The Daily Review.
MONDAY, FEB. 11, 1889.

STATE NEWS.

Winston Daily: The residence of Capt. W. R. Murray, of Greensboro, was burned last night. His son, Robert, and Mr. Roland Taylor lost everything they had but what they could put on, and barely escaped themselves. The fire was discovered in the roof of the house. Mr. Murray had some insurance.

Lincolnton Courier: Charlie, the fifteen year old son of Mr. George Pasour, who lives near Hardin, was chopping wood a few weeks ago, when the axe flew off the handle, and hit him in the head, cutting a deep gash, and injuring his eyes. It is thought he will lose one of his eyes, if not both of them.

Concord Times: Salisbury is seriously contemplating a proposition to issue bonds to the amount of $100,000 to improve the town by putting in an electric light plant, paving the streets, and introducing a system of sewerage. Hickory has just put in electric lights, and other towns all over the State are moving in this direction.

Charlotte Chronicle: There is considerable sickness among children in Charlotte just now. In one of the rooms at the Graded School, where the enrollment is 70, only 17 scholars were present on Thursday. Dr. J. S. Bell, of Matthews, who was in the city yesterday, says that in and around Matthews there are twenty three cases of measles. The disease as developed is malignant, three deaths occurring on Thursday.

Tarboro Southerner: Tuesday evening J. B. Cloman's residence near Hamilton, with nearly all his furniture, was burned. The fire started on the roof, which caught from sparks from the chimney. When he discovered it the flames had spread over an area nearly three feet in diameter. He attempted to extinguish them with water, but his efforts were unavailing. His loss is about $4,000; insurance $750, on furniture.

Goldsboro Argus: It will come with saddening effect to the few that remain in this community who knew him, the news of the death of Junius G. Slocumb, Esq., which is reported to his nephews in this city yesterday by telegram as occurring Friday evening, February 8th, at his home in Hernando, Miss., in the 74th year of his age. Mr. Slocumb was the last surviving brother of our late revered and lamented townsman, Maj. John C. Slocumb, and settled in Mississippi in 1838—more than half a century ago.

Charlotte News: Passengers who arrived in the city on the A. T. & O. train this morning report the death at Taylorville, last night, of A. C. McIntosh, the postmaster at that place. Mr. McIntosh was 70 odd years old. His death was caused by Bright's disease. The residence of Mr. John B. Todd, of Paw Creek township, was burned to the ground about dusk yesterday afternoon. Mr. Todd lost all his household effects, the fire making a clean sweep. The family had been absent for two days, and there had been no fire in the house. The burning was the work of incendiaries.

Peterson's for March.
A welcome guest, Peterson for March is early to hand. The steel engraving, "A Venetian Flower Girl," is a charming picture. The opening chapters of the novelet, "A Modern Petruchio," give promise of a story of unusual brilliancy. A goodly array of capital short stories, hints on household economy, the latest fashions, fully illustrated, and numerous pretty designs for the work-table, make up a fine number of this popular lady's magazine. The Peterson Magazine Co., Philadelphia.

To Equalize Freight Rates.
A meeting of railroad officers and railroad commissioners has just been held at Columbia, S. C., for the purpose of unifying freight rates. Among the prominent railroad men present were Sol. Haas, traffic manager Associated Railways of Virginia and the Carolinas; Col. T. M. R. Talcott, vice president Richmond and Danville Railroad; D. Cardwell, district freight and passenger agent Richmond and Danville Railroad; T. M. Emerson, general freight and passenger agent Atlantic Coast Line; F. W. Clark, general freight and passenger agent Seaboard Air Line. The meeting was for the purpose of securing a more uniform freight classification, and some details of the proposed freight tariff were discussed. No action was taken, however, as it was decided to suspend negotiations until after the meeting of the railroad commissions of the several States, to be held in Washington, March 5th.

Chamber of Industry.
The Board of Directors of the Chamber of Industry will meet to night at the Mayor's office. All members are urgently requested to be present as matters of great importance to the city at large will be brought before the meeting. A legislative committee will be appointed to draft and send to Raleigh bills that are very much needed. One is in regard to free taxation for, say five years, to encourage the establishing of new industries. Another matter will be to amend the law regarding assignments, providing for a bond to be given by assignees. There is no provision of this kind in the present law and merchants and commercial agencies are urging a change. Also, that assignees be required to render accounts to the courts. This can probably be arranged at the present term of the Legislature. It is claimed that the credit of North Carolina merchants will be greatly damaged, now their attention has been called to these facts, if no change is made. R. G. Dun & Co. are asking contributions to aid in getting this law in North Carolina but why should it be necessary to raise any money at all for such a purpose? If the law is to be enacted at all let it be done without the aid of money.

Sudden Death.
Mr. P. H. Flannagan, of Morehead City, who has been here a short time, serving as steward on the dredge boat Pugh, died very suddenly, of heart disease, late Saturday evening. He had been expecting his wife to join him here and had gone to Front street depot to meet and welcome her but misunderstood the hour for the arrival of the train and so missed his wife. He then started back to the boat and when near the corner of Front and Ann streets, fell to the sidewalk and died in a few moments, from an affection of the heart. Mrs. Flannagan had in the meantime arrived and not finding her husband at the depot took a carriage and drove up town to look for him. She found him at the City Hall, where the body had been taken, and from whence it was afterwards removed to Mr. Woolvin's undertaking rooms, just opposite. The remains were taken to Morehead to day for interment, accompanied by the widow. It was a very sad affair and our people have sympathized deeply with Mrs. Flannagan in her distress.
