Inherited Blood Poison. How many people there are whose distress from sores, aches, pains and eruptive tendencies are due to inherited blood poison. Bad blood passes from parent to child, and it is therefore the duty of husband and wife to keep their blood pure. This is easily accomplished by a timely use of B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm). Send to Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, for book of most convincing proof. James Hill, Atlanta, Ga., writes: "My two sons were afflicted with blood poison, which doctors said was hereditary. They both broke out in sores and eruptions which B. B. B. promptly controlled and finally cured completely." Mrs. S. M. Williams, Sandy, Texas, writes: "My three poor afflicted children, who inherited blood poison, have improved rapidly after a use of B. B. B. It is a Godsend." J. K. Wilson, Glen Alpine Station, N. C., Feb. 13, 1889, writes: "I have had blood poison for me to have my leg amputated, and on the stump there came a large ulcer, which grew worse every day until doctors gave me up to die. I only weighed 120 pounds when I began to take B. B. B., and 120 bottles increased my weight to 180 pounds and made me sound and well. I never knew what good health was before."

MEMORIAL SERVICES.

The Last Sad Tribute to the Illustrious, Dead—Services at St. John's Church—Exercises at the Opera House—Touching Addresses by Prominent Speakers—General Suspension of Business During the Memorial Services.

The sun rose in majestic beauty this morning, giving abundant tokens that the day on which the honored, beloved and lamented JEFFERSON DAVIS would be consigned to the quiet of the tomb, where no breath of slander or clamour could reach him ever more, would be beautiful and pleasant. Our citizens generally appreciated this blessing, and many were the expressions of gratitude at the real loveliness of the weather, such, we believe, as is known in no other land on the face of God's green earth.

At 10.30 o'clock this forenoon the Wilmington Light Infantry, of which HON. JEFFERSON DAVIS was an honorary member, in full uniform and with 37 men rank and file, under the command of Capt. W. R. Kenan, marched to St. John's Church, where exercises appropriate to the occasion were conducted by Rev. Dr. Carmichael, Rector of the Church and Chaplain of the Second Regiment, N. C. State Guard. There were also present to participate in the exercises the Confederate Veterans' Association and the Ladies' Memorial Association. Besides these who were present as distinct organizations, there were many ladies, gentlemen and children present to join in the impressive rites.

The services at the church were deeply impressive and entirely appropriate to an occasion of such solemn and absorbing interest. They consisted of prayer by the rector, followed by a hymn by the choir, the latter being composed of the following ladies and gentlemen: Misses Kenan, Schwartz and Bowden, sopranos; Mrs. Bowden, Mrs. Shaw and Miss Wood, altos; Messrs. C. H. Robinson and H. M. Bowden, tenors; and Mr. H. K. Holden, base. Mr. E. P. Boatwright was at the organ.

After the singing the Rev. Dr. James Carmichael made a short and touching address regarding the dead chieftain, whose memory they had assembled to honor. The address was followed by a prayer by the same, after which there was singing by the choir. The benediction was then pronounced and the congregation remained standing while the Light Infantry marched out on to the street, followed by the Confederate Veteran Association and the Ladies' Memorial Association, in the order named, and then by the citizens generally, the choir singing a beautiful anthem during the time. On leaving the church the Light Infantry marched directly across Third street, halted and faced to the rear, which was toward the railroad, and at the word of command fired three volleys as a tribute to the deceased honorary member. The firing was superb, each discharge being made with hardly more than the noise of a single report. This ceremony being performed, the company faced to the front, and then wheeling into columns of fours they took up their line of march to the Opera House, followed by the Veteran Association and the Ladies' Memorial Association.

AT THE OPERA HOUSE.

Precisely at noon the ceremonies at the Opera House were opened by a solemn dirge, played by the Germania Cornet Band, at the conclusion of which Col. Roger Moore announced the following as the officers of the meeting:

President—Col. John D. Taylor.

Vice Presidents—Mayor Fowler, Mr. T. B. Kingsbury, LL.D., Major P. F. Duffy, Lieut. Jos. T. James, David G. Worth, Esq., D. L. Gore, Esq., Col. John J. Hedrick, Col. B. R. Moore, Capt. John T. Rankin, B. F. Mitchell, Esq., P. Heinsberger, Esq., Lieut. John McEvoy, Maj. Jas. Reilly, Capt. Robert B. Davis, Capt. J. M. McGowan, Capt. O. A. Wiggins, Col. John L. Cantwell, Alrich Adrian, Esq., Capt. W. R. Kenan, Maj. T. D. Loye, Capt. Joseph Price, Col. W. L. DeRosset, S. G. Hall, Esq., Col. J. W. Atkinson, Capt. W. P. Oldham, Dr. W. H. Green, W. H. Bernard, Esq., Lieut. Geo. W. Kidder, J. A. Bonitz, Esq.,

Harry Walters, Esq., Capt. W. H. Bixby, Dr. W. G. Thomas, Dr. Thos. F. Wood, Capt. E. W. Manning, Hon. O. P. Meares, B. F. White, Esq., Capt. J. I. Metts, Col. J. G. Burr, D. MacRae, Esq., Capt. A. D. Brown, Capt. R. M. McIntire, M. M. Katz, Esq., B. F. Hall, Esq., Wm. Blanks, Esq., J. A. Montgomery, Esq., J. A. Everett, Esq., H. C. McQueen, Esq., John E. Crow, Esq., Junius Davis, Esq., DuB. Cutler, Esq., Capt. Henry Savage, Norwood, Giles, Esq.

