The lady and her two children started to walk on the track to this city and as soon as this became known some of the gentlemen of Rocky Point looked up a vehicle to overtake them and bring them on to Wilmington, Unfortunately, it was some time before the vehicle could ville to morrow. Boats will report be procured and the lady could not be overtaken until after she had crossed the river. The swollen condition of the stream would not allow of its being crossed with the vehicle. We presume that the lady reached this city with her children in safety. We do not know whose fault it was that the ticket was unstamped, but it seems to us that the lady's friends should have been more careful in the matter.
