GORILLA-BAYONET CONVENTION.

Called by Act of the Congress of the Northern States to Frame a Radical Constitution for the State of North Car-

Be it Resolved, That a select Committee of three members be appointed by the President, whose duty it shall be to ascertain and report whether corrupting influences have been used to secure the passage of any ordinance, which has been passed by this Convention, and, if so, the names of the guilty parties and all the facts connected therewith, The said Committee shall have power to send for persons and papers, administer oaths and examine witnesses. Mr. D. said it was rumored on the streets, in hotels, and everywhere, that money has been used to induce members to vote for a certain ordinance or ordinances. It is the duty of the Convention to enquire, and, if it is true, the infamous name of the delegate should be handed down to posterity; and if by any corporation or individual, that its name or the names may be also known. He did not believe that any one would vote against the resolution; and it any delegate had been so base as to receive a bribe, he hoped that it would a

The reconstruction acts did not prevent the passage of this resolution, declaring established under the authority of the superiority of the white man .-We claim that the white man has some rights left him; even under the reconstruction acts. But it is the evident intention of this Convention to go beyond the reconstruction acts, and thereby not only give civil and political equality, but to force upon the people of the State social equality. He wanted the people to know who were the men that were endeavoring to perpetrate such an outrage upon them. He intended to try, by every means in his power, to make these very radical gentlemen upon this floor come up fairly and squarely to the mark, and show, by their votes upon this question, whether they wished to force social equality between the races upon the people. It was vain for gentlemen to try to dodge the question, by saying that the Legis-lature would provide for such matters. Their votes, to-day, would tell the truth, and tear from their faces the mask under which they had hid, and the people would see and spot the men who are willing to degrade their own color by admitting to-day that social equality between the races does and shall
