WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 21, '87.
Entered at the Postoffice at Wilmington, N.C., as second-class matter.

There is an exhibition of sewing machines at the Royal Aquarium, London, where English, American and German sewing machines are being shown. It is the first exhibition of the kind, but will be repeated, it is said, in Boston, Mass., and subsequently in Paris. There are sixty-nine patents shown, and they include many novelties. A specimen of the first sewing machine ever made, reproduced from the original specifications of Thomas Saint, of London, an inventor of the last century, is there, and with it are exhibited modern machines sewing at the rate of 2,000 stitches a minute. The lowest priced one is $1.37, and the highest $500.

When last summer an iron steamer, about one hundred feet long, of the tramp species, steamed up the Seine, and was tied to one of the quays it brought throngs of people to the bridges to look upon a ship that had actually been to sea. Such an event may not be a novelty to Parisians in the future. A company has been formed for the purpose of making Paris a seaport. In a recent report of the commission appointed to look into the matter, it is advised to make a canal more than thirty-five feet deep in the centre of the river Seine, and wide enough to allow two vessels to pass each other at any point. At present all freight for Paris coming up the Seine has to be reshipped from vessels into barges at Rouen. With a canal, this expense would be obviated. Rouen would lose all its trade as a seaport, and Paris doubtless become as lively along its waterfront as the busiest town of the coast. This canal project is the invention of Mr. Bouquet de la Grye.

Lieut. Cushing says that the Zuni Indians invest everything used in their daily life with a spirit of its own. A jar has its life and death and the twanging sound it gives forth upon breaking, especially when in the oven, is the cry of the departing soul. The lieutenant, in order to learn the ways of the Zuni, sat down among the women who were turning pottery and imitated their work. He began to whistle when they threw up their hands in dismay and cried to him to cease. Any noise would excite the jar's spirit and cause it to break when in the oven. They always paint a band around the rim of a vessel, outside if it is a water jar, and inside if it is intended for cooking. But this band is never complete as this would not allow the spirit to escape when the jar dies. All the jars found in ancient Los Muertos are banded sometimes in three or four colors, but the ring is never unbroken.

A letter from the City of Mexico to the Troy Times describes a farewell performance by Senorita Hernandez, the most famous female bull-fighter in the world. The strongest and fiercest animals had been provided. To make the novelty greater she fought on stilts, armed only with a short sword. As the bull, mad with rage, would make his furious charge, she stood perfectly still until he had approached within three feet, when, suddenly springing aside as the animal rushed by, with one hand she would slap him in the face with the scarlet cloak which had first aroused his anger, and with the other hand dexterously thrust into his neck a banderilla, whose sharp barb, as it pierced his flesh, caused him to roar with rage and pain. Thus charge after charge was made by the maddened brute, only to be always evaded by the active girl. She played him, plagued him and tortured him, as a cat would a mouse, until at last, bleeding, sore and completely exhausted with fatigue and pain, the animal would wound fight no more. Three wild bulls were worn out in this way by the fair Castilian; and then, as the climax, a magnificent bull was sent into the arena. Still on stilts, she calmly awaited his furious charge, and dispatched him with one thrust of her sword. The excitement and applause were tremendous.

Rheumatism Is undoubtedly caused by lactic acid in the blood. This acid attacks the fibrous tissues, and causes the pains and aches in the back, shoulders, knees, ankles, hips, and wrists. Thousands of people have found in Hood's Sarsaparilla a positive cure for rheumatism. This medicine, by its purifying action, neutralizes the acidity of the blood, and also builds up and strengthens the whole body.
