morning, a burglar effected an entrance into the residence of Mrs. G. C. McDougald, corner of Chestnut and Ninth streets, by passing through a window, which had been left unsecured. The house is of one story only and the only occupants at the time were Mrs. McDougald, her mother-in-law and two children. Mr. McDougald was absent at the time at Rosindale, at which place he is engaged in the distilling business. It seems that the burglar first en-Dougald, when he administed chloroform to that lady, stupefying her to such a degree that he was enabled to overhant trunks and drawers, in the ware. The grasshopper plague commenced in 1873, and it was from the millions of eggs then left that the clouds of grasshoppers now come. Ten eggs may be deposited now for the one deposited in 1873. The settlers will certainly make a calculation of this kind. If the entomologists are not able to find a way to destroy the eggs of the grasshopper in the ground without the expenditure of much money, both Iowa and Minnesota will lose large unrabers of their people.
