WASHINGTON, April 13 .- Senate not in session. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the legislative day of Wednesday. 4th of April, consisting of ninety manuscript pages, exclu-sive of seventy-one roll calls, (the latter being omitted), which occupied exactly one hour.

A large number of executive documents, which had accumulated upon body was a heavy oaken stick with the Speaker's table during the deadlock were laid before the House and also indented with some of the bark appropriately referred.

Mr. Blount, from the Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads, re- ed. ported the Post Office Appropriator came up to boast of last year's performance. Rutherford cowered at the command to stop and without resentment, even by word, submitting to as strong a presentment of his character as words can convey. In a few moments he would have been severety thrashed had not the cars afforded a timely retreat. These characters are seldom met now, and the few that remain are the meanest and lowest of the low. The company has missed one sale of which we know because of this man, and there may be more. Such a representative as this will injure 63; good ordinary, 81-16; low midany firm. Brethren of the press, please pass him around and let the people know who it is with whom they deal.

Asheville Sun: One of the most fashionable weddings in this city for many a day took place at the Presbyterian Church at 7:30 o'clock last evening, when Mr. Chas. A. Moseley, a popular young man and for-mer citizen of Asheville, led to the hymenial altar Miss Sue Summey, daughter of Dr. D. F. Summey.

Charlotte Chronicle: One of our friends, a minister, tells a pretty good animal story from Mallard Creek township. He says that two cats out there had six kittens, all in one nest. One morning, one of the old cats went out and came back with a young rabbit in her mouth. She made two other trips, each time bringing a rabbit, so that there were two old cats, six kittens and three young rabbits all living in one nest. This strange family is still happy together.
