Convincing Proof.

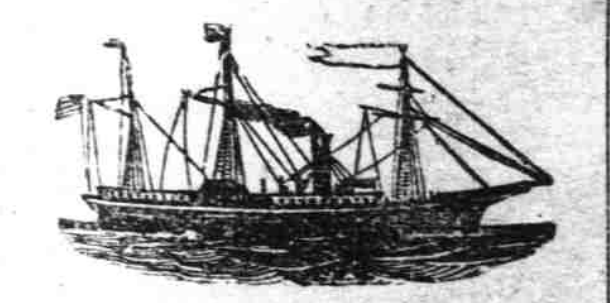

In many instances it has been proven that B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm), made by the Broom Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga., will cure blood poison in its worst phases, even when all other treatment fails.
A. P. Brunson, Atlanta, Ga., writes: "I had 24 running ulcers on one leg and on the other and felt greatly prostrated. I believe I actually lay in bed for several days. I used B. B. B. efforts to cure the disease. With little hope I finally acted on the urgent advice of a friend and got a bottle of B. B. B. I experienced a change, and my despondency was somewhat dispelled. I kept using it until I had taken sixteen bottles, and all the ulcers, rheumatism and all other horrors of blood poison have disappeared and at last I am sound and well again, after an experience of twenty years of torture." Robert Ward, Maxey, Ga., writes: "My disease was pronounced a tertiary form of blood poison. My face, head and shoulders were a mass of corruption, and finally the disease began eating my skull bones. My bones ached; my kidneys were deranged; I lost flesh and strength, and life became a burden. All said I must surely die, but nevertheless, when I had used ten bottles of B. B. B. I was pronounced well. Hundreds of scars can now be seen on me. I have now been well over twelve months."

ily should have, at once, a bottle of the best family remedy, Syrup of Can't something be done for Second street, between Market and Princess? The traffic there is very great and the dust has been stirred up to a terrific degree during the past few days. If it were sprinkled from the hydrant occasionally it would help matters very much.

In view of the extremely brief of ficial life of some of our friends, the enemy, the following epitaph on an infant, to be found in an English Churchyard, are especially appropriate:
"Since I've been so quickly done for,
I wonder what I was begun for."

Newbern Journal: Vice President Harry Walters, of the Atlantic Coast Line, accompanied by other gentlemen, arrived in the city on Wednesday evening, having driven through the country from Onslow. They left on the train yesterday morning for Wilmington. We presume they were prospecting for a location of the much talked-of branch line of railway.

"Death has so many doors to let out Life," sang an old time poet. In those days they had not discovered remedies that shut these doors. How different is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery from the old time doses.
Consumption or lung scrofula is one wide door that it shuts, if taken in time. Don't waste a moment then, lest life slip through that open door.
It is guaranteed to cure in all cases of diseases for which it is recommended, or money paid for it will be refunded.

The Memorial Poem.

The following beautiful poem was read yesterday during the Confederate exercises by Rev. W. S. Creasy.
We did not refer to it yesterday because at the time our report was written, we did not know that the poem would be read, although the manuscript had been previously submitted to our inspection. It is a beautiful, touching tribute to "our deathless dead," and Mr. Creasy delivered it in a very feeling and impressive manner. It was written by Miss Mary F. Sanders, of this city, and is entitled:

WILMINGTON'S ROLL CALL OF HONOR Ah! yes the war is over, and "the past
Is the eternal past."
But memory bridges the yawning space,
By the light of her torch we stand face to face Again with our "deathless dead;"
And one by one they march along,
One by one they join the throng,
Of heroes bold, of martyrs true; Their country called, to arms they flew,
To join in the carnage dread.

Our good old town sent forth to the fray As noble a band, in their "jackets of gray,"
As ever marched to the battle field, Or fought for their flag, or died on their shield,
In ancient or modern time.
We come to-day to deck the graves Of Wilmington's dauntless Southern braves,
Their sacred mounds, sweet flowers of Spring
A mournful tribute now we bring,
An offering of love sublime.

