stands ready to take its place. By a long lever the cannoner can with his left hand change the range of the gun, shoot up or down or sideways, while with the right hand he turns the crank that puts the stream of cartridges in motion. The gun will kill a man a mile off, though 1,000 yards is the best range. The inventor claims that no mob could stand before one of these guns more than a minute.

What am I to Do?

The symptoms of Bilioussness are unhappily but too well known. They differ in different individuals to some extent. A Bilious man is seldom a breakfast eater. Too frequently, alas, he has an excellent appetite for liquids but none for solids of a morning. His tongue will hardly bear inspection at any time; if it is not white and furred, it is rough, at all events.

The digestive system is wholly out of order and Diarrhea or Constipation may be a symptom or the two may alternate. There are often Hemorrhoids or even loss of blood. There may be giddiness and often headache and acidity or flatulence and tenderness in the pit of the stomach. To correct all this if not effect a cure try Green's August Flower, it costs but a trifle and thousands attest its efficacy.

NOVEMBER NONSENSE. Mrs. Blossom—What's that? Oh, horror! The hotel afire? Mr. Blossom—Yes; come on; we've no time to lose. "But here I am in my night dress!" "Good enough! I'm glad you've got out of your ball dress into something decent."—Free Press.

Mr. Curney—See my new winter wrap! Isn't it lovely! A boy brought it up; but he didn't bring the bill. Mr. Curney—Of course not. A boy couldn't carry the bill. They will send it up to-morrow on a dray.—Pack.

The callous philosopher who has never experienced the joy a man feels when he tries to kiss a girl in the dark and gets stabbed in the eye with her nose has no business to express an opinion about kissing! Are our mouths merely holes for pies? We think not.—Truth.

Teacher—Now, Absalom, your father is a greaser. Suppose that he had ten pounds of sugar, which he sells to me at twelve cents a pound, how much would he have? Absalom—He'd have a dollar and twenty cents and four pounds of sugar left.—Lincoln Journal.

That's How It Was.—Miss Tensior—I'm afraid you are no end of a naughty boy, Sam. My brother told me the other day that you lost £5 at cards at one sitting at your club, and that your father was awfully angry about it. Mr. Gollylight—Awfully! He lost £10 the same night at his club.—Fun.
