The receipts of cotton at this port to-day foot up 164 bales.

Remember the railroad meeting in the First Ward to-morrow night.

School Books and School Stationery you can buy cheapest at Heinsberger's.

The next meeting of the Pearson choir will be at the lecture room of the First Presbyterian church at half past 7 o'clock to-morrow night.

Miss E. Karrer is desirous of closing her business here at an early day and to effect this will sell off balance of stock below cost. See ad. in this issue.

The frame is up and all the planking is laid for Fourth street bridge and when the street is properly graded at each end of the structure, which can be completed in a few days, the entire bridge will be open for travel.

Work on the Seacoast railroad is progressing favorably. There is not a large force of laborers employed, but during the last week they did a considerable amount of grading and made as much advance towards the Sound as could reasonably be expected.

Our lady friends of the Baptist Chapel, corner Fifth and Wooster streets, will give a festival at the Chapel next Wednesday night, the proceeds to be devoted to the enlargement and improvement of the building. It is a worthy object, God and help them.

We regret to learn that Mrs. Julia A., widow of the late W. L. Berry, died this morning, after a short but severe illness, aged 58 years. She was the sister of Mr. Wm. A. Wilson and the mother of Messrs. W. J. and E. O. Toomer. In all the relations of life she was a most estimable lady.

Personal.
Mr. William Garen, manager of the "Mugs" Landing theatrical company, is in the city making the necessary preparations for the appearance of the troupe here at an early date.

Messrs. U. M. Robinson and Ed. Daniel left to-day for Asheville, where they will engage in the merchandise brokerage business under the firm name of Robinson & Daniel. They are young men, both of whom have business training, and we regret much that they have concluded to leave Wilmington. They have our heartiest good wishes for their success in the home they have selected, and we assure the citizens of Asheville that they have gained two worthy young men from this city to their business and society.

Death of Mr. Alexander.
Mr. John Alexander, a venerable resident of this city, died last Saturday night in the 80th year of his age and was buried yesterday from St. John's Church. Mr. Alexander was a Scotchman by birth and at one time held a commission as paymaster in the British Navy. He was, we have understood, at the battle of Navarino in 1827. He has been very reticent in regard to his antecedents and earlier years and he made a confidant of no one. For many years he had been timekeeper at the shops of the W. & W. R. R. but has been in failing health for the past two years. He was a communicant of St. John's Church and a close attendant on the services so long as he has been able to get out. He was unmarried.

Wilmington's Opportunity.

The people of Wilmington are now considering the most important question that has engaged their attention for many years. To ask the people to vote a debt upon themselves of a quarter of a million dollars is of immense importance to every citizen who has the welfare of his city, his neighbors and himself and family at heart. There are two propositions before the people asking them for this large sum of money—a subscription of $150,000 to the capital stock of the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railroad, and a like subscription of $100,000 to the Onslow & East Carolina Railroad. The question that suggests itself to every voter is simply this: Will it pay to vote these subscriptions and thereby get the roads? I believe it will pay, and expect to vote for both propositions the 1st day of March. The time has been when Wilmington was the seaport town that supplied the State with all the coffee, sugar, molasses, salt and many other things from South America and Europe, and there were parts of several other States supplied by Wilmington with these articles as well as North Carolina. The same territory that Wilmington once supplied can be supplied by her again if we succeed in getting the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railroad terminus here. The eastern connection at the State line near Mt. Airy is now assured. I saw the articles of agreement only a few days ago, by which the N. & W. R. R. bind themselves to connect with the C. F. & Y. V. R. R. within twelve months from the time the articles of agreement are signed. The time the N. & W. R. R. and the C. F. & Y. V. R. R. agree to work together is 30 years. What immense possibilities present themselves to every thinking business man at the very thought of this western connection! Think of what Baltimore was before the completion of the B. & O. R. R. and see what she is now; then one or two small vessels loaded for export trade during a season and of small consequence as compared with her rich neighbors, Philadelphia, New York and Boston; in every way they began to lend her aid to the building of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad and derided her for even hoping to do a large Western and foreign business when she reached the west by rail; but how is it now? A rich and magnificent city is the monument that stands at the terminus of the B. & O. R. R. to commemorate the pluck and energy of her business men. If you desire to be a second Baltimore vote for the subscription to the C. F. & Y. V. R. R. When this western connection is made, we expect to see the Lynchburg & Durham railroad hurried on to Fayetteville, which means that Lynchburg wants an outlet to the sea through Wilmington.

We also expect to see Raleigh the capital city of our State, bending her energies to build a railroad from Raleigh to Fayetteville that she may reach the sea through Wilmington and thereby break the shackles that the Associated Railways have had upon the business of Raleigh so long. And last but not least Charlotte, the Queen City of our State, for the same reasons that actuate Raleigh, will lend her aid in building a road direct to Sanford to connect with the C. F. & Y. V. R. R.

Do you desire to see all these suggestions accomplished? If so, vote for the subscription. Wilmington has been a stranger to the people of her own State long enough. What would Wilmington be to-day if she would have controlled the trade of her own legitimate territory ever since she lost it? She would now be a city of 75,000 inhabitants, and the wealth that this territory has been pouring into other cities would be yours. If you want to bring back the South American trade, and reclaim your lost territory, vote for the subscription. We are nearer South America by 500 miles than New York or New Orleans either are. We see no reason why we can't draw trade from South America for the West. While we are enjoying our delightful and healthy summer it is winter in South America, the very time for them to ship their products. Cincinnati is, I suppose, fully 1,500 miles nearer South America via Wilmington than she is by way of New Orleans.

Instead of its being a surprise it will be the most natural thing in the world for Wilmington to be the gateway for South America to Cincinnati, and in fact, to the whole of the upper Mississippi Valley, just as soon as the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railroad is completed to Wilmington and the Virginia line, which line is only four miles from Mount Airy.

If you want a city of 50,000 inhabitants within the next ten years, vote for the railroad. If you want the real estate owners to get tenants and profitable returns for their property, vote for the railroad. If you want the laboring people to have constant work and good pay, vote for the railroad. If you want to see our business houses crowded with customers and business, vote for the railroad. If you want to see North Carolina have a city that every North Carolinian will feel proud of, vote for the railroad. If you want to see our merchants begin to import some of all the products that seek the markets in the United States, vote for the railroad.

If you would like to see provisions of all kinds that find consumers across the seas come to Wilmington for shipment, vote for the railroad. If you want cheap coal from the exhaustless mines of Southwest Virginia, vote for the railroad.

If you want to be a State as well as a strip of land between two States, vote for the railroad. If you want to add millions to the list of your taxable property, vote for the railroad.

If you want to get large appropriations from the general government for the improvement of your river and bar, vote for the railroad. If you want to wear worthily the mantle of your fathers and keep pace with the progress of the age in which you live, vote for the railroad.

The Great Levy.

The appearance of the celebrated cornetist, Jules Levy, and his superb company of artists at the Opera House last Saturday night afforded our people a good opportunity to listen to an entertainment of the very first order. It is to be much regretted that the attendance was not larger, although it was about as large as could be expected on a Saturday night, especially during the Lenten season. The company was composed of three genuine and cultivated artists, without an exception. Mr. F. V. Downey, the pianist although quite young and "unknown to fame" showed himself a perfect master of the instrument. His execution was wonderful. Miss Torbett had been here before so that we knew what charming tones we might expect to hear from the violin under her magic skill. The vocalists were superb, and the readings were good. Mr. Levy showed what were the possibilities of the cornet, and established the fact to a Wilmington audience that on that instrument he is far superior to any competitors. We hope that the next time he visits our city he will appear as a strictly sober man.
