HE MAY BE A LORD.

W. W. Astor Said to Be in Training for the British Peerage.

England continues to speak of William Waldorf Astor as an American, and America laughs at him as an imitation Englishman, but the truth is he is so much an Englishman that he is actually slated for the peerage. This may seem incredible in America, and yet it is a fact.
You are probably aware that Mr. Waldorf Astor has already become a British subject, and since he naturalized himself here he has enjoyed preferential election to that select circle of England's territorial magnates, that political holiest of the holies, the Carlton club. A further step in his upward flight was his nomination for the bench of the county of Middlesex, and he will be forthwith gazetted justice of the peace. That is an honor conferred by the lord high chancellor, acting for the crown, on the nomination of the lord lieutenant of the county. It entitles the holder to rank as justice of the quorum and is an inevitable preparatory step to higher rank. So far so good, but the half has not yet been told. He has been offered a baronetcy, but not quite content with that, stipulates for the rank of a baron at least and will undoubtedly succeed.

Let me explain the difference in rank between a baronet and a baron. The former is the lowest order of hereditary rank and entitles the holder to be addressed as sir and his spouse as lady. It is in point of procedure rank 65 and permits the holder to sit in the house of commons, whereas that of baron entitles the holder to the rank, title and dignity of my lord and a seat in the house of lords. The style of address to the spouse of the holder of the title is still my lady. The rank of baron is the lowest of the five orders of peers and entitles the family of the holders to be known and addressed as honorable.

Lord Beaconsfield once said that there was "a certain moral force in a name and a dignity in a double barreled name." Mr. Astor is of the same opinion. He writes and styles himself Waldorf Astor. So in books of reference look under W and not under A. Mr. Waldorf Astor, however, is doing well and is appreciated here. He has always been in good hands, having from the first been chaperoned by that fine old English gentleman, that sturdy old courtier, Christopher Sykes.

Success in social life in England depends entirely on whose hands one gets in, and it is not always that the most written about are the most desirable. In the case of Mr. Waldorf Astor, his chaperon is not much known outside, but Christopher is a man of rare judgment and unsullied character, and, what is more, one of H. E. H.'s set, high in the favor of Queen Victoria and socially a power behind the throne. From the standpoint of practical politics the giving of social rank to Mr. Waldorf Astor is brilliant. It will tend to attract other multimillionaires, and when we get the Astors, Vanderbilts, Havemeyers, Rockefellers, Goulds and others on London season will blossom like a rose, and when the few remaining coronets of British aristocrats now in pawn be redeemed then the plebeian government of the United States may devise some means of social demarcation to keep her millionaires at home. Meanwhile a cordial welcome awaits them here.—Cor. Philadelphia Times.

JOSS IS TO HAVE A NEW TEMPLE.

Surrounded by True Oriental Luxuries, the Deity Will Receive Due Homage.

"The Chinese citizens of Chicago will soon have the most magnificent joss-house in America," said Sam Moy to a reporter. "The entire furnishings for the place are now being designed and made in China, and we expect to open the house in about three months. Our people are habitually very quiet and not given to display or parade, but the dedication of the new joss-house will be attended with Chinese ceremonies and a parade far more elaborate than has ever been seen in Chicago and probably in the United States."
"The place will not be used as a joss-house alone, but also as the lodge or headquarters of the Chinese Freemasons of this city. There are many of these here, and the society is hundreds of years old in China. In addition to this it will serve as a place for the temporary entertainment of the people of our nation who make a few days' stop in the city. They will be housed and taken care of there."
Hip Lung, probably the wealthiest Celestial in Chicago and a relative of Sam Moy, explained that every piece of furnishings for the joss-house is being designed and made in China, and that the furniture will cost not less than $2,000. It will be made of ebony and other rare and costly oriental woods and will be elaborately carved and heavily decorated with gold.

The entire cost of the house will not be less than $7,000 or $8,000, and there will be nothing like it in America. It will have two large joss-rooms, with the finest Chinese hangings, decorations and furnishings. Then there will be a large general parlor or reception room for entertaining the general guests and two private parlors for special use.
The location of the joss-house is not yet known.—Chicago Post.

Will Make Speeches in America.

Keir Hardy, M. P., has decided to accept an invitation to take part in the labor campaign through the United States in the autumn. He will be the guest of the Independent Labor party and other industrial and political bodies. Frank Smith, member of the London county council, who has represented the Salvation Army at two or three conventions in America, will go too.—Cable Letter.

ROBT. R. BELLAMY BREWING CO.

These four initial letters stand for one of the largest and most extensive manufacturing enterprises in the country, which is the ROBT. R. BELLAMY BREWING CO. They manufacture the most DELICIOUS BEER which has ever been placed on the Wilmington market. They don't trade on the fears or the prejudices of anybody. Their goods sell themselves. There never has been a day when an imperfect Beer has been by them placed on this or any other market. They brew from the best and purest materials and the constant endeavor is that each output shall surpass its predecessor. It has been liberal to its customers in every conceivable way, and in Wilmington, as in many other cities, Partner's Beer has become household words.

"A Faithful Friend is hard to find, And when you find one Good and True, Don't change him for another."

These are golden words. The Robert Portner Brewing Co. has been your friend in the past, and will be in the future. Stick to them and they will stick to you.