Reverse your arms, and muffle the drum,
Lower the flag, and silently come; Patiently wait while we con them o'er, We've gathered their dust from mountain and shore.
Come, hear the roll call of fame.
First Col. Meares is borne from the field,
With Wooster, and Moore cold on
their shield,
The first installment that Wilmington paid
On the great debt which principle made—
We buried them as they came.

A bitter wail was heard in our town, River and hill re-echoed the sound.
Who next? was the thought that wrung our heart, While unbidden tears from our eyes would start
And our hearts forgot to be glad.
For now we felt that war had begun
From day to day, from sun to sun, We waited, and watched, and strained our ear
The latest news from the front to hear, While our spirits were low and sad.

The conflict deepens. Extinguished the light
In another home, for James A.
Wright
Has crossed that narrow stream called death;
And Wilmington stands with baited breath Counting the growing list so sad.
Lieutenant Ed Meares, and again a Wright,
Johnnie Van Bokkelen, in young manhood's might,
A Parsley, a Martin, a Craig and McRee
As part of the price of liberty Are among our "deathless dead."

The Shackelford brothers, Theo. and Dan,
Are called to die for their native land;
And on Virginia's blood-stained soil, Lay down their arms, to rest from toil,
But find with us a grave.
DeRosset and Cowan from hospital ward,
We laid to rest in Oakdale's green sward.
Quince, Jacobs, Rothwell and Moore, With streaming eyes, and hearts so sore,
We give each a soldier's grave.

Nearer and nearer the storm clouds come,
They gather and settle just over our home,
On Christmas, the birthday of Christ our King,
And our sad hearts refuse to sing Hosannas died on our tongue.
For moment by moment we hear the yell,
Of booming cannon, and bursting shell,
And know that in Fisher's battlement wall,
Full many a gallant form must fall,
And we had no heart for song.

Then came a lull, we breathed again Despite our hearts dull throbbing pain
For two short weeks, too swiftly
flew,
The tide of war had drifted on And again they come with pennant and sail.
A gallant, desperate, defense made they Those Southern boys, in suits of gray—
Hand to hand each inch they contest Desperingly brave, it must be confessed Exposed to that iron hail.

Three times was our flag torn loose from its staff Three times replaced by the hand of our chief
And Whiting lay biting the dust; It seemed, surrender indeed now we must;
Not yet! the list's not complete.
And Stevenson stands on the parapet high
With waving sword and flashing eye, Rally's the men, again to the fray They rush like tigers despoiled of prey When their leader laid low at their feet.

Oh! Liberty! Liberty! how great is thy price
How vastly great the sacrifice This beautiful city by the sea Has paid, and still must pay to thee In blood and tears and heartache, For still on Bentonsville's green plain
The long, long list is growing again Rankin responds to his country's call Brave Zach Ellis the last to fall And the list is at last complete.

Twenty five years has been our sad task
To honor our dead; and to day we ask That you deck their graves, and drop a tear,
In memory of our heroes dear, Who died while they wore the gray.
They died for me, they died for you They died for principle just and true, Angels watch over their precious dust Until the rising of the just When time shall pass away

The Gospel meeting for men, at the Young Men's Christian Association to-morrow afternoon, will be led by Mr. T. C. Diggs, the General Secretary at Goldsboro. Subject:
"Why Not Now?" You must come at 5:30 p. m.

Prof. Bellezza's dancing classes will give the farewell soiree of the season at Germania Hall on next Wednesday afternoon, at 4 o'clock.
On that occasion a small price will be charged for admission, simply enough to pay for the music.

Rev. F. W. E. Peschau, Pastor of the Lutheran Church, having returned from the 86th Convention of the Lutheran Synod of North Carolina, will preach in his church to-morrow, in German in the morning and in English at 8 p. m.

This Morning's Fire.

The alarm of fire this morning at 2:30 o'clock, from box 25, was caused by the burning of Mr. Mike Carroll's stables, on Bladen, between Seventh and Eighth streets. Insured for one $100 in the Liverpool and London and Globe, represented here by Messrs. Smith & Boatwright.

City Court.

The Mayor had a slim docket today.
John Alexander, charged with highway robbery, was found guilty but his case was ordered left open.
Owen Costin, charged with carrying a concealed weapon, was found not guilty.

F. W. Eckelland and James Brownfield, two tramps, were ordered to "git" and they "got."

Highway Robbery.

