Maj. Stedman in Charlotte.

Hon. Chas. M. Stedman passed through Charlotte on Tuesday for Asheville on important business. He was seen by a News reporter and was found in excellent spirits over the political outlook in New Hanover. "The indications are," he said "that the entire Democratic ticket, legislative and county, will be elected. We confidently count on electing our whole ticket." The News says: "This will be a great thing. New Hanover belongs to the Democrats, but they have never yet had control of it. Maj. Stedman sincerely regretted that he had to forego his appointment to speak here, but the party needed him in New Hanover, and the result of his work among fishermen along the Sounds will be felt on election day. Major Stedman says that the negro registration in New Hanover has fallen off remarkably."

The Lottery Law and Church Fairs.

The season for church festivals is fast approaching and the editor who does not want his paper thrown out of the mails will have to move cautiously. It is allowable to say that a festival was given last night by such and such a church at such and such a place, but thanks to the powers that be, we can't give any of the particulars about the voting for the most popular man or the most popular young lady. Neither Lamb, -:- Mutton, :-: Veal, ::: Pork, can we tell the name of the winner of the sofa pillow, or the embroidered slippers or the silver plated solid silver set of knives and forks. We can talk about having paid a quarter for the privilege of hunting for the oyster in the stew, and such light affairs as that, but when it comes to telling about who won the prizes it is no go.
