Senator Ingalls, the ex-Judge Advocate of the Kansas militia, made vesterday another attack on the memory of those dead heroes, Geo, B. McClellan and W. S. Hancock. Unmindful of the fierce cry of denunciation which greeted him on his former appearance in this capacity, he descended this time into still lower depths of infamy. He was replied to by Mr. Voorhees and we don't think there is anything more than a counterfeit presentment of the ancient Ingalls left to-day.

The usual Spring forest fires are abroad in New Jersey. Of course "the spectacle is a grand one," as it always is. The New York Star says: One of the fiercest forest fires which has visited New Jersey for years is raging on the mountains beween Montclair and Caldwell. The territory on fire is large, and the damage to timber will amount to thousands of dollars. The fire was irst noticed on Friday night. It burned steadily, and, the wood being dry, was well under way by morning. All day it continued to spread, and on Saturday night the whole side of the mountain seemed to be in flames. At night the picture is grand beyond description. The vicinity of the fire is througed with spectators, who have driven to

Something new in the shape of a Stepladder at Jacobi's Hardware

It is evident that there was rain last night at points near the city but there was none here.

The Federal Courts were in session but a short time. They adjourned for the term this morning. The Payetteville Journal says it is espected that the steamers on the river will have all they can do this Summer carrying passengers to Wilmington, if the water holds up.

April Fires.

From the report of Capt. J. G. Oldenbuttel, Chief of the Fire Department, it is learned that during the month of April there were six fire alarms. There was one alarm on the 1st, two on the 3d, one on the 6th, one on the 16th, and one on the 22nd. The damages in all instances were slight, except on the 16th when they amounted to $1,500, and on the 22nd, when they were estimated at

"Tom Temple's Career." By Horatio Alger, Jr. No. 7 of the "Boys' Home Library." Paper, 12mo. Price 25 cents. Published by A. L. Burt, 162 William St., New York

It is almost impossible to praise one book more than another in the capital volumes already issued in the "Boys' Home Library," but if any distinction were to be made perhaps Horatio Alger's stories would get the verdict. Certainly no writer or leave our port, save such as the for boys in this generation has suc public good demands and will jusceeded better in providing exactly tify. We could not do so, even did the sort of incident and adventure | we possess the desire. There is no that the boys themselves like and certainly no healthier nor more in lized by law. A steamer or a sailing structive literature could be desired by parents for their children. Of this latest book, "Tom Temple's Career, v nothing more need be said than that it has all his best characteristics. The "Boys' Home Library" is a great success, for it has thus far published only what is thoroughly good.

Nor does the REVIEW wish to place any obstruction as to the free ingress or egress of such vessels steam or sail, as may wish to enter restriction other than those authorvessel, hailing from any port in an unquarantined locality can pass into any river or port in the United States. There is nothing but the quarantine to stop her. The quarantine regulations for this port are now in force. Among other things they provide that all vessels from points South of the Cape Fear must stop at the station and wait for a visit from the Quarantine Physician This applies to Charleston and Savannah as well as Jacksonyille. And now as to the Queen. She has been running on the St. John's river, in Florida, from Jacksonville to Sanford, which is, we believe, about the head of navigation, during the past Fall and Winter to She stopped daily at Palatka, goingles coming, and laid over for sir time every trip at Sanford, b Therefore, according to the repris made to Surgeon General Hamilton she is from a section which has been for some time past, and is now, infected with yellow fever germs. Of course, if the boat can pass the quarantine she can come to Wilmington but being from an infected port it will be necessary for her to be thoroughly overhauled and fumigated before she will be allowed to come up the river. This fact alone will be sufficient to mark her work here as a failure. But few people will be willing to go aboard of her even after she has been thoroughly fumigated. The bad name will stick to her much longer than the infection will. fected port, or section, will serve as The reports of the officers for the a sufficient basis for the spread

She can't run to Harper's Pier, for that is private property, and therefore she must be content to compete with the Passport and the two smaller boats for the traffic between the city and points near the mouth of the river. The boats now on the river, with the Sylvan Grove and the new mail steamer Mr. Dosier is to put on, are amply sufficient for all demands likely to arise

The track will run down Front street in the same place as did that of the old street car track, which is now filled with cobble stones. It is a good time now to see that the iron is laid leve with the street and for the city to fill in the space with belgian blocks i. e. between Chestnut and Orange streets.

American Magazine for May.

True to its principle of being distinctively the exponent of National thought and life, the American Magazine for May comes forward with an appropriate and varied list of attractions. The illustrations are excellent, and the entire number bespeaks the prosperity, which its enterprise merits. William Eleroy Curtis begins a series of illustrated articles on "The Oldest of American Cities." Charlotte Adams contributes her concluding paper on "The Belles of Old Philadelphia, Edith M. Thomas has a characteris tle poem on "The Shadow-Self," furnishes season King Bronson a text for a pretty poetic description of "Wood Violets." First, perhaps, in the order of importance, though not in position, is a startling article entitled "My Dream of Anarchy and Dynamite' by a gentleman whose identity will provoke considerable discussion. "Two Coronets" assumes intense interest; the concluding events of the career of the unfortunate Maximilian and his wife Carlota are vividly shown; "Olivia Delaplaine" ends in a manner that will be gratifying to MR. W. A. McGOWAN will collect subscripthe sympathizers of the tortured young wife: "The Art Student in New York" is the title of an interesting illustrated paper; and the other contents are all good.
