Stay-at-home people often have some very singular ideas of the expenses of foreign travel. I am not writing for the information of beggars, robbers, or gamblers, but for those who take money enough with them to pay all their expenses, personal and otherwise. During my last visit to Europe visited England, France, Belgium, Holland, Germany, Switzerland, northern Italy, and Sardinia, and was gone from home about one hundred days. When I have been asked what it cost me, I have sometimes asked my questioner to 'guess' the amount. The sum named has been usually $2,000 or $2,500. It was about one-fifth of the latter sum—to wit, five hundred; and the very same scenes can be visited now for one-half that sum, and travel respectably. FEAST AT AN ENGLISH FUNERAL IN OLDEN TIME .-It is related that at the funeral feast upon the death of Sir John Pastor, which was celebrated at Bromholm Priory, in Norfolk county, in 1466, one man was kept engaged for three continuous days in no other occupation than that of flaying beasts, and provision was made of fourteen barrels of beer, twenty-seven barrels of ale, and fifteen gallons of wine. All these, however, proved inadequate to the demand; for it is stated that twenty bushels of malt at one time and forty at another were brewed up expressly for the occasion. Meat, too, was in proportion to the liquor; the country round about must have been swept of geese, chickens, capons, and of the Cape Fear River, about five miles from Wilmington. Peter the Hermit. It will be seen from what we have such small gear, all which, with the 1,300 eggs, twenty gallons of milk and eight of cream, and the forty-one pigs, forty-nine calves, and ten " nete " slain and devoured, give a fearful picture of the scene of festivity the abby walls at time beheld.
