Northern News_The Iron-Clads.

We are indebted to the courtesy of A. A. Gen. C. 13th. Most of the news it brings has been anticipated, but the following, relating to the arrival of the ironclads at Beaufort may be interesting to our people.-The loss of the Monitor is confirmed :-

BEAUFORT, N. C., Jan. 3, 1863. The iron-clad Passaic lies at anchor in Beaufort Roads. I learn that she suffered considerably on her passage down, in tow of the State of Georgia, and at one time was on the point of being abandoned. The all hopes of keeping it from the fires was given up, when one of the officers, reported to me to be the engineer, urged another rally on all the pumps. All hands, officers and crew, went to work, and finally suc-

She was entirely uninjured. Quartermaster Bowen, of this post, is entitled to great credit for the promptness and efficiency with which he discharged his duties in rendering assis tance to the Montauk. He was personally thanked by Captain Worden for his timely aid. The wind was freshening, with a heavy sea, and every prospect of a gale, when the Montauk was so happily delivered from the bank of sand in which she was embedded.

The Montauk left Fortress Monroe on the 2d inst. about three P. M., in tow of the gunboat James Adger. The sea was smooth and weather calm. On Saturday, the 5d, about eight A. She went on the point of the shoal only about the distance of her own from the Adger. Before getting off she bad to transfer her shot and shell to the tugs. Her a viest anchor was slipped, but will be recovered to-cay. The Montauk is unstrained, and ready for immediate service. Officers and crew of the Montauk all well.

His atheistical and abolition doctrines naturally brought him into the Yankee line, at hand. and at the defeat on the Yazoo he had an arm shot off, which will perhaps interfere somewhat with his penmanship, of which he was deservedly proud. Such is the fate of three abolition officers in the battle of Vicksburg, known to us by reputation.

" AID AND COMFORT TO THE ENEMY BY WHOLESALE."

Under the above singular caption, we find the following in the New York " Herald." One of our abolition organs of this city published a letter yesterday, purporting to come from the " Headquarters of the Army of the Potomac," which is a contribution by wholesale of "aid and comfort to the enemy." All the declared treasonable or disloyal publications of all the newspapers heretofore suppressed by the | ten thousand strong.
