NORTH CAROLINA IN THE WAR WITH MEXICO.

(Raleigh News and Observer.) The Roster of North Carolina Troops in the War with Mexico prepared by the Adjutant General of the State under authority of the legislature has been printed and will be distributed as the law directs. The work makes a pamphlet of fifty pages, and contains the complete muster-out rolls of the First Regiment of North Carolina foot volunteers, and companies "G" and "I" of the Twelfth United States Infantry.

The regiment of volunteers was commanded by Colonel Robert Treat Payne, who was appointed by Governor Graham and served as commander of the regiment from first to last. He was a native of Chowan, and then in his thirty sixth year. He was a lawyer by profession, and at the time of his appointment represented Chowan county in the House of Commons. He was an energetic, efficient officer; conscientious, and a rigid disciplinarian. While in Mexico he drilled his regiment thoroughly, and brought it to a high state of discipline and efficiency.

The next officer in rank was the Lieutenant-Colonel, John A. Fagz of Buncombe. He also at the time of his appointment had achieved some distinction in the politics of the State, having served as a member of the House of Commons in the years 1844 and 1846. Third in rank was the Major, Montfort S. Stokes of Wilkes, son of Governor Stokes, and grandson of Colonel Henry Ingham of Edgecombe, who was killed at Germantown in 1777. His conduct in the service was so acceptable to his regiment that on their return they presented him a splendid sword as a mark of their esteem. His prominence as an experienced soldier secured for him the Colonelcy of the First North Carolina State Troops in the late war, a position which he filled with distinguished gallantry till his death in one of the battles around Richmond. Among the staff officers were Junius B. Whitaker and Oel A. Buck, adjutants; Gaston D. Cobb, surgeon; William P. Graves, commissary; Rash J. Mitchell, quartermaster; Robert F. Webb, Q. M. sergeant; and Samuel F. Williams, sergeant major—all names of more or less public distinction.

The field and staff were called into the service of the United States at Smithville, N. C., on the 10th day of April, 1847, and were honorably discharged at the same place on the 7th day of August, 1848—a period of one year, three months and eighteen days, which measures the duration of the service of the regiment. The regiment was composed of ten companies, lettered A, B, C, &c. Company A was organized at Tarboro in December, 1846, by Louis D. Wilson, and was mustered in the service at Wilmington on January 8, 1847. This company was the first to volunteer in North Carolina. It was the largest company in the regiment, having one hundred and three men. Their first captain was the venerable and gallant patriot, Louis D. Wilson, one of the most admirable and beloved men that Edgecombe ever produced. Soon after entering the service he was appointed by the President of the United States colonel of the 12th Regiment of Infantry in the regular army, in which capacity he served with conspicuous zeal and bravery until his death, on the 12th of August, 1847, on the march from Vera Cruz to the capital. He was succeeded in the captaincy of Company A by Oel Alfred Buck, who commanded the company throughout the rest of the war.

The other nine companies were organized during the winter of 1846-'47, and mustered into service at Smithville and Wilmington, except company C, from Concord, which was mustered in at Charlotte. The companies were organized at the following places: Company B, at Goldsboro; Co. C, Concord; Co. D, Yancey; Co. E, Tarboro; Co. F, Yanceyville; Co. G, Double Springs; Co. H, Raleigh; Co. I, Fayetteville; Co. K, Murphy. These companies were selected from a great number that had volunteered in this State—perhaps as many as ninety or a hundred in all.

The following is a list of the captains of the several companies: Co. A, Oel Alfred Buck; Co. B, Spyers Singleton; Co. C, Martin Shine and Henry A. Area; Co. D, Tilman Black and Jacob H. Constable; Co. E, William S. Duggan; Co. F, George Williamson; Co. G, Patrick M. Henry; Co. H, William J. Price and George E. B. Singletary; Co. I, Wm. E. Kilpatrick; Co. K, Samuel P. Tipton.

The regiment was quite strong, numbering 957 men; distributed among the companies as follows: Co. A, 193 men; B, 95; C, 83; D, 95; E, 79; F, 80; G, 87; H, 88; I, 91; K, 98; a detachment 89.

The regiment was assembled at Smithville and sailed thence to Mexico; the last company, Captain Tipton's, known as the Buncombe company, being the last to sail. This company sailed on the 29th of April, 1847, on the schooner Savory, Capt. Weldon, and landed at Brazos near the mouth of the Rio Grande on the 27th of May.

The regiment served under General Taylor in Northern Mexico. They were encamped most of the time in the vicinity of Monterey, and near the battlefield of Buena Vista. The war had been going on about a year when Payne's Regiment arrived. The battles of Palo Alto, Resaca de la Palma, Monterey, Buena Vista, Vera Cruz and Cerro Gordo had all been fought; and General Scott was preparing for the onward march to the capital of the Mexican republic, which he entered triumphantly and put an end to the war on the 13th day of September, 1847.

The North Carolinians were brigaded with the Virginia Regiment and Second Mississippi and were under command of General Wool part of the time and General Caleb Cushing. General Taylor's little army was kept in Northern Mexico to protect the frontier while Scott marched on the City of Mexico. They did not encounter the Mexicans; so that Col. Payne's Regiment was in no engagement. But the regiment lost heavily from sickness. One hundred and eighty men died, or about 18 per cent of the entire force. The Edgecombe company lost most heavily—31 per cent. The Buncombe company's death-rate was the lowest in the regiment—12 per cent.

The companies in the 12th Infantry, G and I, saw hard service and made a fine record for efficiency and gallantry. They won distinction at the battle of the National Bridge, August 12th, 1847. Company G was commanded successively by Captains Walter P. Richards and John F. Hoke. Among its officers were Lieutenants Charles R. Jones and Edward Cantwell.

Company I was commanded by Capt. William J. Clarke. Among his lieutenants were Charles Manly, Jr., John F. Hoke and James F. Waddell. Junius B. Wheeler was a private in this company. While in Mexico he was appointed second lieutenant 11th U. S. Infantry. After the war he was appointed a cadet at the Military Academy. He served in the regular army, was at one time a professor in the Military Academy, and retired with pay of Colonel September 29th, 1884. He died at Lenoir July 15th, 1886. His daughter married Thomas Vance, son of the Senator.

The conduct of the North Carolina Regiment was excellent in every respect, and its greatest misfortune was that it had no opportunity of displaying its valor on the battlefield. This roster will be read with special interest by the survivors of the regiment, many of whom are now among our distinguished and most useful citizens.

The regiment returned and was honorably discharged the service, part at Smithville, N. C., part at Fortress Monroe, Va., and part at Fort Moultrie, S. C.

Salt Rheum. With its intense itching, dry, hot skin, often broken into painful cracks, and the little watery pimples, often causes indescribable suffering. Hood's Sarsaparilla has wonderful power over the disease. It purifies the blood and expels the humor, and the skin heals without a scar. Send for book containing many statements of cures, to C. I.
