Basn't he come yet?" shrieked the hapless bride-elect. The richly dressed attendants mournfully shook their heads and the stillness of desolation settled again upon the princely North side mansion. In the darkened banqueting hall the magnificent wedding feast lay upon the table untouched. The guests had silently departed. It was long past midnight.

Nothing was heard save the muffed swish of the sandflies against the windows on the outside and the subdued whispers of the saddened members of the famfly as they tipconsultation concerning the untoward event that had shrouded a happy home in gloom and blighted the life of its fairest flower.

Veronica Washabaugh, attired in her bridal robes; sat in tearless woe in her own chamber, dazed by the calamity that had fallen upon her. Could it be that only a few hours had elapsed since she was the happiest of the happy? Had an angel came down from the abode of the blest when the sun went down that evening to assure her that Cyrus Barker would play her false she would have laughed him to scorn. Cyrus Barker was truth itself. She could not realize—would not realize -his perfldy. Yet why had he fail d to appear as the bridegroom at his own wedding?
Yours passed. Time had mellowed the grief of Veronica Washabaugh, and the silvery threads that now be sprinkled in profusion the once hoven brow that bore the impress dachastened sorrow and the light dicalm and peaceful resignation. let there was that in her eyes that testified to a deathless expectation. Inher inmost heart she trusted that the mystery of Cyrus Barker's apparent treachery would yet be deared away, and the act that made his name a forbidden one in the home he had desolated would yet be atoned for, amply and honorably.

Toward the close of a beautiful autumn day a middle-aged man, attired in a faded suit of black, slowly mounted the steps of the Washa baugh mansion and rang the bell. He inquired for Miss Veronica and was shown into the reception room. She came down.

He stood up, weary, haggard and shabby, and looked imploringly in

"Veronica," he said, at length, I can explain. "Cyrus, is it indeed you?" she resped, sinking into a chair. "At ast! Oh, thank heaven! I knew you would come! He fell at her feet, and in broken sobs assured her of his innocence and his undying devotion, and with a heavenly smile she beamed forgivingly upon the lover of her southful days, and waited for him to clear up the mystery that had darkened both their lives.

"Veronica," said Cyrus, "there is but a remnant of life now left for us to enjoy, but let us be thankful for eten that remnant. On the afteracon of that eventful day so long ago"—and he shuddered—"I took a North Side cable car, two hours befor the time for the ceremony,

Platform of the Democratic Party in North Carolina.

We again congratulate the people of North Carolina on the continued enjoyment of peace, good government and general prosperity under Democratic administration of the affairs of the State which has now been unbroken for so many years; upon the just and impartial enforcement of the law; upon the increasing efficiency of our common school system, and the progress made in popular education; upon the improvement and enterprise manifest. ed in all parts of the State. We again challenge a comparison between this state of things and the outrages, crimes and scandals which attended Republican ascendancy in our borders. We pledge ourselves to exert in the future as in the past our best efforts to promote the best interests of the people of all sections of the State. Affirming our adherence to Democratic principles as heretofore enunciated in the platforms of the party, it is hereby Resolved, That no government has the right to burden its people with taxes beyond the amount required to pay its necessary expenses and gradually extinguish its public debt: and that whenever the revenues. however derived, exceed this amount, they should be reduced, so as to avoid a surplus in the treasury. That any system of taxation toed restlessly from room to room in which necessitates the payment of a premium of $270 by the government on each $1,000 of its bonds, taken up with the millions that would otherwise lie idle in its vaults, and paid to bondholders who purchased, in many instances, at less than par, is undemocratic, oppressive and iniquitous and should be refunded. The course of our Democratic Representatives in Congress. in their efforts to give relief to the people from burdensome internal revenue and tariff taxation, meets with the approval of the Democratic party of this State and we respectully recommend that if they find it impossible to give to our people all the relief demanded, they support any just and practical measure presented in Congress that will afford a practical relief from such existing

> Resolved, That while the details of the methods by which the constitutional revenue tariff sheriff shall be gradually reached are subjects which the representatives of our people at the national capital must be trusted to adjust, we think the customs duties should be levied for the production of public revenue, and the discriminations in their ad justment should be such as will place the highest rates on luxuries and the lowest on the necessaries of life, distribute as equally as possible the unavoidable burdens of taxation, and confer the greatest good

That we, as heretofore, favor, and will never cease to demand, the unconditional abolition of the whole internal revenue system, as a war tax, not to be justified in times of peace; as a grievous burden to our people and a source of annoyance in its practical operations We call the attention of the people of the State to the hypocrit ical pretensions of the Republican party in their platforms that they are in favor of the repeal of this onerous system of taxation, enacted by their party, while the Republicans in Congress are taxing their energies to obstruct all legislation inaugurated by the representatives of the Democratic party to relieve the people of all or a part of this odious system.

Facts Worth Knowing.

In all diseases of the nasal mucous membrane the remedy used must be non-irritating. The medical profession has been slow to learn this. Nothing satisfactory can be accomplished with douches, snuffs, powders, syringes, astringents, or any similar application, because they are all irritating, do not thoroughly reach the affected surfaces and should be abandoned as worse than failures. A multitude of persons who have for years borne all the worry and pain that catarrh can inflict, testify to radical and permanent cures wrought by Ely's Cream
