Nursed the Tramp and Loved Him. An interesting story comes from Green Ridge, in Robertson county, Tenn., in which a handsome young man and a pretty girl figure as its leading spirits. Last fall a stalwart youth of about 22 years made his appearance at the home of a farmer in the suburbs of Green Ridge and applied for work. He was a tramp, with his worldly possessions in a bundle slung across his shoulder, and was hungry and footsore and eager for a job. The farmer gave him a trial, and being much pleased with his labor employed him regularly. In March the young man fell sick with a fever and for two weeks was very ill.

In the same village resided Essie Sullivan; who was pretty and attractive and the daughter of a merchant in good circumstances. She had seen the young fellow a great many times, but had no acquaintance with him, as he was not attentive to the ladies, but remained at home and attended to his duties closely. The young girl had doubtless been attracted by his personal appearance, for when she learned of his sickness she began sending him flowers and then nice things to eat. At first she went no farther than the door, but was finally induced to enter the sick room to receive his thanks.

As time were on she grew bolder and prolonged her visits, and in the kindness of her heart read to the afflicted youth. Life was a pleasant dream to them for several weeks, and the rumor soon spread that they would wed.

This report was confirmed Tuesday when the young people went to Nashville and were married. The girl left a note behind saying that she had eloped as she knew her parents would never consent to her wedding a common laborer without a home and unknown, but that she loved him, and would rather share poverty with him than live in ease and comfort without his protecting love and care.

The girl's parents were ignorant of the attachment between their daughter and the stranger, and were taken by surprise. They are much distressed over the affair -Louisville Courier-Journal

Growing Population.

Says an Auburn man: "I went out into the barn, on a visit to North Pownal, this morning. The dawn was not yet on the hills, in fact it never once touched the hills, but inside the barn everything was alive. I smiled at the populous nature of the barn. In one pen were five little calves-very young. The biddy that was clucking around my feet had three flocks of young downy chicks, and last but not least was the family cat, blessed as such a cat ought to be with a roly poly family of three. Each of the group was under three weeks of age. North Pownal's census ought to be taken before that barn gets struck by lightning or those chicks get to be good broilers.-Lewiston Journal.

The Shot Indented Turret. The monitor Saugus has in its turret thirty-nine-dents from round shot made at Fort Fisher. The vessel has just been condemned by a board of naval officers at Washington. It is to be sold for old iron. This is quite right. The Saugus is too small and too lightly armored for in out of the rain.' modern warfare. She did her work well in her time, but her day is over and no special interest attaches to the vessel. But a turret, with thirty-nine shot dents in it, won in action, ought not to go for old iron. The government ought to keep it. It ought to be set up at Annapolis, or, better still, made a pedestal for the bottles of my remedy FREE to any statue of some naval hero. Don't give of your readers who have consumpup the turret!-Philadelphia Press.

Uncle Hoar Makes a Joke. The old senatorial tradition that Secretary Hoar never appreciates or perpetrates a joke has been found to be a myth. During Senator Jones' exhaustive speech on the silver question he referred to the fact that 'way in the ancient days of the old commonwealth, of Massachusetts sea shells were used as money.

Mr. Hoar nodded his venerable head in approval, and whispered to Senator Gray: "Yes, and very good money it was, too. If a person in those days wanted to order a dozen on the half shell he could do so in perfect safety, knowing that he could pay for them with the shells."-Pittsburg Dispatch.

Helen Keller Learning to Speak.

We have had occasion to make mention of the little girl, Helen Keller, of Alabama, who came here deaf, dumb and blind. For some time she has been at the blind asylum at South Boston, where she has made remarkable progress, exceeding in her readiness to learn even Laura Bridgman. Some few weeks since she was placed in charge of Miss Fuller, of the Horace Mann school, and it is said that in a very short space of time she has acquired the power to express herself by words which are perfectly intelligible to every one. The case is one of great interest.-Boston Journal.

Preparations are already being made for the celebration this summer of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the conquest of Turkestan by the Russian army. In connection with the celebration there is to be an exhibition of the industrial and agricultural products of the country. The exhibition will be divided into two chief sections—the one historical, and comprising the industrial products of Turkestan anterior to the Russian conquest, and the other exhibiting the agricultural and industrial products of the province during Russian domination .-

Horses from Burdett-Coutts. Mr. Burdett-Coutts has sold a large number of hackneys from his Brookfield stud for exportation to the United States. The pedigree mares are probably the finest that ever crossed the Atlantic, and enormous prices have been paid for them.—London World.

Unbelief.

There is no unbelief. Whoever plants a seed beneath the sod. And waits to see it push away the clod.

Trusts he in God.

Whoever says, when clouds are in the sky. Be patient, heart; fight breaketh by and by," Trusts the Most High.

Whoever sees 'neath winter's fields of snow The silent harvest of the future grow. God's power must know.

Advice to Mothers.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the cnild from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remely for diarrhea, whether arising from teething or other causes. It is said that the watermelon crop of the South will amount to ten millions. Perhaps this announcement is a scheme to induce colored immigration from the North.-Phila.

Weak Women.

The more sensitive nature of the female sex renders women much more susceptible than men to those numerousills which spring from lack of harmony in the system. The nervous system gives way, sick headache is frequent, the appetite is lost, and other ailments peculiar to the sex cause great suffering. Hood's Sarsaparilla is peculiarly adapted for such cases, and has received the most gratifying praise for the relief it has afforded thousands of women whose very existence before taking it was only misery. It strengthens the nerves, cures sick headache and indigestion, purifies and vitalizes the blood, and gives regular and healthy action to every organ in the body.