These gentlemen had seats on the stage, as did also the Committee on Resolutions consisting of Col. A. M. Waddell, Dr. A. J. DeRosset and Abram Weill, Esq. and the speakers.

The reporters of the daily press of the city were requested to act as Secretaries and were furnished with convenient seats and tables in the wings.

Col. Taylor, on taking the chair, made a brief speech which was appropriate to the occasion, in which he paid a high and just tribute to the exalted patriotism and Christian virtues of the beloved statesman, soldier and chief of the Confederacy in memory of whom they had assembled in common with millions throughout the South, to pay the last sad tribute to the noble, knightly man they all loved and whose memory they revered.

A touching prayer was then offered to the throne of God by Rev. Dr. Carmichael, Rector of St. John's Episcopal Church.

This was followed by a solo and chorus by the choir, with Miss Kenan as soloist and Mr. Munson as organist.

Col. A. M. Waddell then, in behalf of the Committee on Resolutions, submitted the following, which were adopted unanimously by a rising vote.

This day will be memorable in the annals of the Southern people. Throughout eleven great States, stretching from the Potomac to the Rio Grande, millions of men, women and children are gathered to do honor to the memory of a great and good man, once their chosen leader, whose career, just closed at a ripe old age, was without a parallel in history.

They honored him for his virtues; they revered him for his lofty character; they admired him for his intellectual endowments; but above all, they loved him for his sublime devotion to the greatest cause in which their hearts were ever enlisted, and for the heroic fortitude with which he bore their sorrows.

This day the grave, whose open arms await us all, will receive his mortal part and the last page of a strange and striking history will have been written.

The people of Wilmington, desirous of testifying their love and reverence for their illustrious countryman, whose death has caused universal sorrow throughout the Southern States have, in mass-meeting assembled.

Resolved, That we recognize with gratitude the kind Providence that prolonged the days of Jefferson Davis until the clouds of injustice, which had long gathered about him, were rolled away, and he was revealed to the world—as he had always stood before his own people—effect and stainless in the integrity of his patriotic manhood.

Resolved, That if splendid services and honorable wounds received on foreign battle-fields under the flag of the Union, if a brilliant career in the Senate and in the Cabinet, and a pure, manly, incorruptible Christian, private life should command the respect of the American people, Jefferson Davis merited that respect in an eminent degree.

Resolved, That we firmly believe impartial history will assign to him a place among the most illustrious characters of this age, and we earnestly commend to the youth of the country the study of his life and character as being worthy of their imitation.

Resolved, That we tender to his stricken family our profound sympathy in their bereavement, and assure them that they will always be regarded by their Southern countrymen and countrywomen with tender solicitude.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the family of the illustrious dead.

In presenting the resolutions Col. Waddell made a masterly speech, full of patriotic fire, fervid eloquence and elegant diction characteristic of this distinguished son of Wilmington.

At the conclusion of Col. Waddell's speech, the President announced as the orator of the Day one who knew JEFFERSON DAVIS better than any one present, the Hon. George Davis.

As Mr. Davis came slowly forward to speak he was greeted with an outburst of applause which was truly gratifying. He was visibly affected and began speaking as if standing by the open grave of his dead chieftain with the certainty that he should soon follow and the scenes of earth would close for him also forever. For sixteen months he had been daily and intimately associated with JEFFERSON DAVIS as the chief law adviser of the Confederacy and had seen him in every phase of a great life which was being tried as never was man's life tested before, and had loved him then and revered his memory now. As a soldier, fighting the battles of his country in Mexico, he had shown an abundant military skill and a dauntless courage; as a Senator, in the halls of Congress, he had shown to the world his vast knowledge of Constitutional law, and as a member of the Cabinet he left the impress of his knowledge and power. But it was as President of the late Confederacy that he established a fame that can never die and which grows stronger and stronger as time rolls on, and will continue to grow as long as history, honestly and candidly written, shall last. He spoke of the vast and varied knowledge of his beloved chieftain, stating that in every department of life, from the lowly calling of the humblest artisan to the most learned scientist he knew of no one who was the equal of JEFFERSON DAVIS.

The speaker said that, in the opinion of most men, JEFFERSON DAVIS was an austere, stern and severe man, but his was one of the most tender, loving and kindly hearts that ever lived. Simple and plain in his habits, the humblest soldier or the most common citizen could approach with confidence and a certainty that a just appeal would not go unheard. He was the embodiment of truth and sincerity, and above all was a Christian in the purest sense of that word.

