Self Winding Clocks.

A chain of synchronized self winding clocks is being established here through the efforts of Henry Denver, manager of the Western Union Telegraph company. The time pieces do not obtain their motive power from electrical action, thus being subject to hindrances resulting from entire dependence on electrical currents, but instead gains the necessary force from the action of a fine spring, as does an ordinary clock. Two small cells of battery are placed in the top of the case, connected with a magnet secured to the lower part of the movement. As the center wheel, driven by the unwinding of the spring, advances, a lever is raised that unlocks the armature and allows it to spring back into position ready for winding. When the lever drops the circuit is instantly closed, the spring being wound by the pawl fastened to the irmature. The action of winding breaks the cir-ait when the winding is completed. The contacts are made so short that the action of the battery is very slight, thus enabling it to perform the work of winding for over a year without renewal or alteration. Each clock is provided with a simple attachment by means of , which its hands may be controlled automatically by electricity. To secure absolute uniformity of time throughout the city the clocks will be connected with a time wire just before 12 o'clock each day. During the brief period of connection the standard clock at Washington through the repeating lines takes possession of the wire, temporarily controlling all clocks in its circuit.-Springfield Republican.

The Wilderness Cure for Impaired Sight. Edward Sturtevant, son of D. W. Sturtevent, of Albany, has been sojourning in the wilderness all summer near Old Valley Dodge, northerly of Boonville. He lives in a shanty alone, save for occasional visitors who share his hospitality.

Mr. Sturtevant entered the woods last June, at the advice of his physicians, to seek restoration of impaired vision. The experiment has proved so advantageous and beneficial that Mr. Sturtevant proposes to remain there during the coming winter. He has sent home for his winter clothing to be forwarded to him.

machine works at Schenectady. In his them. sylvan retreat he whiles away the time in reading, fishing and hunting, and seems entirely content with his surroundings. The former vigor of his optic nerves is rapidly returning, and he has concluded to remain in the woods until a perfect cure is attained.—Amsterdam (N. Y.) Sentinel.

A Kitten's Journey.

Miss Amelia McLogan resides on Fourth street. A couple of weeks ago an old cat which made its temporary headquarters in the house in which Miss McLogan lives, was found to be the mother of a dozen or so kittens one morning, and four days after the arrival of the brood Miss McLogan left for New York to make some purchases for the firm she represents. When she had gone the old cat discovered one of her kittens missing, and had been in a great stew about it ever since. The young feline was industriously searched for, but no trace of its whereabouts could be found until a letter was received from Miss McLogan saying that on unpacking her trunks she found the little one curled up and in good physical condition. She gave the kitten to a chambermaid, as she did not care to bring it back. It seems strange that a kitten less than a week old could live in such a place .-Detroit Tribune.

Folding Napkins by Pattern. Commercial enterprise has entered a fresh field in the recent issue by a New York firm of paper patterns for folding table napkins. This art has up to this time been relegated to the butler's and parlormaid's repertoires, and competency or the reverse in its accomplishment has frequently been one of the tests of eligibility to service. Now, however, this is done away with, and the mistress of an establishment may have the knack at her finger ends to teach the merest novice in her employ.

It is a question, however, if this universal knowledge will not deprive fashionable tables of one element of individnality now imparted by the exclusive napkin lore of some treasure of a "Jeems" or Martha.-New York Times.

Bogus Stamps.

A Hamburg firm is making a fortune by selling bogus Heligoland postage stamps to collectors in Germany. As soon as the Anglo-German agreement concerning the island became known there was a tremendous demand for the old Heligoland stamps, and the prices went up to forty-five and fifty cents apiece. The firm in question at once bought the Heligoland stamp for little more than its value as old metal, and has kept it a-going day and night ever since. It has sold already 20,000, and has more orders in sight than it can fill. At a recent meeting of the postage stamp bourse in Berlin a movement to stop the fraud was started.-Exchange.

Something New to Compete For. Dink Melvin, a veteran fisherman on the waters adjacent to Albany, is considered the most expert bateau paddler in this section. He offers to wager $100 that in the swiftest current he can paddle a boat eighteen inches wide between two posts nineteen inches apart.-Cor. Atlanta Constitution.

A War Ship in Hoosier Waters. The United States war ship Michigan is in port on a recruiting trip. She carries 110 men and boys. The boat was built in 1844, and the iron in her was hauled overland to Pittsburg with ox teams. She is still good for several years.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

Advice to Mothers.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the coild from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remely for diarrhea, whether arising from teething or other causes.