John Alexander, a colored boy nearly grown, was before the Mayor to-day on a very serious charge, that of highway robbery. He knocked down another colored boy, smaller than himself, in the streets yesterday afternoon, and robbed him of a ring he wore on his finger. The Mayor found him guilty of the charge but ordered the case left open. He will probably be sent on for trial before the Criminal Court.

The Uniform Lodge.

A meeting was held last night at Clarendon Lodge to discuss the proposed formation of a Uniform Rank Knights of Pythias. Members of the other lodges were in attendance and Col. Haywood was present and enlightened the order in regard to the uniform rank. A list of members was started and a committee of one from each lodge appointed to solicit signatures to-day and report this afternoon at 5 o'clock.

The Boy Who Was Drowned.

A colored man by the name of Nixon found a dead body floating in the river about three miles below the city and brought it up to the foot of Wooster street during the afternoon. It was ascertained beyond doubt to be that of the colored boy, John Morgan, who was drowned near the Dram Tree on the 3d inst. Coroner Jacobs did not think an inquest necessary and the body was interred in Oak Grove Cemetery.

Died in Richmond.

The Charlotte papers record the death in Richmond, yesterday morning, of Miss Kate Moore, a native of Wilmington but ever since the war a resident of Charlotte. She had gone to Richmond about two weeks ago to undergo a surgical operation.
This was performed and she did not survive its effects.

The deceased lady was a member of one of the oldest, most noted and most honored Cape Fear families.
She was the sister of Mr. Richard Moore, Mr. James Moore, Mrs. E. A.
Osborne and Miss Hattie Moore, of Charlotte.

POISONOUS MEAT FOOD.

Terrible Disease Condition of Cattle Condemned at Buffalo.
(New York Herald.)

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 3, 1889.—The friends of Western dressed beef have received a tremendous setback in this city during the past few days and the opponents of the Canfor Dressed Beef bill are all but silenced. On Tuesday evening the Jacob Dold Packing Company, the largest concern of its kind in Buffalo, received a consignment of twenty head of cattle from a shipping firm in Kansas City. The car containing them passed through the stock yards without inspection, and later in the evening was received by employees of the company and switched off on Dold's private track.

LUMP JAWED CATTLE.

It chanced that a passer by happened to pass close to the car and looked in at the cattle. He saw a horrible sight. Fifteen of the animals were suffering from that loath-some disease known as "lump jaw," and their heads were a mass of festering cancers. He at once informed John Rast, the city cattle inspector, who came and condemned the cattle.

I saw the animals the next morning, and they were truly a terrible sight. From their lower jaws depended huge bunches of honeycombed matter, from which a greenish humor constantly exuded. Their eyes were swollen and shut and their teeth were exposed and ready to fall from the sockets. Words utterly fail to describe the condition of these animals. One of the tumors was cut off and found to weigh over eleven pounds.

President Summers, of the Board of Health, and City Physician Clark were present at the time, and the latter told me that there was enough poison in the cattle to kill every person in the State. One drop of it inserted beneath the skin would kill a person inside of twenty-four hours.
He said that once dressed no one could detect it from perfectly healthy beef, though it could not fail to produce the most virulent form of blood poisoning.

POPULAR EXCITEMENT.

The whole city is terribly stirred up over the matter, and a great clamor is going up for a more thorough inspection.
There is at present but one cattle inspector in Buffalo, and he is utterly unable to inspect every car load that is brought into the city. About three thousand head of cattle arrive daily, besides large numbers of sheep and hogs. In the fall the number is trebled.

Inspector Rast says that this is not by any means the first car load of diseased cattle that has come in from the West. Every few days a number arrive and have to be quietly cut out and destroyed. The size of the present consignment is all that makes it notable.
What must be the case with dressed beef that cannot be detected?
This is the question that is agitating our citizens.

PLEASE NOTICE
We will be glad to receive communications from our friends on any and all subjects of general interest, but The name of the writer must always be furnished to the Editor.
Communications must be written one side of the paper.
Personalities must be avoided.
And it is especially and particularly understood that the Editor does not always endorse the views of correspondents unless so stated in the edit. columns.