The speaker was visibly affected at times as he related incidents in the life of the great man, and we regret that we can give but a very feeble synopsis of his remarks.

Ex-Lieut. Governor Charles M. Stedman was then introduced, and he made a thrilling speech. It was replete with the patriotism, genius, courage, military skill, exalted statesmanship and great learning and earnest piety of JEFFERSON DAVIS, whom the entire South delighted to honor and in whose memory she would shed loving tears this day.

Major Stedman was followed by singing by the choir, after which Rev. Dr. Pritchard made a brief address in which he spoke of the inflexible truthfulness, incorruptible patriotism and sincere piety of him whose memory they had assembled to honor. He spoke of the pure, simple, christian faith of JEFFERSON DAVIS as remarkable. His character was spotless and his christian faith broad, trustful and comprehensive.

Dr. Pritchard was followed by Rev. W. S. Creasy, who made a brief address in which he spoke of the exalted Christian virtues of JEFFERSON DAVIS, and the love which would grow for him as time fleet by.

We regret that we are unable to give all the speeches in full as they were all eloquent to the great worth of the departed chieftain, but we cannot, and can give but a synopsis of the rich intellectual treat of the solemn occasion.

The Opera House was crowded to its utmost capacity, yet the exercises were so deeply interesting that the most profound silence reigned among the vast audience and every speaker had the undivided attention of all present.

Rev. Father Moore was called for, but he was not present, and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. P. H. Hoge, and the multitude left the building.

Later in the day the Ladies' Memorial Association went in a body to Oakdale Cemetery, taking with them a most beautiful Greek cross of white immortelles, surrounding the words, in letters of purple immortelles, with which to decorate the Confederate monument. This cross was placed in St. John's Church this morning, and at the conclusion of the services there, it was taken to the Opera House and suspended in the hall, and thence conveyed by the same loving hands to Oakdale.

Death of Capt. Lemmerman.

We are sorry to hear of the death of a venerable resident of this city, Capt. H. T. Lemmerman. He died at his residence here about 9 o'clock this morning, aged 76 years and 3 months. Capt. Lemmerman was a native of Hamburg, Germany, but had resided in Wilmington for nearly half a century. He was a steamboat engineer but was engaged in the lighterage business for many years. He was an honorable, honest, clever, genial gentleman, and his death is deeply deplored. The funeral services will take place to-morrow afternoon from St. Paul's E. L. Church.

Gilded five cents are going for five-dollar gold pieces, but Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup needs no gilding to make it go.

Oil Discovered at Southport.

Southport has struck "oil" at last, not metaphorically, but literally. Capt. J. T. Woodside and Mr. Robert Robins, of Southport, have recently embarked in the wood business there and have put in an engine to furnish the power for sawing wood. In digging a well for water, on property belonging to Capt. J. T. Harper, they found water so strangely impregnated with oil that it is hardly probable they will be able to use it. The well is not more than 14 feet deep. The oil smells and tastes very much like petroleum and an old oil man who has seen it says that it possesses the characteristics of that oil. Of course we presume that the discovery will be pushed for all it is worth.

The Monument to Col. Jones.

The proposition to erect a monument to the memory of the late Col. L. C. Jones, by the employees of the Carolina Central R. R., is making very favorable progress. The committee have inspected designs submitted to them and the choice has been narrowed down to two, both from Charlotte. The funds are to be supplied exclusively by the officers and employees of the C. C. R. R. with some contributions from those of the R. & A. R. R. people. The monument is to be made of North Carolina granite and all of the work is to be done within the State. The committee consists of Supt. F. W. Whisnant, Wilmington; Agent K. S. Finch, Charlotte; Master Mechanic Jas. Maglenn, Laurinburg; Road Master W. B. Summerset, Charlotte; Engineer Jas. T. Neimeyer, Laurinburg; Road Master J. T. Elmore; Maxton; Agent B. Whiting, Hamlet; Conductor H. P. Johnson, Charlotte. Secretary and Treasurer J. H. Sharp, Wilmington.

Messrs. Finch and Johnson were appointed a sub-committee to make a contract for a design from the two which were submitted from Charlotte.

What's the sense in saying that Catarrh cannot be cured when Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy is so sure and positively certain that the proprietors offer $500 reward for a case of Catarrh which they cannot cure. A full pint of the medicine is made by dissolving one fifty-cent package of the powder in water. Sold by druggists; 50 cents.

DIED.

LEMMEERMAN.—At his residence in this city, at 9 o'clock this morning, after a brief illness, CAPT. HENRY THEODORE LEMMERMAN, aged 76 years and 3 months.

The funeral services will take place to-morrow (Thursday) afternoon, at 3 o'clock, from the residence, near the corner of Market and Seventh streets, thence to St. Paul's E. L. Church. Interment in Oakdale.
