The Daily Review.

JOSH. T. JAMES, Editor & Prop'r. WILMINGTON, N. C.

THURSDAY, APRIL 26, 1888.

Entered at the Postoffice at Wilmington, N.C. as second-class matter.

The naturalization movement among British residents of the United States appears to have reached already pretty large proportions. The vote in Massachusetts has been thus increased, it is stated by offieers of the British-American Association, as much as 40,000, and within four years from the inception of the movement the addition made to his poem. the number of voters in the State of New York is expected to reach 90,-000. Hitherto British - Americans dollar. have largely declined naturalization, with the result that little respect has been paid to their suscep tibilities by the politicians. The latter have given their attention to Irish and German immigrants, whose custom it has been to become naturalized at the earliest practicable moment.

A letter signed by four hundred children who are to sing on Children's Day at the musical festival to be held at the new Academy of Music in Petersburg, Va., in May, has been written to Mrs. Cleveland, urging her attendance at that time, and requesting her to persuade the President to bring her. The letter has been gotten up in handsome style, and will be taken to Washing ton by a committee, who will present it to Mrs. Cleveland. This com mittee will be followed by another committee a few days afterward who will call upon the President and his private secretary and request their presence at the festival. Governor Lee has accepted an invitation to attend the festival, and an invitation has also been extended to Governor Scales, of this State.

Labouchere in a special cablegram from London to the New York World says: "Princess Victoria of Prussia must be a very inflammable damsel if she has cherished a lifelong affection for Prince Alexander, he finally quitted Berlin when she was only 13. During the last nine years they have never met, exin the spring of 1884, when Princess Victoria of Hesse was married to Prince Louis of Battenberg. Under the circumstances it is difficult to understand the frantic passion with which she is alleged to be inspired, and I should think that Prince Alexander, who has always kept a keen eye on the main chance, is probably in love chiefly with the advantages of an alliance with the royal families of Prussia and England, to say nothing of the handsome fortune which Emperor Frederick would no doubt endeavor to settle upon his daughter, who would fare badly if she had to depend on the liberality of her eldest brother. If this mar Mason & Hamlin offer, as demonstration of riage ever takes place I venture to predict that Prince and Princess Alexander will pass a great deal of

> The importance of the announcement by the Independence Belge that a regency is about to be established in Belgium can best be estimated by the fact that that paper which is one of the most influential and widely read papers in Europe, stands in the same peculiar and intimate relations to the Belgian Goverument as the London Times does towards the British Government. King Leopold, who is in exceeding ly bad health, has of late become ex ceedingly unpopular among his subjects, not only on account of his entire subserviency to Prince Bismarck's policy and to the German Imperial dynasty, but also on ac count of his Congo enterprise. His devotion to Germany is easy to understand, innsmuch as he is by descent and birth a Duke of Saxony and a Prince of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha. His eldest daughter is married to a prince of the latter house, while his second daughter, Stephanie, is the wife of the Crown Prince of Austria Besides being interested in the Congo Free State speculation, King Leopold is one of the largest stockholders in the Panama Canal Company, and his subjects naturally object that the enormous wealth which his father, the late King, and himself have accumulated while on the throne of Belgium should be almost exclusively expended and probably wasted on foreign speculative enterprises of no positive benefit to the kingdom over which he rules.
