The spectre of the skies!
Ah! well may regal orbs burn blue,
And satellites turn pale,
Ten million cubic miles of head,

Ten billion leagues of tail!

On by whistling spheres of light, He flashes and he flames;

He turns not to the left or right,

He asks them not their names;

One spurn f om his demoniac heel,-

Away, away, they fly, Where darkness might be bottled up And sold for "Tyrian dye."

And what would happen to the land, And how would look the sea,

Full hot and high the sea would boil,

If in the bearded devil's path, Our earth should chance to be?

Full red the forests gleam; Methought I saw and heard it all

The Comet's course to spy?

Had stewed the tutor's eye;

I saw a fort—the soldiers all

Bang went the magazine.

I read upon the warping back, "The dream of Beelzebub;"

And ever and anon he bent

He could not see his verses burn,

To wet them as they dried.

Although his brain was fried,

I saw the scalding pitch roll down

Such noise about the town;

I saw a roasting pullet sit

Upon a baking egg;
1 saw a cripple scorch his hand
Extinguishing his leg;

I saw nine geese upon the wing

Towards the frozen pole,

And every mother's gosling fell Crisped to a crackling coal.

I saw the ox that browsed the gravs

Bob through the bubbling brine :

The steaming sea, the crimson glare,

That wreathed each wooded hill;

contract it is essential that it receive the assent of the parties, to be bound either as payers or performers. Parsons on Contracts, 399. In this case it is not pretended that Thomas Dewey ever accepted the note. On the contrary, the bank, through its president, and whose officer Mr. Dewey was, refused to receive the note. There is then, no contract between Mr. Dewey and the defendant. Mr. Dewey has not the legal title to the note. But the action is brought not for the benefit of Mr. Dewey or the bank, but for the use and benefit of Farrar & Brothers, to whom it was assigned by Haring Did the legal to the series of the se assigned by Hagins. Did they, by this agreement, acquire such an interest in the note as to enable them to bring this action in the name of Thomas Dewey, the original payee? We think they did not. The note in question is made payable and negotiable at the branch of the bank of the State, at Charlotte .-What is the meaning of the word negotiable? It is admitted that the note is in the usual form of such instruments. Put into plain English, the word negotiable means that the money is to be borr wed from the bank designated. The sureties bound themselves that if the bank would discount the note, they would pay it at maturity; but they do not promise to pay any other holder of the note who does not claim through the bank. Many reasons might exist why they would be willing to incur that responsibility when they would not be willing to incur it with a private individual. If the note was discounted at the bank, they knew that, after ninety days, they could take up the obligation or refuse to prolong their responsibility by joining in a renewal of the note, and then the bank might, and would, proceed to collect it. If negotiated to a private individual, years might pass before they knew where it was, or before it was presented for payment, nor could they, until it was presented for payment, know certainly that it was outstanding; whereas, if in the bank, he would know where to go, and he could, at any time after maturity, ascertain whether it had been taken up and discharged by his principal, and, if not, be enabled to secure himself. It never was intended by the defendant that the note should be thrown into market in any other way than as pointed out in his contract .--The principle centrolling the case is fully stated in Respass v. Latham, Bus. Rep. 138. That was an action of debt upon a sealed instrument; which was payable to Mrs. Parker. When presented to her, she refused to lend the money upon it, and it was returned to the obligors. Subsequently one of the obligors, and for whose use the money to be raised was intended, induced the payee to endorse it without recourse, and the money was advanced upon it by the plaintiff. The Court say, "The instrument, in its original concoction, was not intended by the defendants to be thrown into market to raise funds from any one who would advance them, but from a specified individual, and that person refusing to lend money upon it, it must be shown that the defendants agreed to the new intent, that is, becoming bound to Repass, which does not appear."

"In our case, the source from which the money was to be borrowed is specified in the instrument, to wit, the branch bank of the State, at Charlotte; and the bank having refused to discount it, the note, as to the defendant, the surety, died, and could not be revived by a transfer to Farrar & Brothers without his Jones's Reports of the Law Cases decided at the assent. Of all this the beneficial owners were aplate Term of the Supreme Court (No. 1 vol 4,) is just prised from the face of the note. At any rate, the out, and a hasty glance at it shows us two cases, one fact that Mr. Dewey, the original payee, as cashier of local and the other of general interest, which it of the bank, had not endorsed it, taken in connection may be of service to our unprofessional readers to with the tenor of the note, was sufficient to put them

The agent of the company, Mr. A. Benson, erected upon each island a flag-staff, upon which now floats the American flag, and each island has on it a small house for the protection of the property of the company, as well as a general caveat against all intruders. One great drawback to these guano islands is the want of fresh water-not a drop of which is any where to be found. Rain seldom falls, as appears by the very dry condition in which they found the guano
