The harvest moon fills to-morrow.
For four nights the interval of time in rising will be only about a half also short intervals, will fill October 27th.

Dock street, at about its intersection with South Front street, is awful in a heavy rain and is impassable. A lady on Thursday last had to wait in a store about one hour before she could cross Dock street and when she did get over, had to go about a half square towards Second street to do so.

because of sickness in his family, which prevented his leaving here.

foot up 12,043 bales, as against 5,586 bales for the corresponding week of The receipts of the crop year to date foot up 36,479 bales, against 11,473 bales to same date last year, an increase this year of 25,006 bales, more than 225 per cent.

Syrup of Figs.

Produced from the laxative and nutritious juice of California figs, combined with the medicinal virtues of plants known to be most beneficial to the human system, acts gently, on the kidneys, liver and bowels, effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds and headaches, and curing habitual constipation.

St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

Rev. Mr. Arnold will officiate at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, corner Fourth and Orange streets, to-morrow at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. All seats free at every service. Morning text, "Godliness is profitable." Evening Subject: "Conformity to the world." Sunday School at St. Paul's mission, corner Sixth and Queen streets, at 9:30 to-morrow morning.

The Early Meeting.

The 6:30 a. m. meeting at the Tabernacle this morning was a delightful occasion to all who attended.
It was conducted by Rev. Dr. Creasy.
Rev. C. W. Byrd, of Fayetteville, read the Scriptures and delivered a very acceptable sermon and Revs.
R. C. Beaman, of the Methodist, and R. E. Peele, of the Brooklyn Baptist Church, led in prayer. The singing was led by about 35 members of the choir, with Mrs. Shaw and Mrs. Garrell at the piano and organ, and it was truly delightful.

Should be Attended To.

Something should be done to relieve Market street of the overflow which results from every heavy rain.
Not much engineering skill is needed. All that is necessary is to increase the capacity of the covered gutters which cross Front street and to slightly lower the grade at the intersection of the two streets. It is higher there than it is on Market street. West of Front, and as the water finds an insufficient vent in the gutters the high grade dams the water and the street becomes impassable.

A Good Day's Work.

Weakness of itself is not a disease.
It is, however, a most distressful symptom. Alas! how many wearily drag themselves about, every effort giving them distress, existing without any of the pleasurable sensations of robust health. Are you in this condition? Why? There is no excuse for feeling mean and miserable. Remove the cause of your distress, which undoubtedly is a state of blood impurity and a disordered system. How? Why by doing as others have done.

G. W. Chandler, Red Fork, Ark., writes: "I was so weak that I was only with great effort that I could do anything. I used several bottles of Botanic Blood Balm, and can now do a good day's work."
"Able to do a good day's work!"
Is there not something sweet and refreshing in that expression? Strength to vigorously do this or that. Strength that is only overcome by natural fatigue. Strength that when expended, is by rest and nature fully renewed. Such will be your reward if you give B. B. B. a trial.
H. B. Randolph, Brunswick, Ga., writes: "I was under the care of nine different doctors, but not one did me the good that Botanic Blood Balm has done me."

cooler weather.

rans of our city, to-morrow: Mission

The Tabernacle.

Mr. Jones has not yet arrived. He has been detained by a railroad accident and is expected here this evening on the C. F. & Y. V. R. R. train. He is expected to preach tonight and at all of the services tomorrow.

The attendance last night was very large. The choir were in full force and rendered some most exquisite music. Prof. Ezzell begun the service with "Triumphant Songs." He has a magnificent voice and it is a perfect delight to hear him.
Rev. Mr. Stuart preached a very eloquent sermon from Isa. 52: 1—"Awake, awake; put on thy strength, oh Zion; put on thy beautiful garments, oh Jerusalem."

There were nine professions of religion last night.
There was an early morning service to-day, which was largely attended and at 10:30 a. m. and 3 p. m., Mr. Stuart preached again. He is certainly a powerful exhorter and enchains the attention of all who hear him. The Tabernacle was almost full to day. A great many of those present were from other cities and from the country. The seating capacity of the structure will probably be tested to-night, by those who wish to see and hear Mr. Jones, provided the weather, which is now very threatening, does not prevent.

There will be services to-morrow at 10:30 a. m., 3 p. m. and at 7:30 p. m. and it is probable that Mr. Jones will preach at each of these services.
There will also be a prayer service at 6:30 a. m.

An Episode of Central Park.

The following pathetic little piece is descriptive of an actual occurrence. It is an extract from a letter written last August by a gentleman who was in New York at the time to a friend in this city and we have been kindly permitted to publish it: Late yesterday afternoon, fresh from the Museum of Art, "The Horse Fair," "Friedland," "Diana's Hunt," "Justinian's Court," "Columbus before Isabella," and all the wonders of the past, I sat on one of the benches near the "Scholar's Gate," in Central Park, charmed by the effects of the combined efforts of art and nature in the park landscape, the rays of the setting sun playing midst the foliage, dancing over the velvet lawn, gliding the flowers and moving like a spirit over the rippling surface of the lake. Birds were singing, gay equipages of all kinds, equestrians and cyclists were passing by up and down the drive and pedestrians of all grades filled the walks or occupied the benches. As I sat thinking, wondering, why this? why that?—a handsome baby carriage stopped near and the young man (about 25) who had been propelling it took a seat on the bench beside me and commenced reading a book.

In the carriage was a beautiful brown eyed baby surrounded by all the "upper middle class" trappings, and as neat and clean as could be. There was a white flannel dog, a pearl rattle and two ivory rings tied with blue ribbon. The pillow was lace and the snowy blanket was bound with silk. In the folds of the latter the end and shape of a nursing bottle were just discernable.
The baby looked at me a minute and stretched its little arms, laughed and leaned forward for me to take it. I moved up and commenced playing with it and said to the gentleman—"your baby?" He answered in broken English, "yes." "Boy or girl?" "Boy." "How old?" "Nine months." After amusing the little fellow for a while, without thinking, I said "Baby, where's your mamma?" The gentleman gave me a glance; tears came to his eyes; he kissed the child, bent forward and hid his face in the little blanket.
The baby buried both little hands in the soft flaxen hair of the father and laughed. The fool's question had been answered and the fool, saying "Good-bye baby," hurried off looking for a policeman who would be kind enough to club him.

One Stall, One Day in One Market.

There are not a great many visitors here yet and ample provision has been made to entertain as many more. Mr. Garrell killed yesterday and had on his stalls to-day 16 Western N. C. beeves, 16 sheep, 4 hogs and 1 calf. The beeves averaged 800 lbs, making say 13,000 lbs, and to this may be added 2,000 lbs for the other animals, making in all 15,000 pounds of meat. A large part of this has been already sold and Mr.
Garrell calculates that it will all be gone when he closes to-night. This is the business of but one stall out of three markets.
