WE MUST ORGANIZE.

It will not do for the Democrats of North Carolina to hug them selves with the delusive hope that North Carolina will go Democratic 'anyhow" next year. This same sense of security and consequent supineness of action has caused us more than one serious disaster in the past and may cause more in the attest its efficacy.

future. The State is safely Democratic-of this there is no questionbut no votes are counted save those that are cast. The stay-at homes are those we have to fear-aud not the drift of public sentiment. Cleveland carried the State last time by nearly twenty thousand votes and this can be easily doubled this year, provided our people come out and vote. We need not look for a want of organization on the part of "our friends the enemy." They are hopelessly in the minority and their only hope of success lies in indifference and disorder in the Democratic ranks. It is in such an emergency that they step forward with their perfect organization and their min ority succeeds in wresting the vic tory from the grasp of the majority. We have seen this accomplished here in our own district but we hope to never see it again.

The Raleigh News and Ob-server. that faithful sentinel on the watchtower, sounds a timely note of warn ing. In an excellent editorial article in its Wednesday's issue it warns us against the very evils we have alluded to here. It says:

We cannot too constantly or tool strongly insist on the necessity of organization for the next campaign. That struggle is rapidly approaching and it behooves the Democratic party to get its forces into order while it is yet time.

The Republicans are making every fort to harmonize their differences and evidently propose to make the best fight of which they are capable. From our knowledge of their "ways that are dark" we may expect any species of irregular warfare at their hands and should prepare ourselves, therefore, to do battle against every sort of trick and device known to the wit of unscrupulous politicians.

It is of great moment that we con tinue a Democratic Federal administration but above and beyond even this is the importance of retaining the control of our State affairs in Democratic hands. We have once already lately came unpleasantly near defeat by means of certain of the aforesaid "ways that are dark." Let us take care that we are not again led into such danger.

To this end, however, there must be thorough Democratic organization in every county, township, town and ward. Patriotic citizens everywhere should realize the fact and proceed to act accordingly withhow greatly the best interests of the him. State depend on the continuance of Democratic supremacy. Anything to the contrary, we have learnt by sad experience, is to be regarded simply as calamity. We must provide thoroughly against a change which must inevitably be very much cal, thorough, available, every-where. There should be committees ready and willing for party work, not only in each county, but, as we have said, in each and every township, town, ward and country pre cinet. The chairmen of these com mittees should put and keep themselves in communication with their superiors and the individual members should work like good soldiers in the ranks of the patriotic army we have in view to secure the enroll ment of every single Democrat.
