The Only Case on Record.

A curious surgical case is that presented by Henry Breen, of Fort Wayne. He suffers from aneurism of the orbit, and his is the only case of the kind reported by physicians. He has received many letters inviting him to appear before medical colleges, so they can examine and study aneurism of the orbit, but as he fears that the blood vessel back of the orbit may burst at any moment and thus end his life he has preferred to remain under the care of surgeons at home.

Breen was a brakeman on the Wabash railroad, and while engaged in coupling cars at Cecil, O., he was caught between the steps of the caboose and the end of a saw log which extended over a flat car, and his skull was fractured. After a long and painful illness he rallied sufficiently to walk about, but it was found that the cords of the left eye were paralyzed and refused to perform their natural functions. The affliction grew worse and Mr. Breen went to Springfield, Ills., where the Illinois surgeons were holding their annual convention. He was examined by 173 surgeons, who pronounced his case "aneurism of the eye," and the only one on record.

He was put under the influence of opiates and an iron collar was placed about his neck, to which was attached a thumb screw which was pressed over the orbit to stop the rush of blood. He was thus kept for forty-eight hours, but his case was pronounced incurable. He is now at his home in Fort Wayne. Breen is a man of strong muscular development, and would appear to have more than the average man's chances for longevity. He is not disposed to be melancholy over his condition, and says that he may outlive the entire Springfield convention. At any rate, he has the strange distinction of being the only man alive who wears a collar made at a blacksmith shop.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Boys Worry a Chestnut Vender.

The life of the chestnut and peanut vender is a hard one, especially when the street arabs of tough but tender years band together and swoop upon him in serried array and compact sally. A specimen of the "lately landed" order stood before his caldron warming his five digits and nursing the glowing chestnut when a band of young urchins sallied by. One gave a quick kick at the stand as they passed, which made it totter. The Italian in charge made an effort to save it, but it went sprawling, tossing out the luscious nuts upon the street. This was the grand strategic effect sought for by the urchins, as it put the vender in a hesitating position.

If he chased the boys he left the stand, and if he went to the stand he left the nuts. The vender hesitated a moment, and the little band of young arabs waited to see what he would do, prepared to scatter into complete indefiniteness. The vender chose to look to his stand, and his doing so was a signal to the youngsters. Like crows to the prey they swooped down upon the nuts in triumph, and with howls and hoots filled their pockets to the full, paying little heed to the forceful ejaculations of the vender.—New York Times.

A Deer on the Track.

While extra train No. 671 was coming east Sunday afternoon a few miles east of Mast Hope, on the Delaware division, Engineer Edward Taylor espied a large deer descending the almost perpendicular bluff on the north side of the track. The deer reached the track a few yards in advance of the engine, and those on the engine expected to see it run down, but instead it started down the track in advance of the train for a distance of a quarter of a mile, and then bounded down the bank toward the river. The men on the engine saw the deer until the train went out of sight. It was a buck with five prongs, and must have weighed in the neighborhood of 500 pounds. It seemed to be greatly fatigued, and was probably started up by a party of hunters in the heavy woods back of Mast Hope. Taylor and his fireman confidently expected to have a saddle of venison for their Thanksgiving dinner.—Port Jervis (N. Y.) Gazette.

The Farm Tools.

It would seem as if, after years of good counsel on the subject, some farmers would at least take the hint and look after the farm tools—particularly after the season's work is done; but it will require a good deal of preaching from the text before "conversion" is accomplished. So one would think who rides far in almost any direction this time of the year. Mowers and horse rakes still out in the fields, plows astride a rail fence, harrows leaning up against trees—these are some of the not uncommon objects which one may see on some farms. Get them in, give a coat of paint where needed, and save dollars.—Independent.

Wonders of the Deep.

Carl Boentjen, of Astoria, has on exhibition a marine curiosity. It consists of an ordinary seaweed some 20 feet in length, and at the lower end the cluster of roots has a firm hold of an aggregation of marine shells several pounds in weight. These shells are occupied by a curious inhabitant that has a beak that resembles a chicken's, only it is divided perpendicularly instead of horizontally. —San Francisco Call.

"Wootton," George W. Childs' country home at Bryn Mawr, is regarded as one of the most expensively maintained country places in the United States. The wages of the servants alone amount to $1,000 a month. A new stable is in process of erection on the grounds at an estimated cost of $40,000.

A Kansas man sunk a shaft on his farm the other day, and in going down 100 feet, it is said, struck two five foot veins of mineral paint, a ten foot stratum of brick clay, a twenty inch vein of coal and a five foot stratum of marble.

Our Ship That Never Comes In.

There's a pretty bark in the far off sea,
By the beautiful Isles of Rest:
Where the waves forever dance in glee
On the ocean's pellucid breast,
The mermaids sing in voices sweet
As the notes of the mandolin,
But we wait on the shore in vain to greet
Our ship that never comes in.

This fairy ship we can almost see
In our dreams so glad and bright.
It is freighted down with gifts that we
Are wishing by day and night,
It is filled with the heart's own precious gold,
And with never a touch of sin,
And we'll wait for aye that we may behold
Our ship that never comes in.

A Scrap of Paper Saves Her Life.

It was just an ordinary scrap o wrapping paper, but it saved her life. She was in the last stages of consumption, told by physicians that she was incurable and could live only a short time; she weighed less than seventy pounds. On a piece of wrapping paper she read of Dr. King's New Discovery, and got a sample bottle; it helped her, she bought another and grew better fast, continued its use and is now strong, healthy, rosy, plump, weighing 140 pounds. For fuller particulars send stamp to W. H. Cole, Druggist, Fort Smith. Trial bottles of this wonderful Discovery free at Robt. R. Bellamy's wholesale and retail drug store.

NOVEMBER NONSENSE.

Ted—His is a singular absence. Ned—Plural, you mean. He ran off with another fellow's wife.

"Well," said the undertaker, "I'm not much of a fighter, but when it comes to boxing, I can easily lay out any man."

"That man is notoriously unreliable." "Why? I like the looks of him." "He breaks his word so" "How is that?" He stutters."

Alice—How jolly it must be to be a bachelor. Their lives are so full of comfort, you know. Gertie—Comfort? Yes, but only the crumbs.

Mother—You'd better put on a veil. The wind will chap your face. Clara—Never mind. A chap never hurts my face. I rather enjoy the sensation.

Minnie—So he kissed you, did he? Mamie—Once. Minnie—You don't say? Well, the smartest man on earth is liable to make a fool of himself once.

First Physician—Did old Coupon's case yield to your treatment? Second Physician—It did. I treated it six months and it yielded something like $1,000.
